SCHOOL STARTS TODAY

The clutter of bicycles, the piling out of a bus, the smiling faces on some and the dejected expressions on others all mark the opening of school. These students today were headed for classes at Davidson Junior High School in San Rafael. Summer vacation will be interrupted for another nine months of education. Rebel Prisoners Kill 9 Hostages

28 Inmates Killed In Attica Fighting

ATTICA, N.Y. (UPI) — Rebel convicts killed nine civilian employes at Attica State Prison today as more than 1,000 state troopers, National Guardsmen and sheriffs' deputies stormed the facility. One unconfirmed report said 28 prisoners died in the gunfire.

The insurgent inmates had held 38 hostages since the outbreak erupted last Thursday. Twenty-nine hostages were freed, including four in critical condition.

The throats of eight hostages had been slashed, officials said, and one employe was shot to death. In addition, a guard died Saturday of injuries suffered when thrown from a window.

A helicopter decoyed the prisoners at the start of the assault by flying over one corner of Cellblock "D". When the prisoners seemed distracted, two other choppers began dropping tear gas and the authorities opened fire as they attacked the high-walled prison.

Nearly four hours after the massive assault on the prison began, fighting continued.

At first, officers poured hundreds of shots and tear gas canisters into the besieged prison. Throughout the morning sporadic firing came from inside the gray walls.

The attack on the prison came after prisoners rejected an appeal from state Correction Commissioner Russell G. Oswald to release the hostages. Oswald said he had no alternative because prisoners were becoming in creasingly well-armed with knives made in a prison shop they controlled. He said they also were erecting barricades that soon would have been difficult to break through.

"It became apparent to me that the situation was rapidly deteriorating and it was evident the prisoners were not going to cooperate," he said. "Their behavior was not too much different than their behavior on the streets, where several were convicted of manslaughter and murder."

Capt. Elmer Huehn, one of the freed hostages, said the prisoners "became more militant" after the ultimatum was delivered.

"We were so near death so many times in the last five days, it's unbelievable, unbelievable," Heuhn said. "After the ultimatum they held a knife to my throat. But the Puerto Rican guy didn't have the heart to do it."

Gov A. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who said before the attack he could not legally grant the prisoners' demands for amnesty, postponed his trip to the National Governor's Conference in Puerto Rico and remained in his New York City office.

The convicts had threatened to kill their hostages if their

San Francisco Busing Boycott

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The largest elementary school integration and busing program in the nation went into effect today with evidence of a widespread boycott.

In Chinatown, where opposition to the court-ordered program to bus 26,000 San Francisco children to new schools ran highest, the boycott was virtually complete in some cases. One bus went out with only one child. Others carried only 5 per cent of assigned students.

At U. S. Navy facilities at Treasure Island, where children for the first time were being bused elsewhere, a total of 571 students were assigned to buses and 149 actually went.

In scattered checks elsewhere in the city, buses appeared to be carrying about half their assigned students.

No violence was reported and only light picketing at scattered locations. School officials said the boycott was a familiar reaction which had been experienced in previous busing programs and were hopeful the children would start coming to school over the next few days.

At Chinatown's Commodore Stockton School, the first bus went out with one lonely little Eurasian girl, Mickey Metcalf, 7, as its occupant. Chinatown residents strongly resisted the busing which they said would destroy their traditional Chinese schools.

Later buses out of Chinatown to schools in other parts of the city appeared to be carrying only about 5 per cent of the children assigned to them

Incoming buses to the Chinatown schools were about half full.

"It will pick up," said Caesar Orsine, principal of Commodore Stockton. "It will pick up. Every day."

Mickey's mother said she was taking part in the program because an integrated society "is the true society."

"It's the law," she said. "It will take a while to work out."

Other Chinese parents, whose children were to ride on later buses, said they did not agree with the program but would take part in it. "I am working," said Mrs. Peach Marteinz. "we can't do anything else."

The Board of Education hired a private firm to provide 130 new yellow buses to carry out the court-ordered integration program for the city's 97 grammar schools. The city's junior and senior high schools were not involved.

U.S. District Judge Stanley A. Weigel in July ordered the

Post-Freeze Council Role Backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Archie K. Davis, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, recommended today that the Cost of Living Council be kept in existence to oversee whatever economic controls are imposed following the 90-day wage-price-rent freeze.

Just before going to the White House to join in a meeting of 11 business leaders with President Nixon, Davis said the group would tell the President they applaud his economic moves while favoring a return to a 'free market" as soon as possible.

"But Phase 2 (the period after the freeze) has to be a gradual winding down," Davis said.

Davis' position —which he said reflected the feelings of the other business leaders attending the meeting —was in conflict with AFL-CIO President George Meany, who has recommended that Phase 2 be controlled by an independent board of labor, business and the public.

Prior to the second of a series of meetings he is holding with various groups to discuss post-freeze plans, Nixon met with members of his Cabinet and their wives. They crowded around the big Cabinet table.

The conference with the business group immediately followed, starting shortly before 11 a.m. EDT, in the same room. On hand among Nixon advisers were the chairman and vic3 chairman of the Cost of Living Council, Tre asury Secretary John B. Connally and Paul W. McCracken, head of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Davis was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today Show.

Davis said Meany's plan for a nongovernment board would not work. "I think it would be a mistake to start out that way because you would pit business and labor and the public against each other," Davis said.

Davis said the present Cost of Living Council, composed of Cabinet level members, was the logical and the best group to control Phase 2. The council

Marin Heat Wave; Mercury Hits 107

The hottest weather of a relatively cool summer hit Marin and Southern Sonoma counties yesterday and temperatures ranged as high as 107 degrees in Novato.

The weatherman promised little immediate relief but said cooling air will arrive toward the end of the week.

"It's just hot; that's all," a National Weather Service meteorologist said.

As for smog, a spokesman for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District described the situation yesterday as "well above the adverse level." He noted that "the oxidant count was high in San Rafael." The oxidant count, he said, was .19 per million parts compared to .10, the adverse level set by the state. (See smog readings, page 9).

Carbon monoxide and nitrogen dioxide counts were low, however, he said.

The spokesman said, "Allowing for haze and a few other things, it wasn't as bad yesterday as it has been and not as bad as we're expecting today."

The hot weather coincided with the opening of school in many districts, giving credence to the folklore that there's always a heat wave for the beginning of the school year.

High temperatures in Marin and Southern Sonoma yesterday were San Rafael, 101; Fairfax, 97; San Anselmo, 101; Terra Linda, 104; Hamilton Air Force Base, 98; Novato, 107; Petaluma, 102; Woodacre, 105; Sausalito, 98; Mill Valley, 92; Bolinas, 80, and Tamalpais Valley, 90.

FORMER HURRICANE'S LEGACY

Refugees load into a National Guard truck in Sinton, Tex. after south Texas was flooded by hurricane Fern which died in the northeastern Mexico mountains yesterday. Another tropical storm, Heidi, churned in the Atlantic and small craft warning flew from Cape Hatteras to New England. Hurricane Ginger flung 90 mile-per-hour winds east of Bermuda. Former hurricane Edith, which claimed 35 lives in Nicaragua, drifted into the Gulf of Mexico.

Viets Capture Red Supplies And Guns

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Black Panther forces destroyed a Communist supply cache hidden near the Laotian border and in the same mountain jungles captured three 122mm long range North Vietnamese guns, military spokesmen said today.

It was the first major success for a 13,000-man South Vietnamese task force now in the second week of a sweep across 625 square miles of rugged terrain below the Demilitarized one (DMZ).

South Vietnamese military spokesmen said a 220-man Black Panther unit operating 11 miles northwest of the old Khe Sanh combat base and about one-half mile from Laos Sunday and early today withstood a barrage of about 100 "undetermined type" shells directed at their position and took no casualties.

They said the unit located and destroyed three Soviet-built Molotova trucks, 1,400 gallons of gasoline, 200 rounds of 82mm mortar shells and nearly 5,000 pounds of bagged rice concealed in a cave complex near the border.

The unit also found the bodies of 27 North Vietnamese soldiers killed earlier in some of the massive air strikes which have been supporting the operation along with three Soviet-made 122mm field artillery pieces, the spokesman said.

American B52 bombers late Sunday and early today supported the drive with six more missions, dropping upwards of 500 tons of explosives.

McGovern Arrives In Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., arrived today in South Vietnam on his round-the-world fact-finding tour and criticized President Nguyen Van Thieu's one-man race for re-election in October.

McGovern, the only announced Democratic candidate for the U.S. presidential election in 1972, shrugged off an earlier threat by South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky that if McGovern ever appeared in Vietnam Ky would kick him out.

"Since Gen. Ky made that statement he has joined me as a critic of the Thieu government," McGovern said upon arrival from Paris. "Perhaps we are not as far apart as when he made that statement."

McGovern had angered Ky several months ago when he attempted to link the vice president with drug smuggling. Ky said McGovern was a "tool of the Communists."

En route to Vietnam, McGovern had a stopover in Tel Aviv and told a news conference he felt it was vital for the United States to send Israel more Phantom jet fighterbombers.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Nader Rips VW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader says the highly popular Volkswagen beetle is "the most hazardous car currently in use in significant numbers in the United States" and the bigger microbus should be barred permanently from the road.

Nader, in a 200-page report issued during the weekend, urged the German manufacturer to recall all three million VW's which he said have been sold to American buyers and to correct a variety of alleged safety hazards.

Volkswagen immediately defended its products, saying it met or exceeded all safety standards and is "providing millions of owners with safe, dependable and economical transportation."

Nader claimed the recall would cost Volkswagen $184 million and was necessary to correct these alleged hazards:

"The danger of injury from the windshield, the weakness of the seat backs, the likelihood of the doors opening in a crash, the consequent likelihood of passenger ejection, the dangerous location of the gasoline tank, the propensity of the gas cap and the gas lines to come off during a crash, steering column penetration in a frontal crash, the vulnerability of the doors to side impacts, extraordinary sidewind sensitivity and handling qualities which make the car unpredictable."

Warned Of Fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — A former engineer with the Apollo program, John Dietz, had warned 15 days before the Apollo 1 fire that killed three astronauts that there was a danger of fire on the space capsule, Life magazine said yesterday.

Astronauts Gus Grissom, Ed White and Roger Chaffee were killed during the ground test at Cape Kennedy Jan. 27, 1967. Dietz' report supports a $10 million suit filed by Grissom's widow against North American Rockwell Corp., the prime contractor for the spacecraft, Life said.

Dietz, a General Electric employee working on the Apollo project in Houston, became concerned about fire danger when a fire broke out during an April, 1966, test of an Apollo environmental control system.

Dietz tried to get a rundown on inflammable materials in the capsule and North American offered to make a survey for $93,200 which was not paid, Life said.

Fatal Pileup

WARRINGTON, England (UPI) — About 200 cars and trucks crashed into each other today on a fog-bound superhighway in northwestern England, leaving dead, injured and crushed vehicles in one of the worst automobile pileups in British history.

Police said at least eight persons were killed, more than 50 others were injured and more bodies were being recovered from the wreckage strewn over the M6 Motorway near Warrington, 15 miles southeast of Liverpool.

Firemen fought truck blazes and with blow torches helped ambulance drivers cut dead and injured from the bulks of twisted metal.

Police said the huge pileup occurred when several trucks collided while speeding along the motorway despite flashing warning signs to slow down because of dense fog conditions.

36-24-34 And Beautiful

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Laura Lea Schaefer of Ohio, Miss America 1972, is brown-haired, green-eyed, 36-24-34, and, of course, beautiful.

Laura

She is against premarital sex, has been offered drugs by her peers but refused, always wore skirts or dresses to class, feels President Nixon is doing a good job, says she is political conservative, and has a boy friend in Columbus.

The boy friend says "the country's choice merely points up my good taste."

"I'm not a typical co-ed, but I feel the majority of my peers feel the way I do," she said Sunday in her first press conference.

Measles Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Public Health Service is extending its vaccination program against German measles to teen-age girls and women.

The PHS previously has concentrated on vaccinating youngsters as the means of eliminating rubella, which can cause defects in unborn children when contracted by pregnant women.

Dr. H. Bruce Dull, an assistant director of the PHS center for disease control in Atlanta, said the program aimed at teen-agers and women is still "low priority."

Dull said in an interview yesterday that the only non-children vaccinated are those who, through testing, seem susceptible to the disease.

Belfast Bombing

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The two men walked from their car, left a package in the building doorway and drove off. The delivery took only seconds.

Anywhere else it might not have attracted much attention. But in Belfast residents know it usually means only one thing. Their reaction last night was almost instinctive — they dived for cover.

Moments later the supermarket near Brae Hill Park on the Upper Crumlin road was rubble. Two elderly women living in a nearby house suffered cuts from flying glass.

It was one of a dozen incients of violence in the province yesterday. In Belfast and Londonderry, British troops came under attack from Roman Catholic crowds and a man electrocuted himself while trying to pull down a power pylon.

Sacrament Change

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican announced today a change in the centuries-old formula used in confirmation, one of the seven sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church.

The new rite calls for anointing with perfumed oil instead of the traditional laying on of hands, and a different set of words said by the bishop.

The reform is outlined in a document signed by Pope Paul VI. Msgr. Aime Martimort of the Vatican department for divine worship said the reform is aimed at giving the sacrament greater meaning for modern men.

At confirmation, Roman Catholics believe they receive the gift of the Holy Spirit and become full members of the church.

Few Minorities In Management

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Women and minority workers are under-represented in managerial and policy-making jobs, according to the latest survey of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

The commission said 1.7 per cent of blacks in the work force held positions of authority in 1970, although 10 per cent of the workers were Negro.

Spanish-surnamed Americans comprised 3.6 per cent of the total employment and, the commission said, reflected "slight improvements" in occupational distribution. But they held only 1.0 per cent of the managerial positions.

Sweden publishes 518 copies of newspapers per 1,000 of its population, says the United Nations.

Nikita Khrushchev Buried In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—Nikita S. Khrushchev was buried today in the least hallowed part of Moscow's second best cemetery. The Kremlin said goodbye with a seven-foot wreath of pine boughs and a seven-line Pravda obituary for the man it called a "merit pensioner."

No Communist Party or government leaders were present at the funeral of this unperson who had ruled as premier and party leader until he was deposed in 1964. He was denied burial in the wall of the Kremlin, the pantheon of Soviet heroes.

The eulogy was by his blonde, bespectacled son, Sergei, who stood in a light mist, occasionally glancing down at the open coffin draped in black and red crepe. "There were many who loved him, many who hated him, but few could pass him by," he said.

It was a funeral for a man, not a political leader, and there was no hint of politics in the brief service. Khrushchev lay in a simple wooden casket, his body covered with a red satin coverlet which left his face free. His medals, including three stars of the Hero of the Soviet Union, the nation's highest honor, were strewn across his feet. They were buried with him.

Khrushchev's wife of 48 years, Nina Petrovna, was there in a black lace mantilla and a black coat. She stepped forward and bent over Khrushchev's face for farewell. She caressed his forehead, her fingertips moving from one side to the other in what appeared to be a religious gesture. She gently kissed his forehead and hands.

The tears flowed at the end when graveyard workmen stepped forward in their blue overalls and pounded shut the lid of the coffin, which was lowered on ropes into the grave while a black-suited brass band played the national anthem.

All that was left at the end was a mound of dirt, the pine bough wreath and a white stone marker bearing Khrushchev's portrait and a gold engraving: "Khrushchev, Nikita Sergeyevich. 1894-1971."

Khruschev died Saturday at the age of 77 in the suburban Kremlin hospital from a massive heart attack. His coffin lay open in the hospital's Hall of Mourning and was taken today to Novodevichy Cemetery, a burial ground for the not-so-great and the has-beens.

Only one famous Soviet citizen mourned publicly over Khrushchev's body, not at the cemetery but at a wake in the Hall of Mourning. He was Yevgeny Yevtushenko, the firebrand poet who made his literary name when Khrushchev relaxed the censorship of Josef V. Stalin.

Yevtushenko stood briefly gazing down at Khrushchev's face. His mouth was set in a grim line as though he were working to control emotion. He did not weep and he walked away after a minute or so.

There were many Russians who thought their bluff and earthy Nikita deserved the honor of burial in the Kremlin wall for his role in ending Stalinist terror, but they said so privately.

About 250 persons, family, friends and a small crowd of unknown Russians admirers stood in the remote and little honored corner of the cemetery. One, a woman in a blue raincoat, bent over the coffin and wept uncontrollably.

The burial site was in a remote corner of the cemetery.

It was as far as one could get from the inner sanctum area where other honored political figures such as the wife of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin are buried, diagonally across the sprawling cemetery and within sight of elevated railway trains that pass outside the cemetery walls.

San Diego Bank Of America Bombed

VISTA, Calif. (UPI)—A Bank of America branch was firebombed Sunday, touching off a blaze which caused $1,600 damage.

The San Diego County sheriff's office said a Molotov cocktail was thrown through a rear window. No one was in the bank at the time.

BICYCLISTS' REST STOP

A bicycle inn and coffee house for weary bicycle riders pedaling through Larkspur will be considered by the city's planning commission tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall. Proposed for the site of the old Banfield Rug Cleaners on Magnolia Avenue, the "inn" will feature lounge areas inside and out, a coffee bar and restaurant and various displays. The rest stop will retian the old buildings original style and charm, according to developer Peter Tolger of Larkspur.

Police Fail To Get 'Fix' On Robbers

LONDON (UPI)—A ham radio operator overheard a band of bank robbers chatting away on walkie talkies Sunday as they looted a branch of Lloyd's Bank, but police were helpless because they could not get a fix on the radio conversation.

Today, the Lloyd's branch on Baker Street in the fashionable Marlyebone District of London found the thieves had tunneled into the strongroom and got away with "a substantial sum, possibly hundreds of thousands of pounds."

The radio ham told police he heard one of the robbers say, "We are sitting on 500,000 pounds ($1.2 million)."

In the transmissions monitored and taped around 2 a.m. Sunday the robbers also talked of "fumes from cutting apparatus," "getting sandwiches and flasks of tea" and "taking a rest."

The radio ham, whose name was withheld, said one robber seemed to be speaking from inside the bank and the other from a rooftop lookout.

British Post Office detector vans fanned out to try to get a "fix" on the transmission. They narrowed them to a 10-mile radius around Marlyebone when the walkie-talkie chatter stopped. Police and detectives swarmed through Marlyebone Sunday checking banks, including the Lloyd's branch on Baker Street. But they detected nothing amiss and left—without bothering to check inside the strong room.

Bank representatives and police found the strong room door secure and "everything seemed to be okay," a Scotland Yard spokesman said. "Only on arrival of the staff this morning it was found entry had been made by a hole in the strong room floor."

Sensitivity Of Fish To Pollution Probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It doesn't take an awful lot of pollution to jeopardize the survival chances of fish and other marine species.

Just a little will do the trick if it disrupts the chemical communication systems on which such creatures depend.

Scientists of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution told the American Chemical Society's annual meeting today that less than lethal amounts of pollutants can turn a thriving marine community into a dying one. Affected are such senses as smell and taste.

Said Dr. David B. Boylan, a Woods Hole chemist:

"One of the weakest links in the life chain of aquatic organisms may be the dependence of this life on the use of certain chemical signals for communication."

"Natural chemicals, either released from other organisms or present in the aquatic environment," he said, "serve to stimulate certain actions such as attraction to food, attraction of male to female, recognition of predators by prey, recognition of homestream territory by migrating fish, and many others."

Consider the lobster. Boylan found in a study of oil pollution that lobsters, for some reason, were attracted to extremely low dilutions of kerosene, though it did them no good and interfered with their normal chemical communication.

This caused many changes in normal lobster behavior and resulted in "a decrease in local population density."

Boylan said population effects of pollution "could be catastrophic" in the case of far-ranging fish such as salmon, which come home to spawn only in the streams where they were born.

Such fish are able to sense the "chemical fingerprint" of their homestreams even though the water differs only slight from adjacent streams.

How much or how little or what kind of pollution would it take to destroy the ability of fish to find their exclusive spawning sites after a lifetime at sea? The Woods Hole scientists hope to find out.

To Report Findings

Two U.S. Public Health doctors who conducted a roving clinic in West Marin this summer and studied medical needs will report their findings to directors of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin County, Inc. at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Coral Room of Marin General Hospital.

Jackie Tells Of Churchill Influence

BOSTON (UPI) —According to Jacqueline Onassis, the books of Winston Churchill helped shape John F. Kennedy and may influence the late president's son.

Mrs. Onassis discussed her son John, the late president, Churchill's books and Churchill's son Randolph, in a book just published here — "The Grand Original," edited by Kay Halle (Hought on Mifflin, $7.93).

The book contains memoirs of the late Randolph Churchill by persons who knew him, including former prime minister Harold MacMillan of Britain, Aristotle Onassis and Mrs. Onassis whowrote:

"I can't write what I feel about Randolph.

"He was my friend.

"You know how Jack and Bobby (the late Robert F. Kennedy) loved him — but did you know how my son John loved him?

"It started whenJohn was 4 to 5 and Randolph came to the cape. He was fascinating to children — as least to John. . .

"Randolph had decided to have first editions of all Winston Churchill's books beautifully bound and was going to give them to Jack's library. . .

"But on Sunday after he had left Hyannisport he wrote me that he disapproved of giving things to institutions —and he sent them all in a painted tin trunk, to give to John. There are 49 volumes and they are in the bookshelves in the dinning-room, beside Jack's (copy of Winston's biography of his ancestor the first Duke of) Marlborough, which he read when he had scarlet fever as a boy, and the Churchill books he had at Harvard.

"At supper the children have invented a guessing game — 'which of Winston Churchill's books are they thinking on?' They used to stump Bobby with it, and be so delighted, as he would always guess the ones we have all read —and they would rattle off, 'London to Ladysmith via Pretoria,' 'Painting as a Pastime,' 'Savrola'. . .

"John is always taking one out —together they cover about 10 running feet —and asking me what it is about. It is because he enjoyed Randolph that he cares about the books.

"If, when he is older, he finds in them what his father found in them —that would be this strange, touching legacy of Randolph's. Winston Churchill and Randolph outlived Jack — but maybe Randolph will be the one to draw John to the books that shaped John's father.

"Thatounds too sentimental.

"That sounds too sentimental. Maybe John won't like books at all. . ."

Marin parking to climb to $16,784.00 per hour.

Just five years ago, you could park in most lots for just a quarter an hour or so. Today you're lucky if it's a dollar. Our research staff has examined this and it appears that, at this quadrupling rate, parking will cost you $16,784.00 an hour by the year 2006. Well, we'd like to point out that we have a swell 250 car parking lot, so at the moment we offer free parking and charge only for our excellent food and drink. (But if our researchers are right, it will be the other way around in 2006. You can bet on that.)

Goldberg Supports Continued Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Democrat Arthur J. Goldberg, in sharp dispute with the administration view, testified today that nothing less than blanket controls would be needed to control inflation when the wage-price freeze ends.

Goldberg, former general counsel of the United Steel workers union and the old CIO, Secretary of Labor, Supreme Court justice and United Nations ambassador, disagreed with the White House and some prominent liberal Democrats in rejecting post-freeze selective controls of the economy.

"Patch work controls will result in a chaotic labor and price situation which will not be tolerated" by the public at large, Goldberg told the House-Senate Economic Committee.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr., chairman of the Cost of Living Council which is to map out the next step after the freeze, has already rejected across-the-board controls enforced by a huge bureaucracy.

Some Democrats, notably economist John Kenneth Galbraith and Chester Bowles, the former administrator of World War II wage-price controls, have argued that controls need be imposed on the wages and prices of only the largest corporations.

Goldberg said he could not agree "with my friends Chester Bowles and Mr. Galbraith."

He proposed that an agency headed by labor, corporate and public representatives be set up to administer controls after the freeze ends.

Goldberg testified at one of three hearings on Capitol Hill today on the economic situation. AFL-CIO President George Meany appeared at a House hearing.

As the freeze entered its fifth week, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., offered more criticism of the President's strategy, saying it "is far too weak ... to stimulate the economy and provide the jobs we need."

Proxmire, the influential chairman of the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, predicted Sunday that the President's program might drive unemployment up from the present level of about 6 per cent to 6.5 per cent through next year unless stronger steps are taken.

The Wisconsin Democrat advocated action to get more money into the hands of lower income people. Specifically, he proposed delay of the Social Security tax increase scheduled for Jan. 1, repeal of the administration's accelerated depreciation rules for businessmen and immediate enactment of Nixon's welfare reform plan.

Meany, head of the 13.5 million-member AFL-CIO, called for tax reforms and an excess profits tax on corporations, which he said stand to reap a $70 billion windfall over the next decade under Nixon's 10 per cent investment tax credit proposal.

The labor leader, who repeatedly has attacked the program Nixon outlined almost a month ago, said the President's tax proposals "will create few jobs if any ...give no stimulus to the economy and ... make the tax burden of all American families even more inequitable."

NIXON

was created hastily when Nixon announced his economic program Aug. 15.

The executive director of the council, Arnold N. Weber, said in an interview carried by the New;York Times today that he was not free to discuss whether the group would continue in existence beyond the Nov. 13 end of the wage-price freeze.

Weber said he felt it had done its job "reasonably well" and was now operating, with less than one-third of the 90-day period gone, "on a national scale" after starting with two or three persons.

Davis challenged a charge by Meany that Nixon's economic moves favored business over the working man. Davis said business was not going to be able to meet the challenge of foreign competition and to create more jobs "unless we improve our competitive efficiency."

One schism developed in the ranks of the businessmen. Wilson Johnson, president of the National Federation of Independent Businessmen, said his 300,000 member organization felt the unlimited 10 per cent investment tax credit favored big business over the smaller businessman.

He said the smaller business people applaud in principle the concept of investment credit, but believe the President's proposal favors big corporations. Johnson, in a statement fo UPI, suggested a $100,000 ceiling.

Other business leaders invited to the meeting included Robert C. Bassett, National Association of Small Businessmen; Stephen D. Bechtel, Jr., president, Bechtel Corp.; Berkeley Burrell, president, National Business League; Edward W. Carter, president, Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc.; Edward J. Dwyer, president, ESB, Inc.; William M. Batten, chairman, J. C. Penney, Inc.; R. Heath Larry, vice chairman, U.S. Steel Corp.; James M. Roche, chairman, General Motors Corp.; and Walter B. Wriston, chairman, first National City Bank.

Nixon met Friday with labor leaders, who promised to cooperate in the post-freeze policy if it is "equitable and fair."

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said over the weekend that Nixon would announce his new policy in mid-October. The administration's economic advisers are due to make their recommendations by Sept. 30.

Nixon planned to follow up his talks with the business executives by meeting Tuesday with a group of agricultural leaders and Friday with key members of Congress. He said last week that he would be consulting many people outside the government before making his final decisions on phase II of the administration's economic stabilization program.

Heart Implants In Big Decline

CHICAGO (UPI)—Expanded techniques in direct coronary artery surgery and disappointment over the post-operative results of heart transplant cases have resulted in a sharp decline in heart transplants, according to an article in the current issue of Journal of the American Medical Association.

The report, prepared by the American College of Surgeons —National Institutes of Health Organ Transplant Registry, is the first summary of world transplant experiences, the AMA said.

The first human heart transplant was performed in December, 1967. In the 12 months following that initial operation, 101 such operations were performed, the article said.

However, it said, in 1969 and 1970, the number dropped sharply and in 1970, only 17 heart transplants were performed.

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The Lyndon Baines Johnson library, dedicated this spring on the University of Texas campus by Johnson and President Nixon, is the fifth library built and dedicated to American presidents.

Park Guide Considered

Don't make another Yosemite Park out of Point Reyes National Seashore — keep cars and people from desecrating the natural environment.

This is the guiding principle that runs throughout a joint recommendation hammered out today by the Marin County planning commissioners and the parks and recreation commissioners during a two hour discussion at the Civic Center.

The two groups agreed that a southern access point proposed by the National Park Service at Palomarin should be reconsidered because this access would harm environment and the Bolinas area.

900 More GIs Leave Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—Withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam last week dropped to the lowest level in seven months with 900 soldiers going home, cutting the force in Vietnam to 215,800 men, military spokesmen said today.

The pullouts were spread over the Army, Air Force and Navy to bring troop strength in the war zone to the fewest number of GIs since February, 1966, when 208,000 servicemen were in the area.

Spokesmen said the cutback from the previous week's total of 216,700 was achieved by reducing army strength by 700 to 169,700, Navy by 100 to 9,900 and Air Force by 100 to 35,600. The marines with 500 men and 100 Navymen remained steady.

X-rays were discovered by Wilhelm Roentgen, a German physicist.

Two Dogs Kill Five Sheep

Two "husky-type" dogs killed four sheep and a ewe on Ross Valley Sanitary District property in Greenbrae "this morning or last night," according to Jack Faulkner, shelter superintendent of the Marin County Humane Society.

Faulkner said the two dogs were shot, but he hadn't learned the details of the episode. The dogs didn't have license tags or collars, he reported.

"This shows what can happen if people let dogs run loose," he said.

ATTICA

demands for amnesty were not met. Authorities ignored the amnesty demand and ordered the attack.

"Surrender peacefully. You will not be harmed," a bull horn blared to the prisoners. "Surrender the hostages. Surrender the hostages. Lie down on the floor and put your hands on your head."

The attack on the prison came without warning. Rockefeller had signed the executive order calling up the National Guard hours earlier, but it was not announced.

The assault started with a small helicopter sent to one corner of the huge cellblock building to divert the attention of the rebels. Soon after, two larger Army 'copters moved in, dumping what one official called "tons" of tear gas on the building.

State troopers and deputies stormed through the front gate toward the cellblock, halted for several moments by barricades at every intersection.

When they entered the outer part of the cellblock, they found eight bodies.

"It was horrible, just unbelievable," one trooper said.

Twenty minutes after the assault began, a National Guard artillery battalion entered with several hundred men and Red Cross ambulances. Three hours later, a plea went out for more ambulances to bring out the dead and injured from the gray walled prison.

An Army demolition team discovered explosives inside the prison and said the prisoners had dug underground tunnels and wired them with homemade bombs.

A light rain fell on the prison throughout the morning. Tear gas clung like fog to the prison buildings.

As the lucky hostages were freed, their names were read by officials to relatives waiting outside the main gate. Some wept for joy; others waited to hear the fate of husbands and sons.

State Policy: No Bargaining

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The California Department of Corrections said today it would be "contrary" to long-standing rules for prison officials to negotiate with convicts who held hostages.

The policy, in effect for 25 years, declares that "hostages shall not be recognized for bargaining purposes" and that "all inmates shall be informed of this rule."

A department spokesman stopped short of saying that a revolt and bargaining session such as occurred at Attica State Prison in New York couldn't occur in California institutions under the policy. The Attica convicts held 38 hostages.

Agnew To Address Chief Convention

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will deliver the keynote address at the annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police Sept. 27.

The association made the announcement Sunday and estimated that 4,500 police executives from the United States and 62 other member nations would attend.

Suspected Killer To Be Extradited

NEVADA CITY (UPI)—Nevada County District Attorney Harold Berliner said today that Clarence Otis Smith will be brought to California this week to face charges that he is the sickle killer of Dog Bar.

Berliner said that Sheriff Wayne Brown will leave Wednesday for Texas where he will pick up Smith and return with him either Thursday or Friday.

OBITUARIES

Edward Z. Lewis, Stinson Beach, Dies

Edward Z. Lewis of Stinson Beach, president of the Bolinas-Stinson School District board, collapsed and died yesterday while playing tennis in Stinson Beach.

The 58-year-old Lewis had a history of heart trouble, according to Deputy Coroner Donald L. Cornish, who said death was apparently from natural causes.

A native of Chicago, Ill., Lewis had lived in California 26 years and in Marin County 25 years, residing at 340 Seadrift Road. Before moving to Stinson Beach six years ago, Lewis had lived in Ross for 19 years.

For the past 25 years Lewis was president of the San Francisco firm of Lewis and Taylor, Inc., building maintenance contracters. He was also a former vice president for Welsh, Davis and Co., Chicago investment brokers.

Between 1941 and 1945 he served on the U.S. War Production Board and in 1944-45 was a civilian employee of the U.S. Army signal corps.

Lewis, who had served on the Bolinas-Stinson school board since 1967, was also a member of the San Francisco Kiwanis Club, the Sierra Club, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and the United World Federalists.

He is survived by three sons: David M. Lewis of San Anselmo; Stephen W. Lewis of Fairfax and Christopher Lewis of Tokyo; two sisters, Mrs. De Witt Davis and Mrs. James Hynes, both of Illinois and six grandchildren. Lewis's wife, Jane, died Aug. 10 in a local hospital after a long illness.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Chapel of the Hills in San Anselmo.

SCHOOLS

schools integrated as a result of a suit by the NAACP. The school board adopted a plan dividing the city into seven busing zones.

Police dispatched patrolmen to possible trouble spots as the new school year opened. City officials urged antibusing parents to refrain from violence.

The school board Friday held a "dry run" for parents and their children. Although the turnout was sparse, board officials said effort was 85 per cent effective.

In the "dry run" many buses were late, some failed to show up at the appointed hour and others went to the wrong loading zones.

All children were given name tags to be worn on their outer clothing. The tag listed the child's name, the number of his bus, his classroom and school.

Since the court order, many neighborhood organizations were formed in opposition. Leaders urged parents to boycott the program. Some urged parents to send their children to their regular neighborhood schools.

Many antibusing parents pulled their children out of the public schools and sent them to parochial and private institutions.

Mayor Joseph Alioto, opposed to busing, warned that violence, including efforts to block buses or prevent students from getting aboard, would not be tolerated by police.

Among the most outspoken opponents of busing were parents in the Chinese community and the parents on Treasure Island, a Navy installation in the middle of San Francisco Bay. Four "freedom schools" were formed in Chinatown for parents who did not want their children moved out of the neighborhood.

The state superintendent of public instruction, Wilson C. Riles, a Negro, urged residents to give "the children a chance" to make the plan work.

However, he did say San Francisco was an example of how not to integrate schools. He said the city had abrogated its responsibilities to the courts which were not competent to rule on specific desegregation plans.

When that happens, he said, parents lose confidence in the schools and extremists on "ego trips" take over.

"Suddenly people make believe you're tearing babies away from their mothers' breasts and you're taking them God knows where, and, if they get the bellyache, they're going to die," Riles said. "It becomes easy for political people to ride the tide of emotion."

Santa Rosa Woman Leaps To Death

A Santa Rosa woman leaped to her death yesterday from the Golden Gate Bridge, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Witnesses said Maxine Imanell Pennington stopped her southbound car near the bridge's north tower about 4:15 p.m. and jumped in full view of motorists and pedestrians. Despite Coast Guard efforts at recovery, her body has not been found, the patrol said.

China Gains Foothold In Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI)—The awesome image of China dissolved in coconut drinks and lilting Malay songs last week at the end of the seven-day visit of the first official delegation from the Communist mainland to Malaysia.

Dancing the gay Malay "joget," the 13-man team of Peking trade officials celebrated the conclusion of a substantial trade agreement in the company of well-proportioned Malay girls at a leading nightspot.

Their host was Mohamed Khir Johari, minister of commerce and industry. Instead of austere Mao jackets, the Chinese donned bright--patterned "Batek" sport shirts made in rural Malaysia.

There was plenty of reason for both sides to be jolly. China established its first friendly foothold in this part of Southeast Asia. Malaysia took another giant stride toward patching up differences with her once arch-foe.

Chang Kuang-tou, director of the China Chemical Import-Export Corporation and leader of the delegation, told a dinner gathering, "Our ties stretch back to a thousand years. But the imperialists interfered. I am confident the exchange of such visit will lead to a further strengthening of ties between the peoples of Malaysia and China."

The third day the Chinese were here, Chang led five colleagues in a meeting with Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak. It was Razak who turned Malaysia from pro-Western anticommunism to non-alignment in foreign affairs last September after he took over as head of government from Tengku Abdul Rahman.

Their 40-minute talk was reported to have ranged from table-tennis to Razak's proposal for neutralization of Southeast Asia.

Razak is seeking guarantees by China, the United States and the Soviet Union in the form of a United Nations declaration for non-interference in a neutralized Southeast Asia. He says he also wants eventual diplomatic ties with Peking, but adds China must recognize Malaysia as an independent sovereign nation and stop interfering in her internal affairs.

Communist China traditionally has lent moral and some physical support to Communist insurgency in Malaysian jungles along the Thai and Indonesian borders.

Chang's visit appeared to be a definite step in Razak's desired direction. Chang significantly spoke of "Malaysia" and not "Malaya," the form China used before to imply nonrecognition of the Malaysian federation.

Chang's team spent three days of talks with officials from the national trading corporation, Pernas. Pernas recently took over from local Chinese merchants all Malaysian trading with China.

Four million resident Chinese form Malaysia's largest minority and control much of the economy here. The fact China has agreed to trade with an agency sponsored by the Malay dominated government rather than individual Chinese entrepreneurs was taken in official circles as a positive diplomatic gesture.

It also calmed fears among Malaysia's 5 million Malay majority that a detente with China will stir racial passions among Malaysian Chinese, most of whom maintain at least sentimental feeling for their former homeland.

During the visit no activity was reported between security forces and border Communists near the frontier with Thailand. Razak seeks to pull the rug from under the local Communist terrorists by his wooing of China.

In the final communique Chang's team pledged to make Malaysia their main source of rubber for an indefinite period.

The communique said direct trade links had been established and government-owned Malaysian and Chinese ships will begin calling at each others ports "as a big step forward" toward formal trade ties.

Mass Wedding Is Planned In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (UPI)—Ester Zuno de Echeverria, wife of President Luis Echeverria, will officiate Sept. 24 at the mass wedding of 1,300 couples who have lived together for years under common law.

The wedding will take place in a working class suburb of Mexico City. The Mexican government will pay legal fees and host the brides, bridegrooms and, in many cases, their children and grandchildren at a fiesta after the ceremony.

Cranston Says Draft Not Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said today the 75-day lapse of the draft law showed it was not needed and vowed to continue a filibuster against stalled legislation to extend selective service two more years.

As the Senate resumed debate on the measure following a long recess, Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott announced at the same time he would soon initiate a formal move to put "an end to this farce" and halt debate.

The measure has been before Congress for seven months. The previous draft law technically expired June 30 but the system continues to operate, other than induction of men.

The proposal opposed by Cranston would extend selective service until June 30, 1973, and would give the military its largest pay raise in history.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he would not support the filibuster forces but declined to commit himself on Scott's cloture proposal.

However, the Montana Democrat suggested he might favor sending the controversial legislation back to a House-Senate conference committee to try to reach a compromise.

There was a break in Republican ranks when Sen. Gordon Allott, of Colorado, urged the Senate to reject the measure on grounds its military pay raise provision was unfair to low-ranking men and officers.

Allott, the Senate's No. 3 ranking Republican, urged his collegaues not to be "stampeded" by administration arguments that the compromise should be passed quickly to avert a depletion of military manpower.

While he did not directly indicate whether he would support a filibuster, Allott said "I do not favor, and will not support, any undue delay."

Colorado has 11 National Forests, two National Parks and six National Monuments.

San Quentin Tests Put 25 On List

San Quentin officials were happily surprised by the turnout Saturday for the first examinations for correctional officers' positions since the bloody escape attempt on Aug. 21 in which six persons died.

Information officer Joseph R. O'Brien said that 28 men took written tests and 25 passed, an unusually high percentage of successful applicants.

He said the test consists of an aptitude section as well as one designed to ascertain attitudes toward guard work.

The men will now be given oral tests to determine if they will be employed at San Quentin.

Those hired will fill vacancies created by resignations of guards since the bloodbath as well as new positions authorized since Aug. 21.

Men who took the test Saturday were reluctant to talk of their reasons for applying but, O'Brien, who expressed pleasure at the turnout, suggested today that unemployment is more widespread than generally realized.

Russell F. Larson, 36, of Santa Rosa, was reported in satisfactory condition at Santa Rosa Memorial Hospital with head injuries suffered when his homemade racer struck a brick wall of a home at 720 Denman Road, Penngrove.

Panel discussions will run from 2 to 3:30 p.m., with Dellums scheduled to talk at 4 p.m. The conference ends at 5:30 p.m.

Soot Used To Reclaim Land

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists reported today that two environmental problems have been successfully attacked by using smokestack soot to reclaim land wasted by coal mining.

Soot, or fly ash, presents a giant disposal problem to utilities that burn coal to generate electricity. Power plants produce 30 million tons of it a year.

By applying the soot, which is alkaline, to acidic coal mine spoil and refuse areas, the land can be made less sour and more hospitable to plant life. There are more than 600,000 acres of acid land in the big strip mining states of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Illinois and Kentucky.

Teen Will Run For Supervisor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Miss Yvonne Westbrook, 18, has announced her candidacy for the county Board of Supervisors.

"I listened and listened and then I realized that someone could do their job just as well," the youngest candidate for the board said in an interview.

Miss Westbrook, a freshman at the University of San Francisco, said, "Young people had no voice, and I knew that it was time for us to be heard down there."

Her campaign headquarters are in her home.

She is a former junior high school pep leader and won the "Miss Poly" title at Polytechnic High School.

Jane Fonda's Show Stopped

TRAVIS AFB, Calif. (UPI)— Jane Fonda says she will take her antiwar show for servicemen to the East Coast after being denied a permit to perform near Travis Air Force Base.

Miss Fonda, at a news conference Saturday, said it was the first time she had been denied a permit for her show.

The performance had been planned for a vacant field half a mile from the air base, but Solano County refused her a permit required for outdoor festivals, ruling Miss Fonda's sponsors had not met all the requirements of an ordinance adopted last year.

Typical Homeowner To Pay $100 More In Taxes

The typical homeowner in Marin County, with a $33,000 house, will pay out $100 more in taxes this year than he paid last year, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell disclosed yesterday.

He made the tax rise prediction after analyzing various tax rates imposed by 71 separate taxing agencies in 378 code areas (geographical taxing areas).

Overall, the average tax rate in the county for 1971-72 will be $12.103 per $100 assessed valuation, an increase of 41.9 cents over last year's $11.684.

"This means that the average taxpayer will pay $907.72, based on a $33,000 home assessed at 25 per cent of market value and with the homeowner's exemption," said Mitchell. "This comes to about $111 more in taxes than last year on a comparable $33,000 home assessed at 23 per cent of market value." (State law requires the assessor to assess 25 per cent this year instead of last year's 23 per cent.)

The lowest tax rate in the county is in the Nicasio area, which has a rate of $8.979 per $100 assessed valuation. Other low rates are $9.084 in the Union School district near Sonoma County and $9.139 in the Bolinas-Stinson area.

The highest tax rate in a sizable tax code area (with an assessed value of a million dollars or more) is $14.168 in Bel Marin Keys. This includes a $3 tax rate which Bel Marin Keys voters approved for dredging improvements.

There are a couple of small tax code areas with an even higher tax rate, but the auditor-controller did not include these among the representative code areas because the total assessed valuation is less than a million dollars. One such area with a high tax rate is the Paradise Cove area of Reed School district, with a rate of $16.019. This includes $4.33 special tax levy to pay for maintenance and improvement of sewer facilities.

Among incorporated cities, the highest tax rate is in Fairfax with $13.409. The lowest is San Rafael's $11.059.

This year's tax rates for the 11 cities are as follows:

Belvedere $12.029; Corte Madera $11.744; Fairfax $13.409; Larkspur $11.929; Mill Valley $12.944; Ross $12.724; San Anselmo $13.179; San Rafael $11.059; Sausalito $11.189; Novato $12.163; and Tiburon $12.424.

Tax rates in five major communities in the unincorporated areas:

West Marin $9.549; Terra Linda $13.154; Marinwood $13.139; Kentfield $11.679; and Loma Verde $11.328.

Committee Members To Be Named

The San Rafael Board of Education will appoint members to its citizen's advisory committee at the board's meeting tomorrow.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Laurel Dell Primary School.

Paul L. Jones, board president, said the board will attempt to fill 12 vacancies in the 34-member committee. He said the board will select the people from nominations submitted by the parent-teacher associations from the district's 15 schools.

He added that if the board does not fill all 12 vacancies, people could submit their names at the meeting for consideration. Each committee member serves three-year terms except the four student representatives who are chosen each year.

The board will also hear a report on the 1971-72 district enrollment.

Realtors Back College Bonds

The Marin County Board of Realtors yesterday put its weight and some of its money behind the Marin Community College District's proposal for a $16,760,000 building bond issue.

Directors of the realty board voted $500 to help finance a campaign for passage of the bond issue, which will be before Marin voters Nov. 2. President William Bush also announced appointment of 15 realty brokers as co-chairmen of bond campaigns in their areas.

The proposed bond issue would finance construction and equipment of buildings for Indian Valley Colleges, the district's second campus at Novato, and complete the building program at the present college in Kentfield.

Course Slated On Classroom Behavior

A Sonoma State College course in psychodynamics of classroom behavior, designed for teachers, will include techniques for dealing with abnormal behavior. It begins Sept. 22 in Greenbrae.

Dr. Joseph P. Gutstadt of the Community Mental Health Center will teach the course at the center at 250 Bon Air Road, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday.

Today is Monday, Sept. 13, the 256th day of 1971.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Mercury and Saturn. The evening stars are Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Virgo.

U.S. World War I Gen. John J. Pershing was born Sept. 13, 1860.

In 1788 the United States Congress authorized the first national election.

In 1954 Maine elected its first Democratic governor in 20 years, Edmund Muskie.

In 1966 U.S. astronaut Richard Gordon's scheduled 115-minute space walk was cut to 44 minutes when perspiration in his suit partially blinded him.

In 1967 howling mobs of Chinese Communists stormed and seized the British consulate in Shanghai.

A thought for today: British philosopher Bishop Richard Cumberland said, "It is better to wear out than rust out."

WINNING BRIDGE

Lesson From Bridge Physician: Learn To Go Slowly At First

"I'm not as young as I used to be, but I can still finesse, my doctor bragged the other day on his annual checkup. "Does it ever hurt?" I asked sympathetically. (My tableside manner is very soothing.) "One of my recent finesses kept me up all night," he admitted.

"I won the first trick with the ace of diamonds, drew two rounds of trumps and tried a finesse with the queen of clubs," my doctor related.

"Some of my other patients try tricks like that," I told him. "All the aspirin in the world won't put you back on your feet if you rush in like a beginner."

My doctor looked stricken, and I hastened to reassure him. "We don't talk about right or wrong any more," I pointed out. "But some things are very wasteful. You lost two clubs, two hearts and a night's sleep. Right?"

He nodded soberly, and I gave him my diagnosis. If you plan to open your own consulting room, you should be ready with an opinion before you read on.

TRY HEARTS

After taking the king of diamonds, South should lead a heart to try a finesse with the eight. There will be time later for the club finesse.

East takes the jack of hearts and returns a diamond to the king. South draws two rounds of trumps and leads another heart. West must step up with the ace to avoid the revealing play of the ten.

FINESSE TIME

West returns a club, and South can afford to try the finesse. East takes the king and returns a club to dummy's ace, but now declarer can lead the queen of hearts from dummy. South ruffs out the king and ten on the same trick; and he returns to dummy with a trump to discard a club on the established nine of hearts.

A difficult play, but my older patients must rely on their brains rather than on their muscles. Next patient.

DAILY QUESTION

Your side is vulnerable, and the opponents are not.

Dealer bids one spade, and you are next with:

♠ - 8 3
♥ - A 10 4
♦ - Q J 10 6 5 2
♣ - 10 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not worth a vulnerable overcall of two diamonds. It would qualify if you changed one of the very low diamonds to the king since then you would have five sure diamond tricks and a side ace for your overcall.

CIA Trains Laos Troops, Report Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A transcript of secret Senate testimony disclosed Monday that the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has been secretly training and supporting 30,000 guerrilla troops in Laos since 1962.

The figure was disclosed for the first time in published closed door hearings before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

G. Murtrie Godley, U.S. ambassador to Laos, told the committee the CIA-financed guerrilla units "have been the backbone of the military effort in Laos" to repel the North Vietnamese forces.

"The irregular forces in Laos today ... number about 30,000 men," he said. "These forces are organized into SGU (Special Guerrilla Unit) battalions, and these battalions now comprise about 330 to 360 men each."

Godley said the guerrilla units operated every where in Laos except the area around the capital, Vientiane.

"The reason that no personnel has been recruited in the Vientiane area was that there were in the 1960s a series of coups," he said.

"Military personnel played a rather prominent role in these actions, and the United States did not wish to become initimately involved in the internal political machinations or political military actions in that country."

Godley said the CIA began covertly assisting Lao irregular forces in 1962 and 1963, when it became apparent the North Vietnamese were not going to respect the Geneva accords barring outside military interference in the Laotian affairs.

In one year 380,353 umbrellas, 256,031 pairs of glasses and 170,189 shoes were left behind by passengers on Japanese trains.

Mars Back After Two-Year Absence

By SHERMAN WALKER

Mars is in opposition (opposite side of the earth from the sun) again after a two-year absence. This planet has grown in interest during the past century and is still growing. The space probes that sent back photographs have given us more information about its makeup.

Mars is one-tenth the mass of the earth and about half its diameter. The average distance of that planet from the sun is about 141,500,000 miles. Due to the fact that its orbit is an ellipse, it comes closer to the earth at some oppositions than others. The oppositions that occur in August or September are the most favorable for observing Mars because Mars is closer then. This time the opposition occurred about Aug. 9, indicating Mars was perhaps 35 million miles from earth.

For a long time there has been argument as to whether there is life on Mars. This is encouraged by the fact that lines on the planet are visible—straight lines suggesting they must have been made by intelligent beings. It is widely believed that some kind of plant life exists there. However, since there is so little moisture and air there plant life would have a hard time subsisting.

The lines on Mars that were once thought to be canals are still a mystery.

Mars has two moons but both are very tiny and hard to see. One is about five miles in diameter and the other 10 miles. The closer moon goes around its orbit faster than the planet rotates, so to a Martian it would appear to rise in the west and set in the east.

Tiburon Youth Held For Pot

An 18-year-old Tiburon youth has been arrested by Larkspur Police on suspicion of possessing marijuana after officers observed him smoking what they believed to be the weed on a city street.

Arrested Saturday was Donald George Riley of the Hilarita Housing Project when officers saw him throw away a suspected marijuana cigarette while talking with friends on Madrone Avenue.

In Riley's pocket, officers said they found five more handrolled cigarettes believed to be marijuana.

Riley was booked into Marin County Jail and released on his own recognizance to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Separation On Dollar To Continue

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The European Common Market countries agreed today to continue for the time being their present system of separate national action with regard to the dollar, Common Market sources said.

The agreement was reached at the start of a one-day session of the market's finance and economics ministers in Brussels to review the international monetary crisis.

The six market countries — West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, tha Netherlands and Luxembourg —have adopted different tactics to cope with the money and economic measures announced by President Nixon last month.

Market sources quoted French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing as telling his colleagues the coexistence of the different national systems had proved possible.

"The Alarms of August" when the six market nations failed to agree on a common action towards the dollar, "have vanished," the sources quoted the French minister saying.

Belgian Minister Jean Snoy et Doppuers warned of the dangers of comtinuing separate action for too long, the sources said.

"There will be a rupture in the agricultural system because the present system is both difficult and politically impractical," the sources quoted the Belgian minister as saying.

Under the present system of different national monetary measures, it is impossible to fix common prices for agricultural trade between the six market nations.

The ministers' cautious attitude in leaving aside for the time being their internal differences did not come as a surprise. Instead they were expected to try rather to find a common ground for over-all reforms of the international monetary system.

The California Highway Patrol said her car and a car driven by Earl P. Pascu, 52, of Santa Rosa collided head-on.

Does More Than Help Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Infection

Also Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Pain, Itching in Such Tissues.

Doctors have found a remarkably successful medication that actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues when infected and inflamed. And it does more. In many cases it gives relief for hours from pain and itching in these tissues. Tests by doctors proved this true in many cases.

The medication used was Preparation H. And no prescription is needed for Preparation H®. Ointment or suppositories.

How to get ready for frost and save a little jack.

Have your furnace man check your heating system now. Also clean or replace filters if necessary.

That way you'll be sure your furnace is working efficiently and is ready for winter before the first cold snap.

Weatherstrip around doors and windows. This keeps the warm air in and the cold air out where it belongs.

Shut damper when your fireplace is not in use. If you leave it open, cold air rushes in and furnace heat escapes. Also, shutting drapes over windows at night can stop up to 16% of the heat lost through windows.

Insulate. Good insulation in walls and ceilings can cut heating up to 45%. Which means it can pay for itself.

Don't touch that dial. Agree on a comfortable setting for your thermostat and leave it there. Frequent changes increase your heating bill.

If you follow these suggestions, you'll save heating dollars this winter. Your winter PG&E bill is usually higher than your summer one because you need more heat and light, eat more hot meals and use your appliances more. But when you think of how much PG&E energy does for you, it's still a bargain. In fact, even though inflation has forced rates up modestly after years of rate reductions, PG&E service remains your best household bargain.

Will Death Of Monk Be Solved?

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodia's case of the murdered monk, a tale of politics, nationalism and religion, will likely never be solved.

Government officials and followers of the venerable abbot Ek San are convinced that Viet Cong stabbed the monk to death, stuffed his mouth with stones, weighted his body and tossed it into the Tonie Sap, a major river 55 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

"It would have been impossible for a Cambodian to kill Ek San," said another monk, who had known the dead Buddhist priest for six years.

The Communists have not yet published their side of the story, but it is likely, if past precedents are followed, that they will blame Cambodian soldiers.

Ek San was the head monk in Prey Kry, a rich village 50 miles north of Phnom Penh, and reportedly had not cooperated well with the Viet Cong during the year they controlled the town.

He was last seen entering the forest near Prey Kry Aug. 24. He said he was going to find the Viet Cong to demand the release of two of Ek San's students held by the Communists.

Four days later his body was found floating in the river. A piece of barbed wire, which had apparently been tied to a rock, was dangling from the monk's corpse.

The Cambodian government immediately denounced the "barbarous assassination" of Ek San, and Information Minister Long Boret asked for public donations so that a state funeral could be held.

Ek San was "savagely assassinated by the anti-Buddhist Viet Cong and North Vietnamese while he tried to serve the population and the cause of the Cambodian republic," the minister said.

The effect on the civilian population was one of shock.

"We do not know why anyone would kill a monk," said Srey Bunthol, deputy governor of Kompongn Chhnang province, in which Prey Kry is situated. "Maybe they thought he was a government agent."

Only seven prisoners were still in the Bastille when the Paris mob stormed it July 14, 1789.

Youths Aim For Sanitary Board

By STEVE SWENSON

Two 18-year-old Tiburon youths want to spend one Tuesday night a month at the Trestle Glen waste treatment plant.

No, the plant isn't a local hangout. The youths, who have seriously studied sewage problems, are seeking election to the Richardson Bay Sanitary District board which meets there.

Joseph J. Franaszek of 17 Juno Road, and Christian G. Fritz of 700 Hawthorne Drive, are the youngest candidates for public office in Marin's history as they take advantage of the new state law making 18-year-olds eligible for public office.

The two graduated with honors from Redwood High School and plan to attend the University of California at Berkeley this year. They said they have been working on ideas together and would like to be elected as a team.

Asked why they are running for the district, Fritz said, "The district is small enough so that we can effect a change. We feel our interest, capacity to handle the job and the issues we support overcome our lack of experience."

The candidates outlined two proposals they would like the board to consider:

The first is to eliminate what they call an "unnecessary smell" at the Trestle Glen plant. Franaszek said he talked to the Santa Clara County sanitation district manager who said the odor could be eliminated.

Fritz noted the odor has been around a long time and it is about time the board to come to some actioN to alleviate the unpleasant smell which offentimes drifts up to Little Reed Heights.

The youths also proposed combining two or more sanitation districts to avoid duplication and increase efficiency. They also suggest constructing a new treatment plant with a high temperature furnace capable of treating both refuse and sewage at 10 times below the federal air standards, according to Franaszek.

He said there is already such a plant in San Leandro which serves about 150,000 people, three-fourths the population of Marin. Fritz said the new plant would have a high price tag but if several districts were combined, the taxpayers could save money in the long run.

Both youths emphasized they did not want to be thought of as "youth candidates." Franaszek said, "We don't want to be elected because we are 18, nor do we want to be voted against because of our age."

One problem the youths said they sensed talking to people was apathy. "People can successfully defeat you by ignoring you," Franaszek said. Many people have a hopeless feeling that no matter who they elect the board will not be responsive, he added.

Both candidates, who have had experience in student government, said they feel part of the job is to bring complaints and proposals other than their own before the board.

The youths said that if they were elected and did a competent job, they think it would help change adult attitudes that young people are "shiftless" and would also pave the way for other youths who feel they have something to contribute for public office.

Lt. Calley Refuses To Talk

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (UPI) —Lt. William L. Calley Jr. refused to testify today at the court-martial of his former commander, Capt. Ernest L. Medina, and Medina's attorney said he would prove that Calley "was solely responsible" for the massacre at My Lai.

Calley, the only man convicted thus far in the My Lai affair, was brought here from Ft. Benning, Ga., where he has been under house arrest, to appear as the opening witness for the defense.

He refused to testify on advice of his attorney, however, and neither the court nor Medina's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, pressed the point.

The military judge, Col. Kenneth A. Howard, declined to order Calley to testify, noting the young lieutenant still could face a retrial, and in such an event anything he said here could be used against him.

Bailey let the matter pass, telling the court, "I don't want to parade him in here and embarrass him" by forcing him to plead the Fifth Amendment.

Medina is on trial on three charges. He is accused of personally killing a woman, ordering the death of a small boy, and failing to stop his troops from killing 100 other civilians.

Calley also was tried for 102 murders at My Lai. He was convicted on 22 counts and sentenced to life imprisonment, but the sentence has been reduced to 20 years confinement.

Bailey said the defense would produce "the man who shot that boy" Medina is accused of killing. "He will say he received no order from Capt. Medina, but did it on his own."

Bailey said Medina himself, and another witness, will relate the shooting of the woman, showing that Medina thought the woman was about to throw a hand grenade at him and "shot her to save his own life."

The famed criminal lawyer also promised the defense would produce witnesses to show that "Lt. Calley was soley responsible" for the deaths of civilians at My Lai, and that "Capt. Medina knew absolutely nothing about it."

The first witness for the defense was Robert James Lee, a former soldier from Oshkosh, Wis. Lee, a medic with Medina's company, described the professional 34-year-old soldier from Monrose, Colo., as a "good leader" and a strong commander."

Calley was flown from Ft. Benning to the Fulton County Airport near Atlanta early this morning. He made the short trip to Ft. McPherson in an Army sedan, escorted by two military police cars. His attorney, George W. Latimer, was with him.

A six-man security guard accompanied him as he stepped from the car and walked briskly into the courthouse. He was in uniform and wearing sun glasses, and appeared thinner and in better physical condition than he was during his trial last spring.

Newsmen were warned against asking him questions, since he is a prisoner, but someone yelled, "Hello, Rusty," as Calley made his way toward the courtroom.

He flashed a smile, and gave a slight wave of his arm.

Latimer said in advance of Calley's courtroom appearance that his client would not speak unless the judge "commands the lieutenant to testify under threat of sanctions."

Calley was the first witness called by the defense, which began presenting its case today.

Bomb Blast At Rally In Manila

MANILA (UPI)—A small pillbox bomb exploded today during a major rally protesting President Ferdinand E. Marcos' curtailment of civil liberties.

No one was reported injured in the explosion but witnesses said one of two persons appeared hurt when a small part of the estimated 20,000 crowd panicked and tried to run. A pillbox is a small homemade bomb usually containing gunpowder and nails.

The rally took place in bloodstained Plaza Miranda where terrorists tossed two fragmentation grenades Aug. 21 during a ally by the opposition liberal party. Eight persons were killed and 96 injured, including most of the Liberal party leaders in the worst political attack in Philippine history.

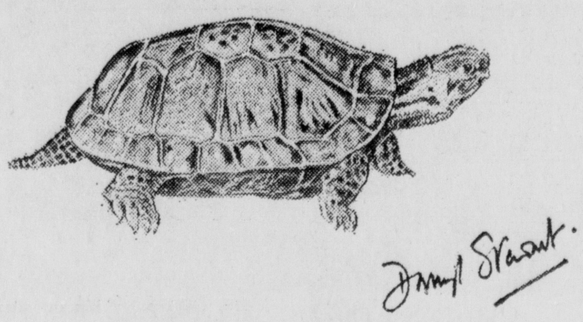
Bog Turtle Faces Extinction Due To Commercial Collection

By DARRYL STEWART
Toronto Telegram Syndicate
(Sixth of 12 articles)



Bog Turtle

Unquestionably, the bog turtle is a very rare reptile. Both the International Union for the Conservation of Nature in Switzerland and the United States Department of the Interior include the bog turtle on their list of rare and endangered species.

The small (maximum length about four inches) and very attractive bog turtle was discovered in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, by clergyman and botonist Heinrich Muhlenberg during the latter part of the 18th Century. Not surprisingly, this species is also referred to in some circles as Muhlenberg's turtle.

This turtle can readily be identified by its straight-sided shell which is short and narrow. The general ground color is brown, with the lower shell (plastron) of a darker nature. The upper shell (carapace) is distinctly marked by concentric rings with no scattered yellow spots. However, its best-known mark of identification is the large orange or yellow patch on the side of the head.

It is likely that the bog turtle was never very common, for it appears to have always been confined to freshwater swamps and bogs of certain Atlantic states. In total, its range stretched from Western Massachusetts and central New York south to the westernmost reaches of North Carolina. Today, its colonies are even more restricted and isolated. Undoubtedly it is rare throughout this entire range and, with minor exceptions, the existing colonies are separated from one another by several miles.

As its name implies, it shows a strong predilection to areas of spagnum bog.

Bog-dwelling creatures like the bog turtle are most vulnerable because their habitat is always in a constant process of chance. As time passes, the bog fills over by giving way to invading hardwood trees.

However, this is a natural long-term process, whereas the impending demise of the bog turtle is more immediate and likely to be brought about by the hand of man.

Each year, more and more of the bog turtle's home is eaten up by the plough under the guise of land "reclamation." This unnatural pressure has been felt in all parts of the turtle's range, but has been especially severe on populations in New Jersey and southeastern Pennsylvania.

Also, over-collecting has contributed much to the bog turtle's present reduced status. The ever-increasing scarcity of this highly-desirable reptile makes its capture so much the more lucrative for the commercial collector.

Despite the seriousness of the situation, very little has been done in the way of protective measures. In only one state, namely New York, has protection been granted.

A law passed in 1968 makes it illegal to collect, own, or sell the species in the State. Unfortunately, the law is often ignored and the sale and collection of bog turtles is allowed to continue unabated.

There are also very few bog turtles in captivity right now, despite the fact that traffic through pet-dealers continues. East Coast zoos have seen a steady decline in the numbers brought in by interested persons.

The future of the bog turtle is black indeed.

While it is altogether possible that this species may one day be conserved and perpetuated in zoological parks, its breeding potential in captivity is unknown, since there are few if any, records of this in the past.

Israeli Guns Shoot Down Syrian Jet

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli gunners fired at a Syrian Soviet-built MIG17 jet fighter as it flew over the Israeli occupied Syrian Golan Heights today, a military spokesman did not say if the aircraft was hit.

It was the third overflight of the Golan Heights by Syrian planes since the Middle East cease-fire of August, 1970. Israel lodged an immediate protest against the flight with the U.N. Truce Supervisory Commission in Jerusalem.

The incident occurred nearly two days after an Israeli gunner at the Suez Canal shot down a low-flying Egyptian fighter-bomber. An Israeli military spokesman said Egyptian retaliation was not expected and warned that Israel "will fire again" at aircraft intruding on its airspace.

The spokesman said in Tel Aviv that Israeli troops at the Suez Canal went without protective gear today despite the possibility of retaliation by Egypt following the most serious incident at the canal since a cease-fire went into effect there Aug. 7, 1970.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo described the downing of the Soviet-built Sukhoi 7 as an "isolated incident" and said, "You do not go to war over the loss of one plane." Egypt had said the plane was on a training flight two miles inside Egyptian territory. It termed the shooting "an aggression" but did not confirm the craft was hit.

In the Arab world, the Middle East News Agency (MENA) said Palestinian guerrillas have agreed to attend a peace conference with the Jordanian government at Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, Wednesday. The conference, postponed three times, because the guerrillas failed to show, is sponsored by Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

In Egypt, Prime Minister Mahmoud Fawzi began consultations toward the formation of a new cabinet in a reshuffle dictated by a public referendum which approved a new permanent constitution Saturday. Fawzi submitted the resignation of his 33-man cabinet to President Anwar Sadat Sunday.

Israeli military sources said the Sukhoi was hit by a machine-gunner who later was rewarded with a bottle of champagne. It was the 17th time Israel reported firing at Egyptian planes since April 26, the first it reported a hit and the 40th time it complained of Egyptian overflights to the U.N. Truce Supervisory Commission.

Athletes Killed In Colorado Bus Crash

GUNNISON, Colo. (UPI) — The school bus transporting the Gunnison High School junior varsity to a football game was coming down the east side of the 11,312-foot Monarch Pass when the odor of smoke drifted back to the players.

"One of the boys noticed the brakes smelled," said Bob Ragatz, a 14-year-old junior varsity football player at Gunnison High School. "Not bad at first, but it got worse —the smell of smoke."

The bus slowly gathered momentum. The bus driver, Royce Mustain, 23, pushed on the brake pedal, and then pushed harder. The force of his efforts brought him bold upright out of his seat, his foot pumping the pedal.

"One of the coaches got up to try and help the driver put the bus in first gear," Ragatz said. "But then the brakes seemed to go, and then the transmission."

Down the winding mountain road the bus sped out of control, —50, 60, 70 miles per hour.

"A couple of the kids began to scream," Ragatz said.

The bus careened out of control for 2 1-2 miles before the driver swerved to miss two cars and crashed into a parking lot at Garfield. The bus rolled over and split open.

Eight players and a coach were killed and 39 others were injured in the accident Saturday. Nineteen persons were still hospitalized today —three in critical condition, including Mustain. Mustain was among 15 of the injured who were airlifted to Denver for medical treatment.

State officials today were trying to learn what caused the mishap. E. Dean Coon, acting commissioner of education for Colorado, said the National Highway Safety Bureau in Washington would be asked to send an investigator.

The bus, which had been driven 3,500 miles, was taken to narby Salida and impounded until authorities could conduct their investigation.

In Gunnison, a small south central Colorado mountain town with a population of about 3,500, junior and senior high school students were told to stay home.

James E. Pahlau, principal of Gunnison High School, said combined funeral services would be held Wednesday in the Western State College gymnasium for seven of the players and an assistant coach. Private services will be held Tuesday for the eighth player.

All nine victims will be buried in a common grave in Gunnison Cemetery Wednesday.

Five Drivers Sentenced For Drinking

Five persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced Tuesday by Judge Robert A. Smallman were:

Alon Dwight Montgomery, 43, of 10 Girard Avenue, Sausalito, arrested April 16 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $360.

Leslie Anne Munson, 24, of 22 Scenic Road, Fairfax, arrested July 31 in Tiburon, placed on probation for one year and ordered to work 15 afternoons for the Marin County Parks and Recreation Department.

George Francis Kochert, 48, of 300 Stoney Point Road, Petaluma, arrested Sept. 4 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Richard Bernard Carrigan, 46, of 118 San Marino Drive, San Rafael, arrested Sept. 12, 1970, in Sausalito, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Dale Thomas Leach, 19, of 60 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia, arrested Aug. 21 in San Rafael, placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Boisterous Man Held For Pot

A 22-year-old Larkspur man has been arrested on suspicion of possessing marijuana, narcotics paraphernalia, being drunk in public and disturbing the peace.

Larkspur police said today Gregory John Golden of 106 William Avenue was arrested at 4:30 a.m. Saturday while standing at Jones Way and Madrone Avenue with a companion who was also arrested for being drunk in public.

Officers said the two had awakened nearby residents with yelling and strong language, which prompted several complaints.

While searching Golden at the Marin County Jail, officers found a plastic bag of suspected hashish and a pipe which could be used for smoking the drug. He remained in jail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Death, Destruction In Monsoon Floods

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Monsoon flooding of the Gomti River in Uttar Pradesh state has claimed 454 lives and caused about $150 million worth of damage to property and crops, the Press Trust of India (PTI) said today.

Agnew Asks An End To Bickering, Partisanship

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called on the nation's governors today to shun "petty bickering and partisan jockeying" in debate over President Nixon's new economic policy.

"In this period of a freeze on wages, prices and rents, and indeed in the stage that follows the freeze, let us work together in the public interest through a rational discussion and a spirit of cooperation," Agnew told the 63rd annual National Governors Conference.

Two bombs exploded in an electric power plant early today, knocking out electricity for about an hour in the immediate area of the plant. Authorities issued conflicting statements on whether the explosions were caused by an accident or by militant independence groups.

A parade of at least 25,000 supporters of Puerto Rican independence took advantage of the governors' presence Sunday to tell them they were not welcome here. However, the protest was more festive than angry.

In remarks prepared for the opening business session of the meeting, Agnew returned to his role as chief White House link with state government. He defended Nixon's new economic policy against Democratic and labor movement charges that it offered unfair tax relief based on a trickle down theory and that profit controls should be tied to other controls as they were not in the 90-day wage-price freeze.

He said he was a believer in "honest partisanship, that the Nixon policy was not handed down from Mt. Olympus and was subject to searching study leading to improvement where it could be improved."

"We're open to ideas, because the only way the fight against inflation can succeed as if every group and every individual has a stake in its success," Agnew said.

In presidential politics, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama says he may enter three Democratic presidential primaries in the South next year, but that would not rule out an independent race for the presidency as a third party candidate.

Wallace, speaking before the formal opening today of the 63rd National Governors Conference, indicated he might appear on the presidential primary ballots in Florida, Tennessee and North Carolina as a Democrat.

WHEN THE BUSES rolled out full of youngsters bound for school today in Novato, the children's safety was uppermost in the mind of Mrs. Karen Millikin, dispatcher and scheduler. Last month she gave up a trip to Hawaii to spend three weeks learning special school bus driver safety techniques in Sacramento and is teaching them to the 15 women bus drivers of the Novato Unified School District and to other school bus drivers in Marin.

NOVATO SCHOOLS

Safety Is First For Bus Drivers

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Safety of children who began riding school buses in the Novato Unified School District on this first day of school is utmost in the mind of Karen Millikin, bus dispatcher and scheduler, and her crew of 15 women drivers.

Mrs. Millikin was the only Marinite to spend three weeks last month in Sacramento with 14 others attending 120 hours of teaching techniques in classroom and behind-the-wheel instruction for school bus drivers.

She will now be responsible for initiating and conducting school bus driver training programs in Marin County.

The aim of the program is to reduce the number of school bus accidents in California. It was initiated in October under joint three-year funding by the U.S. Department of Transportation and the California State Department of Education. A number of other states are looking at the California model, according to Dr. Stanley McDougall, director of the project.

THE NOVATO bus program is unusual in that all of its regular bus drivers are women. One man, Ben Young, is a substitute driver.

Mrs. Millikin and Dr. Eugene de Brecht, assistant superintendent in charge of business and buildings, say it takes a special kind of person to drive a school bus.

And women don't mind the broken hours — they start work at 7 a.m., but they have time off during the middle of the day. Dr. De Brecht also said there is a very low turnover of drivers.

Karen started driving a school bus seven years ago after her children were grown. She was born in Novato and knows every road in the Novato area. Another long-time bus driver with the district, Mrs. Lena Blaski, who has been a bus driver for 20 years, talked Mrs. Millikin into driving a bus. However, Karen only substitutes now as her special job demands her time in the transportation office.

Until the school children are all registered, Mrs. Millikin will not know how many will be bused, but on the average last year 2,000 children or about one-sixth of the youngsters in the school district were transported by bus.

For the security of the youngsters and other motorists, the school bus driver must check her entire bus every morning, including brakes, windshield wipers, oil pressure, first aid equipment and fire extinguishers.

ON FRIDAY, Mrs. Millikin conducted in-service training for her drivers. Also giving instruction were Officer Art Olson of the California Highway Patrol and Al Mendoza, safety officer of the Novato Police Department who assist in the school bus drivers program and work very closely with the school district.

Mrs. Millikin says she will be teaching the drivers the methods given her at Sacramento, among them, the proper way to make a right or left turn without straying into another lane, which is difficult with the big buses. She'll also stress defensive driving.

This year all school buses will drive with their lights on. She also said red lights flashing at the top of the bus indicate that children are either getting on the bus or leaving the bus and motorists must stop.

MANY CHILDREN are taking the bus for the first time this year and brochures were sent home with each child listing the proper conduct and safety programs for the youngsters, which also give advice to parents on responsibility of the student riding the bus. It advises parents on responsibility of the student riding the bus. It advises parents, "Help your child understand that school bus riding is a privilege and permission to continue riding can be withdrawn if order and conduct is unruly."

Mrsh Millikin left Novato when she married during World War II. But she and her husband, Albert Millikin, an employee of the department of electricity for the City and County of San Francisco, returned to Novato in 1953. They have three children.

During her years in Novato Mrs. Millikin served as the first president of Hill Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association, was active in Camp Fire Girls and Bluebirds, served on the north Marin Council P-TA and was active in the order of Eastern Star. She is a member of the Sylvan Circle of Druids and served on the education goals committee of the Novato Unified School District.

Mrs. Millikin says, however, "this is my cup of tea," referring to her job. She says she likes her job so well that when the invitation was given her to attend the school in Sacramento last month, she and her husband cancelled a three-week trip they had planned to Hawaii.

A reception followed at the Sleepy Hollow home of the bride's parents. The couple will live in Tucson, Ariz., after their wedding trip to Yellowstone National Park.

At the conclusion of the wedding ceremony, the couple served bread and wine to their guests in the tradition of sharing the first meal with relatives and friends. Written largely by the bride and bridegroom, the ecumenical ceremony was performed by two clergymen and featured folk singing throughout.

Rick, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rayburn of Altadena, was graduated from Muir High School and UCLA and is manager of the officers club in Tucson and is serving as a first lieutenant with the Air Force.

Stopping Truth Decay Is Goal Of Education

By PATRICIA McCORMACK.

NEW YORK (UPI) —"Compulsory education," some critics maintain, "embalms students, turning off their curiosity."

"The trouble with education," other critics claim, "is that therre are too many frills, plus too much coddling of students."

"Experimentation, that's all, that's what goes on in the classrooms, experimentation at taxpayers' expense," other nonfriends of contemporary education are fond of saying.

So what really is the function of education?

Ewald Nyquist, a state education commissioner, says one of the vital tasks of education was stated in front of a Baptist church in Tulsa, Okla. The sign read:

"Help stop truth decay."

Nyquist, commissioner of education for New York State, did his telling at the 30th annual superintendents workshop, sponsored by Teachers College at Columbia University, for school bosses from across the nation.

PRESSURES ON public education include the voices of the young raised against the established order in general and again the educational system in particular, according to Nyquist.

"And they have been joined by the poor and the blacks," he said. "They represent the new disestablishmentarianism. The cry for relevance has echoed through our compartmentalized schools with their lock-step programs, standardized schedules, prescribed curricula, and other rigidities.

"Present education is too frequently an experience characterized by information gathering, with its fact-centered, course-centered, subject--centered, grade-getting, bell-interrupted activities, and fragmentation in terms of time, space subjects, and teachers."

Nyquist said it reminds him of the "new" there R's: rote, restraint and regurgitation."

If education is to really help stop truth decay and contribute to the development of a rapidly changing society, shifts are needed. Among those cited by Nyquist were:

—From a system geared for relatively slow evolution to one capable of rapid change.

—From a system to provide mainly predetermined curricula and programs to one geared to supporting the ongoing development of students.

—From a system which provides contributions only at early and middle years of a person's life to one geared for sustained contributions appropriate at every stage of a lifetime.

—From a system geared to provide mainly knowledge, treating knowledge as an end in itself, to one geared to helping people learn how to use what they learn and how to work together productively.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Widow Ought To Be Grateful The Ride Only Cost Her $25

DEAR HELEN:

I am a new widow and not used to men.

I knew this man while I was married and so, when he asked me out, I accepted. Actually he was a business acquaintance. I believed him when he said he was divorced. We got quite friendly.

When I planned a European trip, he said he wanted me to write, but he gave me his office address, saying he had a nosy landlady who snooped in his mail and sometimes didn't deliver it. I asked for his phone number but he said he didn't have one, temporarily, because of a mix-up on billing. It sounded fishy to me, and I said so. How did I know that he wasn't trying to hide me from his wife? He never once took me to his "apartment."

He became very angry and accused me of not trusting him. I haven't heard from him since, although I wrote a note of apology. My trip is scheduled for the last of this month. Should I try to reach him again, as I don't want to come home to a manless existence. (But I don't want to get mixed up with a married man, either).

Oh yes, I forgot to say: He's a car salesman, and he borrowed $25 that he hasn't returned to me. — GLORIA

DEAR GLORIA:

My IGAP (I'm Guessing Again Perception") says your car salesman took you for a ride. Be glad it was short and cost only $25. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

About four years ago you published a column titled "What is a Wife?" I kept it in a "safe" place but, being a wife, that means I'll find it again next time we move. Could you re-print it for me and my friends? I believe it was written by your husband. — ANOTHER NUT

DEAR NUT:

Be glad to. But let me say here that I am not the inspirator for everything my husband writes (I keep telling myself).

A WIFE IS A WOMAN WHO:

Reads road maps upside down and gets you hopelessly lost; then remarks, "A WOMAN would stop and ask a service station."

Stretches a teabag to the third cup of hot water, but spends 75 bucks on a new dress at the drop of a credit card.

Is always on a strict diet — until you take her out to an expensive restaurant. Puts YOU on a strict diet, then gets an urge to make cream puffs.

Figures all cars will go ten minutes longer after the gas gauge registers "empty" and, if you drive faster, you can beat the odds.

Can't replace a blown-out fuse or start the power lawn mower (if a man is there to do it for her), but repairs a washing machine with a hairpin and a toaster with a well-placed thump.

Complains that you snore, when all you're doing is humming her to sleep.

Can't figure out the plot of any television show more complicated than "Lassie," yet spurns the direct approach in favor of involved, devious schemes to make a husband think going out was his idea.

Goes barefoot none-tenths of the time, but always needs a new pair of shoes . .

Tears into the kids with strong words, but says, "Dear, they're ONLY children," when you try it.

Smears her face with cream so that good night kiss is like stepping on a banana peel in an ice rink.

Says it shows originality to improve on recipes, yet hollers when you experiment with a green tie, maroon socks and a blue suit.

Saves empty gift boxes, but throws away your lucky fishing hat.

Never wants a rest stop or a hamburger until you hit the freeway.

Spends two hours making something for nothing — which she could buy for 39 cents in five minutes at a variety store.

Says the bank made the error.

Is really not a bad sort when you consider her handicap of being female. — BOB BOTTEL

NOTE FROM H: That last line was written before Women's Liberation made it a "no-no" to say such things.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Cutting The High Cost Of Funerals

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — You may not be able to do much about the cost of living, but you may be able to cut hundreds — perhaps thousands — of dollars off the cost of dying with a newly revised 64-page booklet.

The publication, the fifth edition of "A Manual of Simple Burial," provides frank answers to almost every question that arises at the time of death. Its aim is to show "how to obtain simplicity, dignity and economy in funeral arrangements through advance planning."

It also offers information to help people donate parts of their body to medical research or to various "banks" such as eye banks in order to serve other people. Names and addresses of medical facilities and organ banks are given along with special conditions wherever they apply.

THE THEME of the booklet is "advance planning." By looking ahead to the inevitable, says author Ernest Morgan, you can assure dignity and simplicity at comparatively low costs. Failure to make advance plans can leave you at the mercy of costly customs while you are under great emotional stress.

Unlike best-selling books of a decade or so ago, this booklet has some kind words for the majority of funeral directors:

"It is important that we not judge funeral directors in general by the occasional shady operator who is to be found among them, and that we understand their problems and appreciate the services they perform."

Morgan believes that candid information and advance planning can benefit both the public and the funeral industry.

THE BASIC problem, says Morgan, is the surplus of funeral directors. There are some 24,000 to handle enough business for only 2,000 working at maximum efficiency. With an average of only about one adult funeral a week, a funeral director is forced to charge considerable overhead in the price.

It is no wonder that a Congressional study a few years ago found that the average price of a funeral in this country exceeded $1,000. It may be even more now although many morticians have scaled down their fees.

The main thrust of the booklet is away from elaborate funerals and fancy caskets and toward simple memorial services after the body is either cremated or donated for charitable or scientific purposes.

A special section of the booklet lists more than 100 member organizations of the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies, with their addresses, phone numbers and principal services. Some two dozen other memorial societies are also listed.

IN A SERIES of questions and answers, Morgan explains what a memorial society is and what it tries to do:

"A memorial society is a voluntary group of people who have joined together to obtain dignity, simplicity and economy in funeral arrangements through advance planning." The booklet tells how to organize a society.

For the name of the nearest funeral society, write to the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies, 59 E. Van Buren St., Chicago, Illinois, 60605.

For a copy of the booklet, send a dollar to the Celo Press, Box 79, Burnsville, N.C., 28714.

Epidemics Of Head Lice Close Schools

A number of schools in various parts of the United States had to be closed last year due to epidemics of head lice. The parasites are found from the arctic to the tropics and can infest anyone, child or adult. Personal cleanliness does not necessarily act as a safeguard against them. Last year it was noted that a number of so-called upper-middle class communities were hit.

Although in the past kerosene, DDT and other unpleasant "remedies" were used with varying degrees of success, nowadays many physicians prescribe a shampoo containing gamma benzene hexachloride. Generally only one application of the shampoo is required.

Bill Guarantees Maternity Leave

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—A working woman who becomes pregnant would be guaranteed a leave of absence from her job to have her baby, under a bill introduced in the Michigan state senate.

The measure would guarantee any woman who has worked at least one year for a firm a one-year leave of absence if she became pregnant. Any woman with more than three years' service with a company would be guaranteed a two-year leave of absence.

Self-Buttering

A first self-buttering electric popper for popcorn looks like a streamlined, bubble-top lunar lander in miniature. An insert in the transparent lid holds solid butter that melts and drips down evenly on light, nonstick lining on the metal part and a kernel separater to sift out unpopped corn. The lid doubles as a serving bowl.

KATHAK — Chitresh Das whirls with grace and precision despite 13 pounds of bells about his ankles. The braid of bells is a feature of the Kathak, a 2,000-year-old dance, of which he is a master. Das will pass on his knowledge of dance this year at the Ali Akbar College in San Rafael. (Independent-Journal photo)

THE KATHAK

He Wears 13 Pounds Of Copper Bells And Dances Up A Storm

By MARG BURNS

The bells on Chitresh Das's slight legs have been tuned through years of practice. His dancing is both gentle and ferocious; his slender body does not seem weighted down by the 13 pounds of copper he supports as he spirals through the air.

Das, a 27-year-old dancer from Calcutta has come to Marin County to teach Kathak — a north India classical dance in which the performer wears braids of bells on his ankles.

The youthful looking Das became interested in Kathak accidentaly. His father, a dancing teacher, went to Pandit Ram Narayan Misra, who later became Das's guru, to learn Kathak.

"The guru told my father he was too old and suggested that he bring his son." Das's father took the guru's advice and when Das was seven years old took him to the guru.

Now Das moves with the grace of a ballet dancer. He is only 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 135 pounds but has made up for his size with rigorous exercises "to develop stamina." Besides practicing at least an hour every day he occasionally plays recordings and simply moves around with the bells or high kicks in place wearing the bells.

Kathak, his specialty, is about 2,000 years old. It originated during from the minstrel songs of praise to God. Eventually dancing replaced singing.

The dance in its present form evolved from Moslem and Hindu influences, though it is based on Hindu religious philosophies.

Nine sentiments — including love, valor, anger, fear, disgust, wonder, despair, peace — are portrayed through facial movements in the dance. Das has mastered the communication of these feelings.

He wears heavy makeup he claims is practically nonexistent compared to the amount more experienced dancers wear especially around the eyes to exaggerate them.

Das began studying 17 years ago. He has received both bachelor and master's degrees in dance (along with a bachelor's degree in general education from universities in India.

He recently spent a year studying modern dance and teaching at the University of Maryland on a Whitney Foundation grant.

His feet have been conditioned so they move in perfect tempo with the irregular rhythms of the Indian sitar music he uses as an accompaniment. Throughout the obviously physically taxing dance he smiles his enjoyment.

"Everything becomes sacred in this dance," he says, from the audience to the earrings of his costume.

Das and his American born wife, Julia, spent the summer in Seattle with her family. The couple met while Mrs. Das was studying in India with Das's father.

OPERA REVIEW

Rich, Robust 'Der Rosenkavalier'

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — A brilliant 49th season indeed is predicted for the San Francisco Opera if it continues like the first two offerings — Friday night's opening "Manon," that was a musical triumph as well as the usual fashion parade, and Saturday night's sensational 'Der Rosenkavalier."

Planning to attend "Manon" later, I chose "Rosenkavalier" as my opener for the season, and an exciting one it was.

The smash hit target could hardly have been missed with major roles in this tale of old Vienna sung by the Viennese stars mezzo Christa Ludwig as the boy lover Octavian and bass-baritone Manfred Jungwirth as the coarse Baron Ochs, and a polished orchestra, particularly the strings, conducted by Silvio Varviso who regularly conducts in Vienna. He set the right pace for this lively opera with its famed Viennese waltz themes, making the orchestral music a lustrous setting for vocal gems — perhaps even a bit too brilliant.

So loaded with vocal and dramatic riches was this performance of Strauss's famed tragicomedy that Hager's production actually could afford to cast Stockholm-born Nicolai Gedda — the most recorded tenor in history — in the minor role of the Italian singer. His top notes, however, seemed forced.

By far the greatest individual triumph was the long anticipated San Francisco Opera debut of Ludwig. Not only was her powerful voice covering a wide range perfectly focused and colored, but the acting of this 43-year-old singer as a young man impersonating a maid part of the time was amazingly convincing. Hers was the best handling of a "trouser" role I have ever seen.

In his American debut Jungwirth was a foxy old Baron Ochs, playing the role to the hilt for grossness and vulgarity but avoiding the buffoonery often encountered in many portrayals.

The Yugoslavian opera star Sena Jurinac as the appealing Marschallin sang beautifully and in appearance was ideally suited to the attractive but aging princess who gives up her young lover to the youthfully pretty Sophie. Making her San Francisco debut in this role was Texas-born Helen Donath, whose lyric soprano was pure and sweet.

A high point of the evening was the trio singing in the last act of Ludwig, Jurinac and Donath.

The cast: Octavian, Christa Ludwig; The Marschallin, Sena Jurinac; Marschallin's majordomo, Peter Van Derick; Marschallin's footmen, John Glenister, Richard Styles, Eugene Naham, Eugene Lawrence; Baron Ochs Von Lerchenau, Manfred Jungwirth; three noble orphans, Carolyn Lewis, Gwen Jones, Sandra Bush; a milliner, Arlene Adams; an animal vendor, Orva Hoskinson; Valzacchi, Ragnar Ulfung; an Italian singer, Nicolai Gedda; a notary, William Fleck; Annina, Edna Garabedian; Leopold, Daniel Sullivan; Vonfaninal, Raymond Wolansky; Sophie, Helen Donath; Marianne, Julia Emoed-Wallace; Von Faninal's majordomo, James Atherton; innkeeper, Joe Pinedo; police commissioner, Allan Monk; Marschallin's page Mohammed, Aida Brolly. And a scholar, flute player, hairdresser, his assistant, a cook, musicians, a footman, couriers, lackeys, maids, a physician, cook boys, waiters, coachmen, guests, children.

Handling the minor roles of the Italian intriguers Valzacchi and Annina with Panache were that gifted Norwegian singing actor Ragnar Ulfung, tenor, and the Fresno-born contralto Edna Garabedian in her regular San Francisco opera debut after her success in spring opera. Also vividly portrayed by Cleveland baritone Raymond Wolansky was Sophie's father Von Faninal.

Among many colorful minor characters performing well were tenors Peter Van Derick and James Atherton as the Marschallin's and Von Vaninal's majordomos and soprano Julie Emoed-Wallace as his housekeeper.

A sparkling touch was added by tiny Aida Brolly as the Marschallin's little black page.

Costumes and sets were elegant and lavish except for the last act inn scene, which was not nearly as effective as the one for the last "Rosenkavalier" in San Francisco. Unfortunately a backdrop for another opera could be seen at the top and back of the inn set.

Other performances of the opera will be given on Sept. 14, 17, 22 and 26.

ART REVIEW

Petaluma Park — Happy Action

By ADA GARFINKEL

Art-in-the-Park in Petaluma's tree-shaded Walnut Park last weekend was part happening, part montage, and altogether a mosaic of color and action — albeit on the "cool" side the hot weekend!

The occasion was the 12th Annual get-together of artists, art-lovers, friends, children, and visitors, sponsored by the 18-year-old Petaluma Art Association, for the purpose of exhibiting their work and raising a student scholarship fund through donations. Not stated, but quite apparent was the fun of being part of an important and lively community activity.

Some 1,500 visitors came, saw, and bought — some from as far away as San Francisco. Also from San Francisco came the five-piece Banjo Club Band in red-and-white striped vests, sleeve-bands, and straw hats, playing turn-of-the-century music in the bandstand, as a token of affection for the now deceased, long-time association member, Don Todd, and his widow. Ringing the musicians, quiet groups of the under-10 set sat in rapt attention at the sight and sound.

Other youngsters played in a well-equipped children's playground supervised by several high-school students. Others used park picnic tables for clay modeling, drawing — and just resting. One chubby youngster was busily painting a turtle on a block of wood... doing his own thing away from the others.

Just as much part of the scene as the 78 panels of paintings and drawings which encircled the park square, were the countless bikes and small groups of handsome teen-agers huddled on the lawn and taking it all in. There was no doubt about the good "vibes" here! Much of it must be due to the excellent rapport generated by Frank Marshall, an art instructor at Petaluma High School (and the only association member who is a full-time working artist) and his wife Pat, this year's chairman of the annual event, and the mother of four. Said she: "We get stronger each year."

Art-in-action included water-color and oil painting demonstrations by the Marshalls and Lew Barber; pottery by Jean Pratt, and clay sculpture by Rosa Estebanez (who has recently completed a commission for a 900-pound cement-and-sand sculpture — Mother and Child — for San Sebastian Catholic Church in Sebastopol). Among the crafts exhibited were spinning, weaving, stitchery, macrame and jewelry. A special feature for the children (and young-at-heart) was a stint by Edmund Moy, a ventriloquist.

Several extremely interesting miniature copper-and-wire sculptures — a scale replica of the Wright brothers' airplane; an old-fashioned bicycle; a drag racer; a stripped-down "cow puncher"; a pole-vaulter and other pieces — are the works of Ken Crowder who embarked on this work a year ago, and Doug Knudson who started four months ago.

William Evans who teaches industrial art to the blind in Berkeley, showed fascinating things with laminated woods: A knock-down tent table designed to be an "eye-catcher" — held together with wedges and braced to support a blue cloth canopy, its tabletop an intricate pattern simulating crystalline structures "took about a month of spare-time." A total of 63 artists participated in the event.

Japan Woos Canada For Trade Pact

TORONTO (UPI)—Japanese Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda said today Canada and Japan should join together in an alliance to promote free trade in the face of last month's U.S. economic measures.

Fukuda, addressing the opening session of a Canada-Japan ministerial meeting, said Canada and Japan are "disciples of free trade and it is imperative that we address ourselves to this problem in the face of rising protectionism."

"I am hopeful that we can create a Japan-Canada alliance for the preservation of free trade in the world today," he said.

The Japanese minister said that the economic crisis caused by President Nixon's Aug. 15 economic moves, including a 10 per cent surcharge on imports, had led to "an era of turbulence of the greatest magnitude since World War II."

He noted that both Canada and Japan had sent high-level missions to Washington to plead for an easing of the trade restrictions in the new 7.S. economic policy and that neither delegation won any positive concessions.

COPTER WATCHER — For 14-year-old Mike Kenward all the action that counts is aloft. He's an inveterate watcher of helicopters and plans to be a pilot some day. The other day, his enthusiasm won him an honorary captaincy in SFO Helicopters.

Mike's Head Is In A Whirl Over Future As Copter Pilot

By FRANK FARRARA

A 14-year-old Larkspur boy, who wants to be a helicopter pilot, is off to a flying start.

The future flyer, Mike Kenward, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kenward of 12 Palm Avenue, was commissioned an honorary captain of SFO Helicopter Airlines Friday.

It was a big day for Mike, who has been interested in helicopters about as long as he can remember and describes himself as a "helicopter nut."

While talking to an Independent-Journal reporter at his home this weekend, Mike heard the buzz of approaching helicopter, dashed out onto the deck to take a look, and returned to report, "It was Army."

He said his interest in helicopters started when he lived in San Francisco, more than six years ago. "A guy invited me to a birthday party and we went to a helicopter factory," he said.

Mike's interest picked up in recent years and in the past year, he bicycled to the SFO Helicopter terminal at Waldo Point, which became his ground school.

He would watch the helicopters coming and going, walk around seaplanes in the area, and hang around the office, he said.

Pilots told me what this was, and what that was. I'd ask them a lot of questions and they would tell me," Mike said. "You know if you're in the San Francisco;Airport and you pick out a captain, he'll show you a cockpit."

Through talking to pilots, Mike found that most of them learned to fly in the service, and that he should concentrate on mathematics if he wants to be a pilot.

Anxious to get started on his career, Mike wrote to SFO helicopters and asked for a job, any job so he could be around helicopters.

In return, the company invited Mike and his family to the Oakland Airport, ostensibly to take a tour of the facilities, and surprised him with a certificate naming him an honorary captain.

The also gave him captain's wings, a company jacket patch, a book on the history of the helicopter, a maroon tie with silver helicopters on it, and an employment blank.

The Kenward family got a helicopter ride, covering the company's Bay Area routes, Mike's third flight.

About a possible job, Mike commented: "They said something about sitting in the middle between the pilot and co-pilot."

Three Seek To Halt Jury Indictments

By C. P. McCARTHY

Attorneys for Stephen M. Bingham and two San Quentin inmates today sought a Marin Superior Court order to prohibit Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales from seeking grand jury indictments of the three.

According to petitions filed today, the attorneys said they believed Bales would seek indictments from the Marin County Grand Jury tomorrow in connection with the violence at San Quentin Prison Aug. 21.

Bales said today he had not intended to seek indictments tomorrow, but that he will "when the case has been properly prepared."

He said he did not know how long that would be. Regardless of the timing, however, he said he would fight the move to prevent him from going to the grand jury.

Bales has already filed a complaint in municipal court and obtained a warrant for Bingham, char ging him with five counts of murder.

Bingham, an East Bay attorney and member of a politically prominent Connecticut family, is accused of smuggling in a gun to inmate George Jackson, touching off a bloody escape attempt in which Jackson, two other inmates and three corrections officers were killed.

The two inmates who said they believed Bales will attempt to indict them are Hugo A. Pinnel and John Larry Spain.

Spain fled from the prison's adjustment center with Jackson on Aug. 21, but dove into bushes when guards started firing at the pair. Jackson was killed, but Spain escaped injury.

A guard taken hostage by inmates in the adjustment center reportedly gasped, "Yogi did it," as he stumbled out of the adjustment center with a severe throat wound as prison officials regained control of the adjustment center. Sources at the prison said "Yogi" was a nickname for Pinnel.

The petion for Pinnel and Spain was filed by attorneys Edwin T. Caldwell of San Francisco, Elaine F. Wender of Oakland and Carl B. Shapiro of San Anselmo.

The other petition was filed by Oakland attorney David Nawi in behalf of Bingham and his father, Alfred M. Bingham, a Connecticut lawyer and former state senator.

Both petitions said they believed Bales would take the cases to the grand jury tomorrow and that Pinnel, Spain and Bingham would be among those he sought to have indicted.

They charge that because of extensive publicity regarding the San Quentin escape attempt and subsequent events, including the issuance of a warrant for Bingham, "an attitude of hysteria and lack of impartiality has gripped the general public of Marin."

The attorneys said they "had every reason to believe" that members of the grand jury share the "general hostile attitudes of the public."

They noted that even if their petitions are granted, Bales can still pursue prosecution of the cases by starting in municipal court — a process he has already begun in Bingham's case

A grand jury indictment would eliminate municipal court proceedings and put the cases in superior court where they would be tried.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court today signed an order for Bales to appear at 9 a.m. tomorrow to show why the attorneys' petitions should not be granted.

The grand jury is scheduled to meet at 1 p.m.

Churgin Named To Drug Post

Lloyd Churgin, 34-year-old New Yorker, has been appointed to the new post of Marin County drug abuse and alcoholism coordinator, according to Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, director of county health services.

Churgin's experience includes many years of work with addicts, their families and communities and especially with young drug abusers, Dr. Cooke said.

He has worked with many drug subcultures and at New York City's Addiction Services Agency, and has supervised a network of drug abuse prevention and treatment programs and youth centers.

He helped found Encounter Inc., a community program in Greenwich Village, where he supervised programs for addicts, preaddicts and their families. Dr. Cooke said that he has also served as a street worker with a fighting gang.

Churgin's immediate duties will include finding the gaps in present services for addicts and alcoholics and to help agencies in the county develop needed programs, Dr. Cooke said.

The post was created by the supervisors earlier this summer during budget sessions. Churkin, who has already started to work, will be paid $1,058 a month.

Churgin, who is married, arrived in Marin after a world trip during which he worked as volunteer in India, Japan and Israel.

THREE Rs ROUTINE RETURNS

This class of kindergarteners responded enthusiastically today to teacher's aide Shirley Ward, as they began their first class day at the Marin City Learning Center. (Another schools' opening photo on page 1.) The young scholars were among more than 50,000 Marin County youth returning to classes after summer vacation and 50 students entering the center, Marin City's first private school. This school, begun by parents who were dissatisfied with the Sausalito School District, will meet temporarily in the Village Baptist Church. Twelve volunteer teachers will instruct the kindergarten through eighth grade pupils.

Girl, 4, Killed As Auto Rolls

A 4-year-old Sausalito girl was killed yesterday and four other persons injured, none seriously, when the car they were riding in careened down an embankment in Tamalpais Valley.

The child, Eve O'Reilly, was the daughter of Jean O'Reilly of the Waldo Point houseboat colony on Richardson Bay. She suffered a crushed skull in the accident and was killed instantly,

She had spent the afternoon at Stinson Beach with her babysitter, Deborah Polesky, 17, and Dorothy Marsh, 17, both also of the houseboat colony, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The trio, hitchhiking from the beach, got a ride with Edward Tyson, 28, of Oakland, driver of the car. Highway patrol officers said Tyson was eastbound in slow-moving traffic on Shoreline Highway, a half-mile west of Panoramic Highway, at 5 p.m. when an unidentified westbound vehicle crossed the yellow line into his lane.

To avoid a collision, Tyson swerved the car to the right and went over the embankment, rolling the car about 200 feet, officers reported.

Treated at Marin General Hospital were Tyson, sprained back; Miss Polesky, bruises on face and shoulder; Miss Marsh, bruised right shoulder; Herbert Dunn, 21, of Fairfield, a passenger in the car, back and neck sprain. Another passenger, Raymond Little, 23 of Oakland, was not injured.

Funeral arrangements for Eve were pending today at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley.

Judge Gardiner, Clerk Of Court Are Married

The first marriage of Samuel W. Gardiner, presiding judge of Marin Superior Court, was dissolved Friday and the judge remarried Saturday.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court married Gardiner and Barbara Kathryn Renfort, 45, of Mill Valley, Saturday at the Hall of Justice.

Gardiner's forty-four year marriage to Susan F. Gardiner was dissolved Friday afternoon by Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Gardiner had filed for dissolution in July 1970, citing irreconcilable differences.

Judge Broderick ordered Gardiner to pay $300 a month alimony in addition to an undisclosed property settlement.

Gardiner and his new wife, a clerk in the Marin County clerk's office, were reported to be on a honeymoon at an undisclosed site. He is to return to the bench next Monday.

It was the new Mrs. Gardiner's second marriage. According to the marriage license, her first marriage ended in divorce in 1965.

Judge Gardiner was appointed to the bench by Gov. Edmund G. Brown in 1964 and was elected to a six-year term in 1966.

Police Arrest Pot Suspect

Kenneth Keith Wynns, 23, of 1139 Fourth Street, Novato, was arrested by Novato Police Saturday night on suspicion of drunken driving and possession of marijuana.

Officers said they stopped his car at Grant Avenue and Sixth Street at 10:58 p.m. after it had been reported speeding at Sweetser and Machin avenues.

Wynns had a bag containing what appeared to be processed marijuana in his pocket, police said. He was booked at Marin County Jail, released on his own recognizance and scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Thursday.

Four Hurt In Freeway Chain Crash

A driver suffered facial cuts and a swollen left arm and three passengers suffered minor injuries Saturday in a four-car chain collision on northbound Highway 101, south of Lamont Avenue, Novato.

Novato police said the collisions occurred as cars stopped in traffic at 11:14 a.m.

The driver, William M. Gluck of 375 Molino Avenue, Mill Valley, was treated at Novato General Hospital.

Mary Ellen Haubrock, 83, of San Leandro, passenger in a car driven by Arthur Lee Haubrock, 49, of Castro Valley, and David John Berg, 27, of 1825 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, passenger in a car driven by James Joseph Cassin, 57, of 325 Hidden Valley Lane, San Anselmo, complained of neck pains.

Herman G. Hein, 57, of 6 Jersey Lane, San Anselmo, a passenger in Cassin's car, suffered scrapes of his left ankle.

New Tam Group To Meet On Decentralization

The Tamalpais High School District board, meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Redwood High School faculty lounge, will consider creating a citizens' advisory committee to oversee decentralization and to develop a master plan for district finance.

Such a committee was proposed during the decentralization controversy earlier this year and was part of the "settlement" between teachers, administrators and parents.

The board, meeting a half hour earlier than usual, will tour recently completed remodeling projects at Redwood between 7:30 and 8 p.m.

Hub Boys Held In Safe Theft

Two San Anselmo boys, 11 and 12, have been cited to juvenile authorities for stealing about $250 from the Baskin-Robbins ice cream parlor in San Anselmo, police said today.

The two youths were cited after employees at the parlor discovered the money missing from a floor safe in a rear room where the boys had been cleaning ice cream containers.

The boys told police they took the money after finding the safe open and no one around. They said the money was divided with friends.

Escapee To West Wants To Emigrate

A 28-year-old man who escaped from Communist Poland about two months ago to West Germany wants to come to America.

Henryk Moskalik wrote the Independent-Journal saying although he is free in West Germany, he has many problems because he doesn't know the German language.

He asked in the letter, "Who can help me to emigrate to the United States?"

He described himself as an anticommunist who escaped to West Germany for political asylum. However, he said he has no family or friends there and he is in a "difficult situation."

He said he has a technical profession and will return any help in getting him to America "300 per cent."

His address is 8502 Zirndorf, Rothenburger Str. 29, West Germany.

Women Treated After Accident

Two women have been treated at Marin General Hospital for injuries sustained in a two-car accident in Corte Madera.

Hospital spokesmen said Eleanore R. Kennedy, 53, of 477 Molino Avenue, Mill Valley, was treated Saturday for bruises on her chest and Pamela Kennedy, 27, of Fremont, a passenger, was treated for cuts on her forehead.

Details of the accidents were incomplete, Corte Madera police said today.

Change San Quentin? No, Abolish It

Over the years, many men who were in position to judge the matter, including the late Warden Fred R. Dickson, have advocated closing San Quentin Prison.

The reasons they have advanced are: (1) the prison is of outmoded design, which makes it difficult to govern; (2) it is in the wrong place for a prison, being within a metropolitan area; (3) the land on which it sits is too desirable, too valuable, to be put to such use.

WHEN THE STATE of California bought 20 acres of San Quentin Point from Benjamin R. Buckelew for $10,000 in 1852, the site was considered remote, and therefore suitable for the state's first prison. A barkentine, abandoned in San Francisco Bay when its crew turned gold rushers, was moored at the point to become a floating prison while the convicts themselves built the original cells — which were to remain in use over a century, and become known as the "old Spanish cellblock."

Recurrent outbreaks of violence plagued San Quentin Prison from its earliest days. But they have become more frequent in recent years as the spread of population has engulfed the once-isolated point, bringing throngs of demonstrators repeatedly to the prison gates to keep the inmates disturbed and "fired up." We are all too well aware of what has happened there recently.

Last Tuesday, Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas — himself a cripple as result of violance by San Quentin prisoners — proposed that the Marin County Board of Supervisors request the state to change San Quentin from a maximum security to a minimum security institution. This, he pointed out, would mean the worst "hard case" inmates would be moved elsewhere, reducing the problems. The supervisors seized on his suggestion with alacrity.

THIS IS AN APPEALING idea. But it probably is unrealistic.

In the first place, San Quentin is not designed for a minimum security institution. Everything about its high walls and forbidding aspect symbolizes close restraint.

In the second place, the State of California does not need more minimum security prisons. The three it has —at Chino, Jamestown and Susanville — are more than enough. This happens because the prisons were designed for a pattern of inmate intake that has been made obsolete by the soaring increase in violent crime the past few years. What the state needs are more maximum security prisons.

WE SUGGEST THAT the State of California, instead of spending more money to convert San Quentin, spend it to build maximum security facilities at one of its outlying prisons — such as Chino, Jamestown or Susanville. We suggest it cease spending on San Quentin construction, and continue to reduce the San Quentin Prison population — now down below 3,000 from a maximum of more than 5,000 a decade or so ago.

And we suggest that, as soon as sufficient facilities are available elsewhere, it sell the Quentin Point site, which would be one of the most desirable residential sites in the whole Bay Area if there were no prison there.

Atmospheric Lead Report Fails To Tell Whole Story

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The National Research Council claimed last week that the lead content in air has changed little in the past 15 years, and that the average city dweller gets only one-fourth of the amount at which symptoms of lead poisoning begin to appear.

What the council failed to report is the extreme hazard to human health of spurious reports from government councils that purport to be honest and deserve public trust. We have in mind the council itself, or at least its committee on the effects of atmospheric pollutants, which issued the pollyanna report.

The full report did not make the press, we'll concede, but what it did get into its press agentry convinced us that the committee must have a hefty representation from the lead additive industry. The industry has been fighting limits on lead in gasoline, not without success.

HOW ELSE COULD the council's findings be so contrary to those in California by the state Department of Public Health? The department's own data documented definite increases in atmospheric lead in Los Angeles, for example. Bay Area smog officials said similar data has been gathered for only the past three years here, too short a time for meaningful findings.

According to the Department of Public Health, atmospheric lead levels above two micrograms per cubic liter, averaged over 30 days, can produce a definite effect on the biochemical mechanism involved in the manufacture of red blood cells. The 30-day average in the Bay Area "fairly consistently" exceeds the state maximum of one and one-half micrograms, and reaches as high as four micrograms, according to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

In Los Angeles, the level reaches eight micrograms!

The council, however, apparently figured that the only health effect worth noting was lead poisoning. More subtle effects such as a failure in the biochemical mechanism to produce red blood cells did not concern it.

Personally, we have a higher regard for our red blood cells than we do for the council.

As one district official put it about the presidentially appointed council, "It's quite a prestigious group — at least it was until I read that report." He promised that after it is reviewed further, "I think we may have more to say."

SAN FRANCISCO BAY is far cleaner than it used to be, despite contrary claims by Ralph Nader's "raiders." As recalled by one who knows, much of the shoreline 20 years ago was "a stinking mess, devoid of dissolved oxygen and reeking with hydrogen sulfide gas."

All this is changed, we were reminded by John B. Harrison of San Leandro, for 18 years executive officer of the Regional Water Quality Control Board. And it has changed because of huge investments by municipalities and industry in wastewater controls.

Harrison noted that 20 years ago many of Nader's "raiders" were "no doubt absorbed in their own pollution control problems, such as those associated with the wearing of diapers."

Fee For Keeping Your Car On Street?

Is there support among Mill Valley residents and homeowners for the idea of charging a small monthly fee for use of city streets in residential areas for permanent parking, where there is no garage, carport, or platform? We might thus attack the problem of proliferating cars around one residence, as well as improve navigation on our narrow roads.

The issue is one of tax inequity, in my mind. Any structure, from a modest parking deck to a real garage, raises one's property assessment. With our tax rate of about $13 per $100 assessed valuation, we pay anywhere from about $12 a year in extra taxes to well over $100 a year for the fact that we keep our cars on our own property when not in use. Those who do not have facilities to do this, or have more cars than storage space, pay nothing at all. Meanwhile, their cars are an inconvenience to everyone else, to a greater or lesser degree. This is certainly inequitable.

We should have a monthly fee, payable annually or semi-annually, indicated by a sticker on the car, which an officer would check at night. I understand Fairfax and San Anselmo have banned overnight storage and issue $2 tickets for violations. Fairfax has a $1 a month "hardship parking permit" for those with no alternative.

The first question people ask is, "What about overnight guests?" In Milwaukee, where a $4 a month fee system has worked well for years, they exempt Saturday nights. In San Anselmo, they told me that visitors simply put a note under the windshield, which, obviously, could not be abused without the checking officer noticing. After all, it is the permanent parkers we are concerned with.

If you agree, please tell the Mill Valley City Council.

Senator Mills Thinks Editorial Amusing

It was with some amusement that I read your editorial of Sept. 8, entitled, "Does Senator Mills Think It's A Sin To Drive?"

You misunderstood the nature of the existing tax on gasoline, as well as the proposed sales tax when you label it a "sin tax". Tax monies from gasoline go into a highway users fund that since 1938 have been used exclusively for the motorist. You state that the sales tax on gasoline, which I propose, would only be used for transportation studies. That is not true. The monies derived from the sales tax on gasoline could be used for transportation programs including, but not limited to, rapid transit, local bus systems, bike trails and for roads and streets. Some of the beneficiaries of this bill would include the City of San Rafael and the County of Marin.

In short, it's a transportation bill, not a conspiracy, and it has the support of most organizations representing highway users — and the opposition of not one.

You criticize the increase in taxes, but still maintain that you are for alternative transportation. You had a hand in bringing this particular approach of funding about. It was the defeat of Proposition 18 at the hands of the highway and oil lobby that has created the necessity for this kind of legislation. Proposition 18 would have provided revenue sources for alternative transportation systems without raising additoinal taxes. You may recall the campaign against Proposition 18. In fact you opposed it along with others who said that Proposition 18 would mean more taxes. But failure to pass the ballot measure, as I told newspapers then, would mean an increase in taxes, as certainly as the night follows the day.

In your editorial you incorrectly state that SB 325 puts gasoline into the same category as whiskey, gin, and cigarettes, because it subjects gasoline to the general sales tax. To the contrary, it puts gasoline in the same category as shoes, clothes, diesel fuel, and most other commodities, which are also subject to the sales tax.

I am sure that a call to the Automobile Club of California or Southern California might be enough to allay your fears of what SB 325 would do. Unlike you, they support the bill.

JAMES R. MILLS

Case Of Lt. Col. Herbert Reflects Shame On Army Leaders

In many ways, the case of Lt. Col. Anthony B. Herbert is a more damaging reflection on the present leadership of the United States Army than was the case of Lt. W. L. Calley.

A nation deadened to shock by the Calley case might find it easy to let the Herbert affair pass into history without any firm effort towards resolution.

But that would hardly serve the cause of justice. Nor would it serve the need for the Army to purge itself in the interest of restoring its internal morale and its public reputation.

LT. COL. HERBERT, a much decorated and highly regarded career officer, last March filed formal charges against two of his former superior officers in Vietnam, Maj. Gen. John Barnes and Lt. Col. J. Ross Franklin. Lt. Col. Herbert accused the two senior officers of failing to act on eight complaints he had made in Vietnam in 1969 about alleged atrocities against Vietnamese detainees committed by troops in the command. The troops that allegedly committed the acts were mainly South Vietnamese, although one American adviser was implicated. The two senior officers have denied the charges.

Lt. Col. Herbert claims that not only were his complaints ignored but that they earned him a bad efficiency report, relief from his combat command and a one-way ticket home to a dead-end job as reenlistment officer for the Third Army.

He has not made himself very popular with the Army's top brass since, airing his charges and criticisms in the press and elsewhere. Now the 40-year-old officer says he has been asked to retire.

PART OF THE PROBLEM in this case might have been too-intense competition between two ambitious officers, Lt. Col. Herbert and Lt. Col. Franklin. However, that is only a minor consideration relative to the fact that Lt. Col. Herbert has brought highly serious charges of a type that aroused the emotions of the entire nation in the case of Lt. Calley.

And as yet there has been no sign that the Army intends to bring courtmartial proceedings that would enable any of the officers involved to prove their conflicting contentions. All that has resulted has been what appears to be a systematic and underhanded effort to destroy the career of Lt. Col. Herbert.

If the colonel's charges are true and he made complaints that were not acted upon, the Army would seem to have a case for some form of punishment against the officers charged. If they are untrue, the Army has a case against Lt. Col. Herbert. In either event, the matters involved here are of such public importance that they should be resolved through a public trial, not by behind-the-scenes maneuvering of a type that suggests a Byzantine intrigue.

The matter has been festering too long and the Army is in no shape to afford further doubts about the character of its leadership. And the nation cannot afford to have doubts about whether the command structure, which goes up to the commander in chief, is capable of dealing with such matters.

Governors Are 'Forgotten Men' On National Political Scene

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — The governors of the United States, who are gathering here to exchange woes, used to be the premier politicians of the nation.

No more. They are working harder and enjoying it less. In most cases, once elected, their future is behind them.

This is particularly galling on the eve of another presidential election year. Once they were either the kings or the king-makers. It was not so long ago that Presidents and presidential nominees were mostly drawn from the governorships.

In the long array of 1972 Democratic presidential hopefuls — candidates who are running or are about to run — not even the brim of the hat of one Democratic governor is in the ring.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNORS are today overburdened with unsolved social and racial problems. Their states are underfinanced because of inadequate revenues. Their prospects of political advance to the national level are so small as to be barely visible to the eyes of all the reporters here in Puerto Rico.

The governors who are here are quite eager to discuss 1972 presidential politics. But when they do they are neither talking about themselves nor about each other.

When you look at the declining role of the governors in national elections over the past 40 years, they have been increasingly on the sidelines — and it has never been more evident than now.

There are at least 10 active or oftenmentioned candidates for the '72 Democratic presidential nomination — and there's not a governor among them and none on the distant horizon.

The Democratic vice-presidential nomination may go to Mayor Lindsay or Sen. Birch Bayh or Sen. George McGovern, but it isn't going to any Democratic governor.

No Republican governor could seriously challenge Richard Nixon's first-ballot victory at the 1968 convention, and if Spiro Agnew isn't going to be Nixon's running-mate, it is unlikely the choice will be a Republican governor.

THE PAUCITY of qualified governors for high national office is no recent phenomenon.

Look at the record for the past 12 years:

Out of 16 nominations from 1960 to 1972, only one will have gone to a governor.

In 1960 two Democratic senators (Kennedy and Johnson) opposed two former Republican senators (Nixon and Lodge). In 1964 two Democratic senators (Johnson and Humphrey) opposed two Republican congressmen (Senator Goldwater and Rep. William Miller). In 1968 two Democratic senators (Humphrey and Muskie) opposed Nixon and Governor Agnew. And next year it will be more of the same — hardly a governor in the running at any point on either ticket.

AND WHERE HAVE the governors been in national politics over an even longer political span? They have been out of sight most of the time — and the absence of governors on the national scene marks a radical wrench in the political pattern.

Consider that from Grover Cleveland's first term in 1884 to the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932 seven of the 10 Presidents had been governors.

Time was when governors were the stuff Presidents were made of.

Not any more. Since F.D.R. no governor has been elected President of the United States.

This can't be accidental. It must be related to the fact that state government is declining relative to the burgeoning national government.

Everybody Fails To Act On Major Health Problem

By ERNEST B. FERGURSON

WASHINGTON — Dr. Moe Bergman of New York City called it "one of our most serious public health problems."

VD? Typhoid fever? Botulism? No.

"The pupils dilate, skin pales, mucous membranes dry, there are intestinal spasms and the adrenals explode secretions," according to Dr. Samuel Rosen, also of New York.

He might have been describing the effects of a new nerve gas developed by the Army Chemical Corps, but he wasn't. Dr. John A. Parr of Great Britain took the description of symptoms further:

"Our muscles tense and we jerk. Our abdonimal blood vessels contract to drive extra blood to the muscles, producing a feeling of the stomach turning over. And in an instant the liver releases stores of glucose to provide fuel for the muscles. This internal upheaval, if repeated again and again, is exhausting physically and mentally, and ultimately can cause a nervous breakdown."

St. Vitus dance? Delirium tremens? Cerebral palsy?

No. Just noise.

HOUSEHOLD NOISE, neighborhood noise, traffic noise, industrial noise, airport noise, pre-dawn noise, rush-hour noise — not one of them, but all of them, layered one atop the other, are literally driving a certain percentage of Americans mad and having an unmeasured effect on millions of unaware others.

Yet nothing organized or effective is being done about it. The Department of Labor had the legal authority for 33 years before it acted two years ago, under rising pressure, to set noise levels for industry.

In the city where the greatest variety of noises hammers at innocent ears and nervous systems, Mayor John Lindsay named a "task force" to consider the situation back in 1967. The words "task force" are used in naming a committee to imply that the committee is going to embark on crash action, the way Task Force 77 blitzed the enemy in the Pacific two or three wars ago. The Lindsay task force took three years to draw up a report agreeing that noise in the city had reached intolerable levels, and it recommended action. But have you visited New York lately?

Last March, a panel told the Commerce Department that noise pollution nationwide was "on the verge of reaching a serious level," and called for new federal and state standards to control it. The Senate Commerce Committee's environment subcommittee held hearings on proposed legislation at midsummer. A bill is being drafted now to reflect the administration's desires and the intentions of the subcommittee, as influenced by those hearings. Still ahead is either concurrence or another series of hearings by the Public Works Committee, which also has jurisdiction, as well as action in the House.

And even if the Senate bill is rubber stamped into law before the year is out, it will provide another two years beyond that before official federal noise level standards are set, and yet another two years beyond that before manufacturers of noisy machines are required to comply with those standards.

AS CURRENTLY PROPOSED, the federal law would have no retroactive effect — that is, the buses, trucks, garbage compressors, air hammers, whisperjets, motorcycles, sirens and other endlessly assorted instruments of the devil already committed to the assault will be allowed to continue unmuffled until they wear out. The federal standards envisioned also would preempt what localities could require toward quieter machinery. For a town or neighborhood to demand tighter regulations or an emergency exception to the non-retroactive federal standards would require legal appeals for special treatment.

To the surprise of absolutely no one, the long time lag between naming committees, passing laws and perhaps eventually seeing some results is a governmental courtesy to industry, which will have a hard time converting to make quieter equipment after it is required by law. Of course, no industry is going to do such a thing until it is required by law — not if there is a risk of losing a dollar in the process.

Granted, enforcement of industrial standards will take time. But the federal government will make a mistake if it removes decisions on noise standards entirely from local jurisdiction, and this is a threat the states' rights crusaders should be howling softly about. For example, while the wheels of bureaucratic enforcement are gearing up, nothing should stop each town in the country from posting a cop on a motorcycle alongside its busiest thoroughfare to haul in the noisiest passersby. (On second thought, better put him on a bicycle.)

B-29740 Has Own Solution To Violence At San Quentin

The morning mail one day last week brought a letter from a San Quentin prison inmate who had a simple solution for cutting down violence at the institution.

Convict No. B-29740, who said in his letter that he first was sent to San Quentin in 1938, certainly could be considered a longtime observer of the state's penal system.

Furthermore, the letter was handwritten in the careful, extremely legible style typical of the prison's "writ-writers" — those men who have perfected a certain way of petitioning the courts to take a look at their grievances.

B-29740, HOWEVER, did not discuss his own problems in the letter sent to the Independent-Journal. Rather, he took up the subject of the indeterminate sentence which is the final straw to many convicts and is under fire by some prison reform advocates.

The letter writer believes that California's old "good time" system, in effect until the Adult Authority was created in the 1940s, worked much better than the present setup.

B-29740 points out that even with indeterminate sentences, which became the law in California many years ago, a man could get out at a specified time if he earned "good time."

For example, he said, if a man had been given a one-to-five-year sentence, he could be discharged from prison after three years and nine months if he stayed out of trouble while in the "joint."

The writer went on to say that "no one wanted to lose his good time" and that if this system were restored, "I'm sure the violence will drop way down."

IN THE "GOOD TIME" days, prison officials made the determination of whether a man had behaved or not, a system still used in county jails, where sentences can be reduced for good behavior.

Under the present state prison system, however, a man goes before the Adult Authority board to find out if he is to be paroled. This group of the governor's appointees has the power to release men early or to decide that they have not been sufficiently rehabilitated to reenter society.

It is this power which gripes most convicts, many of whom say they'd rather know exactly how much time they have to serve.

Prison officials point out, however, that the indeterminate sentence was considered a great reform when adopted by the legislature. Before that time, sentences imposed by judges in various parts of the state for the same crimes varied widely according to the judge's own personality and the community in which he lived.

Since the indeterminate sentence came into existence in California, judges pronounce judgment, "I sentence you to prison for the term prescribed by law," and then the Adult Authority takes over.

THE TERM PRESCRIBED can be one to five years, five to life, or various other combinations.

It is never a fixed term, such as in the federal penal system where determinate sentences are given.

Since the rallying cry of the prisoner reformers these days is "do away with the indeterminate sentence," B-29740's suggestion for a return to "good time" is interesting.

It is also interesting that the reformers shy away from any proposal as to what they want instead of the indeterminate sentence.

Old Buildings Are Talk Topic

"Spanish and Mexican Buildings of the North Bay Area" will be described by Rev. William N. Abeloe at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the annual meeting of the Marin County Historical Society, Inc., at the San Rafael Improvement Club.

Abeloe is an author, teacher, lecturer and researcher of California historical landmarks.

There will be a short business meeting, election of directors, and annual reports at the meeting at Fifth and H streets, San Rafael, according to Frank Galli, president.

Pleasure Faire Bus To Operate

The Marin Transit System is running busses from Novato to the Renaissance Pleasure Faire in Black Point and a shuttle bus in the fair parking lot, company officials said.

Buses leave the Novato Greyhound depot starting at 9:30 a.m. and every hour on the half-hour until 5:30 p.m. The buses stop at the Ignacio turnoff at Highway 101 and then return from the fair every hour on the hour from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The shuttle bus runs all day in the parking lot. The fair continues today, tomorrow and for the next three weekends.

Are Government Workers Victims Or Overpaid?

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Are government workers "sacrifical lambs" caught in President Nixon's pay freeze at substandard wages? That's what Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., believes.

Or are they already on the payroll at more than they could expect in private employment and overdue for a leveling off or even in some cases a cut? That's what a recent Wall Street Journal survey showed many businessmen think.

No doubt individual cases can be found to substantiate either contention. The fact is that government pay has spiraled in recent years and under existing law can be expected to continue to climb almost automatically by billions of dollars annually.

IN 1954 FEDERAL taxpayers paid their 5.7 million civilian and military employes $18 billion. In the 12 months that ended July 1 this year the payroll for 5.6 million federal workers totalled $45.7 billion. In addition, retirement pay ran $6.6 billion, for a grand total government manpower cost of more than $52 billion.

The average government job has jumped in pay by 75 per cent since 1962. The maximum salary for so-called classified workers has climbed to $36,000.

Of course, non-government pay has been going up too, and much of the government increase has been awarded in the name of "comparability" with private pay scales.

The next "comparability" boost had been due next Jan. 1 and was estimated to run 6 per cent. Nixon, as part of his anti-inflation campaign, has ordered that increase delayed until July 1, and has warned he may order postponed also the next scheduled "comparability" round.

ONE PROBLEM with "comparability" is deciding what job in the Agriculture Department is equivalent to what job in a bank. Critics of the system see another problem in the fact that the experts who make these determinations tend to be, in one way or another, government workers themselves and thus not without possible conflict of interest.

Civil servants come in grades 1 through 18. Military men are ranked differently but are supposed to be paid the same scale. The lowliest clerk or laborer (the government calls him GS 1) currently is paid $4,326 a year to start and can work his way up to $5,622. A GS 7 is paid from $8,582 to $11,156. With a rating of GS 12, a federal worker can expect from $15,040 to $19,549, depending on years of service and annual stepups. GS 16 pays from $28,129 to $35,633.

An 18 is down in the books for $37,624, but because that would put him over some of his appointive political bosses he is currently cut off at $36,000.

FRINGE BENEFITS in the bureaucracy are beginning to look mighty good also to some private workers. Pensions can run up to 80 per cent of an employe's highest three-year average pay. It takes 42 years at work and at least age 60 to qualify for the top, but lesser amounts can be drawn for shorter service and at ages as low as 55.

The next round of pay boosts, due Jan. 1, was to cost about $3 billion. Nixon under the "comparability" law was entitled to submit to Congress an alternative plan. He did. It was to postpone that raise by six months.

Under the same law, if either House or Senate within 30 days votes against Nixon's alternative plan, the pay raise goes into effect as originally planned. Waldie, with support of some other House members, introduced Wednesday a resolution to reject the delay.

The House will be voting on that in the next couple of weeks. Your congressman will be glad to hear what you think.

Old Buildings Are Talk Topic

The meeting will be at the San Rafael Improvement Club, Fifth and H streets.

Quarantine For Horses Lifted

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Agriculture Department has lifted quarantines for Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE) in Arkansas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Fear And Panic Are Man's Worst Enemies In A Blaze

In 1970, fires killed approximately 12,200 persons in the United States. Of these, 6,500 died in the home. Do you know how to leave a burning building? According to The Continental Insurance Companies, fear and panic are man's worst enemies during a blaze. Most injuries and fatalities can be avoided if the family conducts careful, regular fire drills. Even young children can be taught to leave a burning house quickly and calmly.

CONTINENTAL has a small pamphlet with many suggestions along these lines. For example, an adult should check the house before retiring to be sure that all cigarettes are out and cooking appliances and space heaters are disconnected. Plan how each person can reach the ground level from the second story.

If a window sticks or does not open easily, teach the individual to break it with a chair, lamp base or nightstand. Drape a blanket or bedspread over the window frame to protect against cuts from fragments of glass.

HANGING by the hands from the window shortens the fall considerably. If someone has to jump avoid concrete walls, trellises and shrubbery. Better still, keep these obstacles away from window areas to facilitate escape.

In many homes and apartments, a porch, garage, sundeck, roof, or portico provides a temporary refuge or a way to reach the ground. Once out of the home, make it clear to each persons that no one is to reenter the building, even for his most precious possession.

FEW PEOPLE can afford sophisticated systems to detect smoke and heat. Local fire officials can tell you where to keep fire extinguishers, water hoses and sand. Test fire equipment periodically and be sure it is approved by a recognized firm, such as Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

Recently a friend of mine said he had a carton of fire extinguishers (the size of soup cans) in his home. These devices are not approved by UL. First, they must be held within a few feet of flames. Second, they contain too little fluid to put out the blaze.

Fire hazards are well-known. The most common seldom is stressed — smoking in a chair or bed after having a few drinks.

SORE NOSE

R. Y. writes: Sunglasses never bothered me before but now the bridge of my nose gets sore when I wear them. Can you tell me why this happens?

REPLY

The fit of the glasses may be responsible or you may have developed an allergy to a chemical in the frames.

DAMAGED HEART

I.R.B. writes: What are the symptoms of a weak heart muscle?

REPLY

Shortness of breath, rapid pulse, and dropsy develop when a heart muscle is so damaged it cannot function properly.

HOT OR COLD

N.V. writes: Is it just as beneficial to drink cold water as hot?

REPLY

Yes. Both change to body temperature shortly after reaching the stomach.

COLD WATER ENEMA

Mrs. T. I. writes: Will an enema reduce fever?

REPLY

A cold water enema may reduce fever but only temporarily.

Seashore Reaction Likely At Meeting

Marin County Board of Supervisors will attempt to draw up an official county reaction tomorrow to the National Park Service's master plan for Point Reyes Seashore.

Both the Marin County Planning Commission and the Parks and Recreation Commission have issued statements urging the protection of natural areas from the crush of automobiles and people.

The supervisors' all-day meeting will start at 9 a.m. on the third floor of the Marin Civic Center.

Supervisors will also consider candidates for appointments to the Marin Youth Commission, a proposed reallocation of positions in the county administrator's office, and the state's proposal to delete major Marin roads from the state highway system.

Other matters on the afternoon agenda are:

ALMONTE SANITARY — A public hearing to detach 36 acres of marshland from Almonte Sanitary District because it is within Mill Valley and is being double taxed. It is near Miller Avenue across the railroad tracks from Tamalpais High School.

DR. SUGARMAN — A public hearing on a plan by Dr. George Sugarman to develop five dwelling units on 19,500 square feet at the north side of Tiburon Boulevard between Bayvista Drive and Blackfield Drive.

CONDOMINIUM — A public hearing on Charles Parmelee's plan to build 114 units of condominiums on 7.8 acres along Tamal Vista Avenue opposite the Co-op Store in Corte Madera.

Novatan Held In Pot Probe

John Hood, 21, of 1113 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

Hood was arrested at 12:50 a.m. Saturday by Novato Police who said he was walking in the street in the area of 930 Grant Avenue without apparent regard for his safety.

Officers said a search disclosed that Hood was carrying a half-ounce of what appeared to be marijuana in his pants pocket.

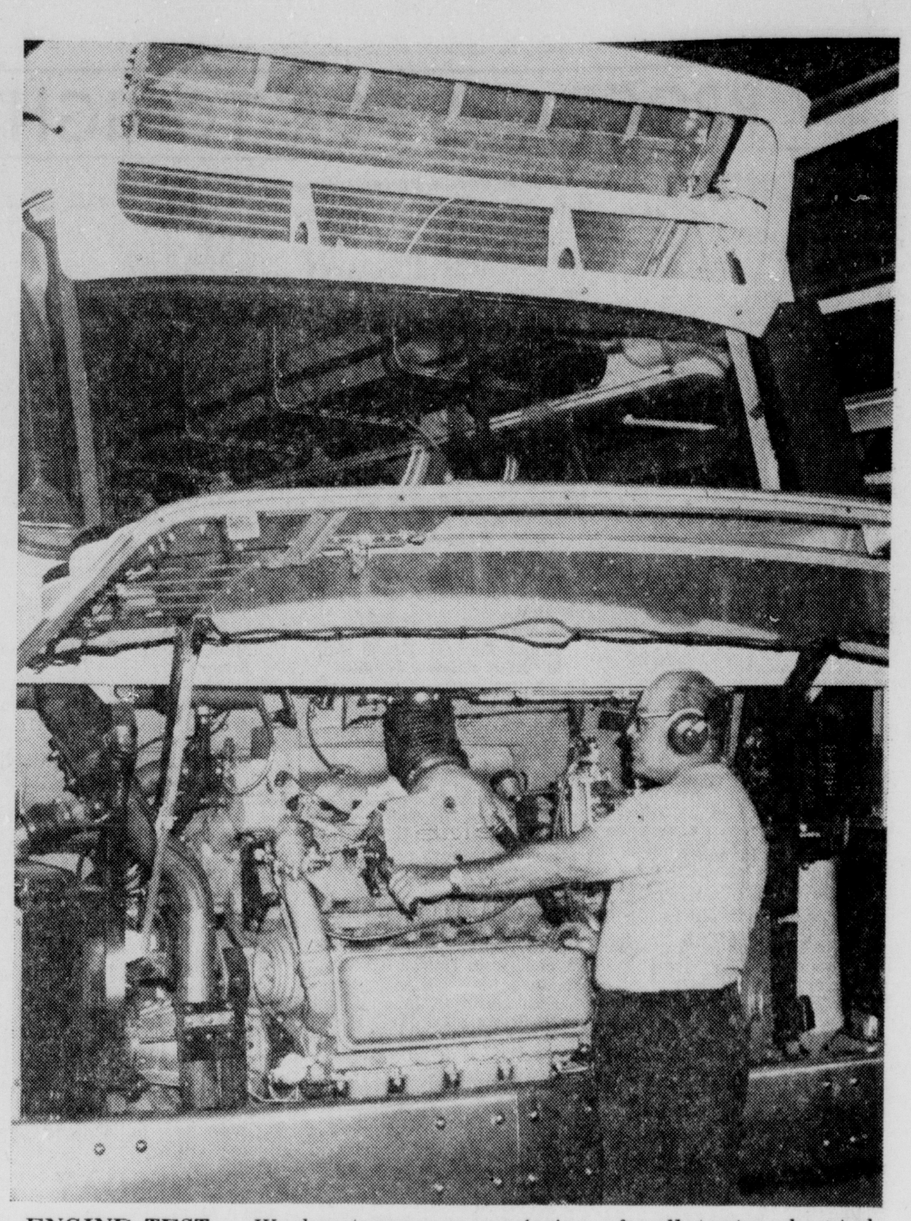
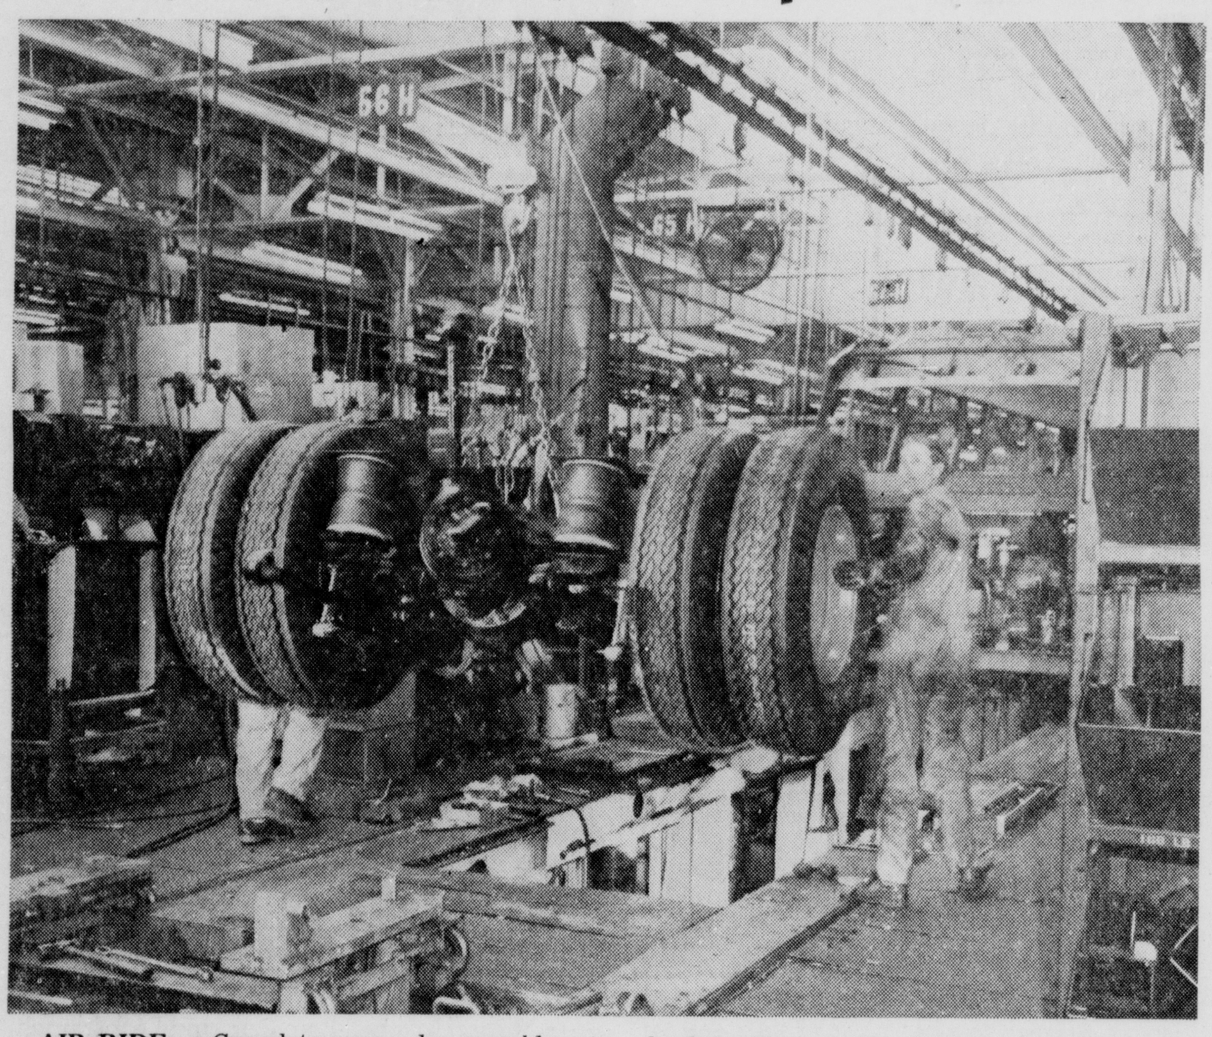
TONIGHT LOOK 4 (YOU'LL NEVER LOOK BETTER)

First Look At Span's Bus Fleet

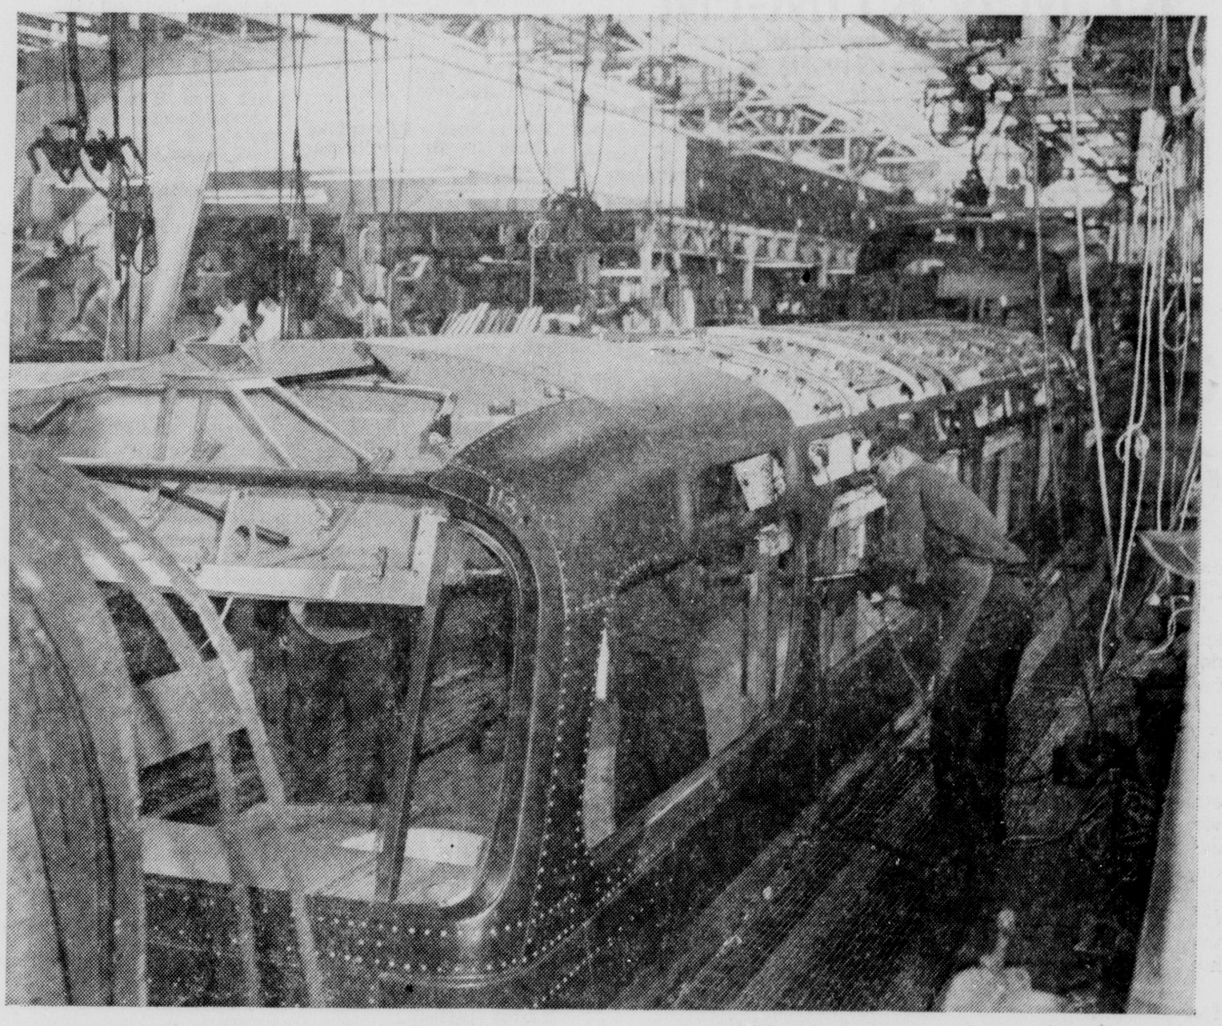
FINAL ASSEMBLY — The first of the Golden Gate Bridge District's $5.8-million fleet of 132 new buses gets its windshield wipers. Eight of the air-conditioned coaches a day come off the Pontiac, Mich., assembly line at General Motors Corp. The bridge district's new coaches, plus 20 Greyhound Lines buses, will roll into service by December.



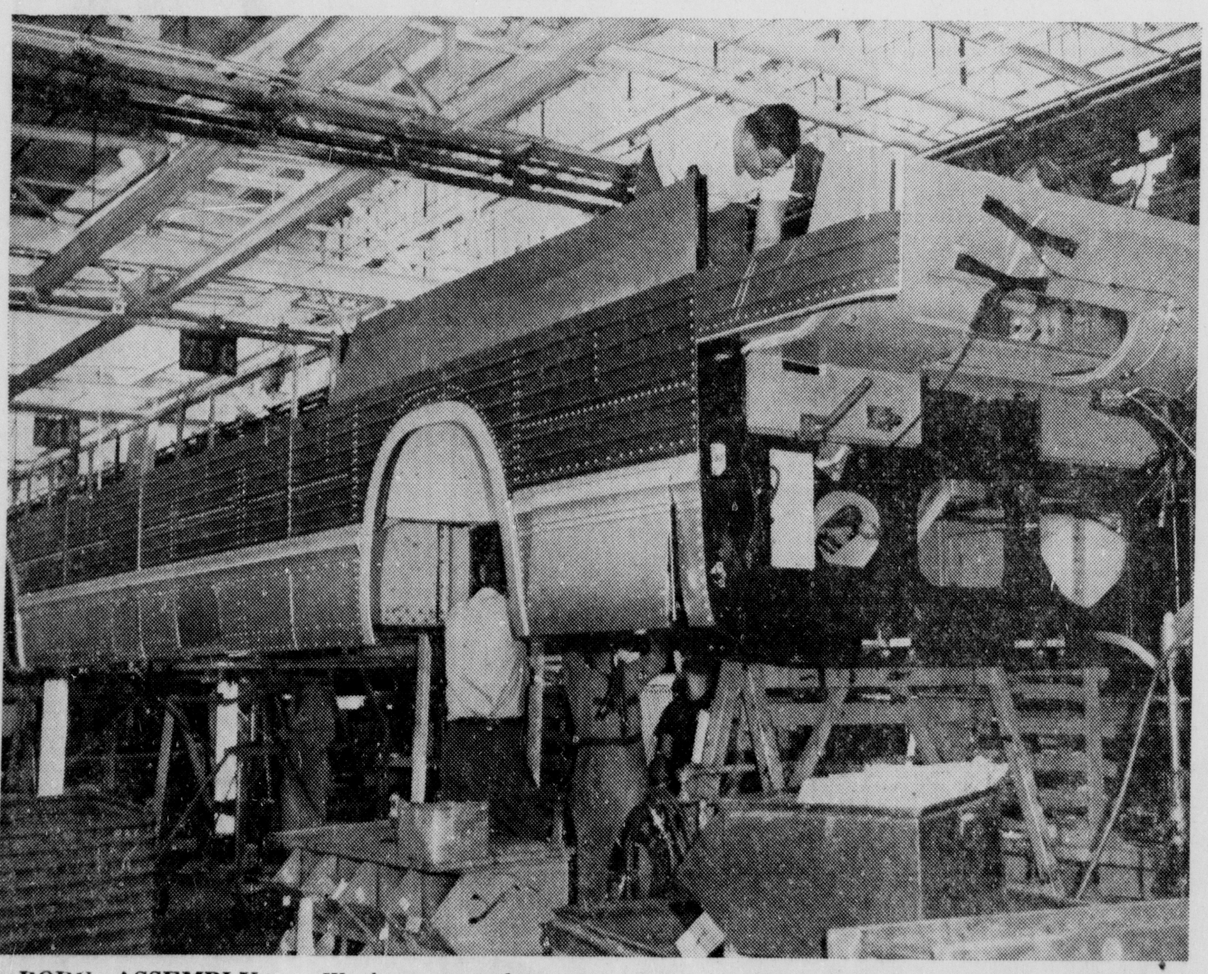
ENGINE TEST — Worker tunes eight-cylinder, 235-horsepower diesel that powers the buses. Each will be equipped with GM's "environmental improvement package." This includes special fuel injectors to cut down on emission of pollutants, elevated exhausts on each side of the rear window for better diffusion of emissions, and improved suppression of both exterior and interior noise.



AIR RIDE — Complete rear axle assembly, equipped with an air suspension, is moved into position for assembly. General Motors originally predicted the buses would exceed by some 600 pounds the state's maximum loaded allowance of 20,500 pounds for rear axles. Later changes and new computations, however, put the maximum on the legal side of the scale — by 15 pounds.



WINDOW RIVETS — Side windows will be the push-out type, replacing the old-style emergency door. The buses will carry 45 seated passengers instead of their maximum capacity of 53. They will be 102 inches wide, compared to conventional 96-inch-wide buses, thus affording extra shoulder width in addition to extra leg room. Heavy bracket at left will support air conditioning.



BODY ASSEMBLY — Workers complete installation of floor in the lower body assembly line, and thread various control rods and lines through to the engine compartment on the right. Assembly at GM's truck and coach division began on Aug. 11, and will be completed later this month. Delivery of buses will begin in October, with training of drivers to fill the brief weeks before service begins in December.

SAFETY LIGHTS — Worker (right) installs side clearance light, part of the extensive lighting required under new federal safety regulations. Front roof ventilator is installed by other worker, left, as the freshly painted bus moves along the assembly line. Total cost of the bus system will be about $10 million, including maintenance and station facilities. The system will link downtown San Francisco to Santa Rosa via points throughout Marin's populated areas.

Giants, Dodgers In Showdown Series

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A very big series between the very hot Los Angeles Dodgers and the very inconsistent San Francisco Giants unfolds tonight at Candlestick Park.

The Giants maintained their shaky three-game lead over the Runnerup Dodgers in the National League West pennant chase by beating the Atlanta Braves 6-1 Sunday to snap a seven-game losing string.

Los Angeles, meanwhile, won its sixth in a row and 11 of the last 13 by turning back San Diego 6-3. That leaves San Francisco's magic clinching number at 14 with the Giants and Dodgers each having 16 games remaining.

As one Dodger wag, a bit tired of the numbers game, put it: "The Giants' magic number will still be 14 with four games left."

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers and Charlie Fox of the Giants will lead with their most effective starters in the last two head-to-head confrontations between these California teams this season.

In a duel of righthanders, Bill Singer (8-16) of the Dodgers goes against Juan Marichal (14-10) tonight. It will be lefty Al Downing (18-8) of Los Angeles versus righthander Gaylord Perry (14-11) Tuesday night.

"Every game is important when you get this close to the end," said Fox after Sunday's win in Atlanta.

"We weren't showing signs of pressing after losing seven straight. This club doesn't have that type of guys. But still, I guess it was best that we broke the streak before these two games with the Dodgers."

Someone asked Fox if the current Dodgers series might decide the division race.

"It's possible," said Fox. "But I can't see how any two games can decide the season when we'll still have 14 more games to go."

The Giants had lost the first two games of the weekend series in Atlanta but wasted little time taking command Sunday. Home runs by Tito Fuentes and Bobby Bonds highlighted a four-run outburst in the first inning and the Giants added two more in the ninth thanks to a couple of walks, two wild pitches and a double by Bonds.

Southpaw John Cumberland went the route for the Giants to improve his record to 9-4. Except for a home run by Marty Perez, he was never threatened. The Braves got only one other runner past first base.

Of the 16 games remaining, Los Angeles had nine at home and seven on the road. The Giants have seven at Candlestick against Los Angeles, Cincinnati (2) and San Diego (3) and nine on the road at Houston (3), Cincinnati (3) and San Diego (3).

Los Angeles and Atlanta have seven games left between them.

RAIN AGAIN WASHES OUT TENNIS ACTION

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Rain caused postponement for the third consecutive day today of the semi-final round in the U.S. open tennis championships.

The men's semi-finals, with third-seeded Arthur Ashe opposing upstart Czechoslovakia Jan Kodes and second-seeded Stan Smith opposing fourth-seeded dutchman Tom Okker, was rescheduled for Tuesday. Weather permitting, the men's final will be played Wednesday along with the woman's singles final between Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco.

When play does resume, it will be with the continuation of the women's doubles final.

REFRESHER — Mike Kapic, who was washing his car in front of his home yesterday, cooled off a Fairfax Festival Walking race competitor, by request, as temperatures soared near 100. San Rafael teacher Bill Ranney won the event.

49ER ROOKIES

Sweating Out Final Cuts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—This is final-cut week for the San Francisco 49ers and very few 1971 draft choices will be around at the end.

Sweating out reduction of the team from 44 to 40 players are running back Joe Orduna, offensive lineman Ernie Janet, quarterback Joe Reed, all-purpose player Tony Harris, offensive lineman John Watson and punter Jim McCann.

Orduna hasn't seen much action in the exhibition season but he was impressive with 33 yards rushing in four tries against the Los Angeles Rams before suffering a slight leg injury. He has carried the ball only 11 times but showed he can play in the National Football League.

Janet came to camp with a pulled muscle and never has been able to go full blast. He might be put on injured waivers or even on injured reserves for one year.

Reed, an 11th round pick, has been a pleasant surprise at quarterback, especially in the Denver game. McCann may be activated from the taxi squad to handle punting chores if Steve Spurrier is unable to go against the Falcons in the 1971 season opener Sunday at Atlanta.

Harris, a 6-3, 190-pounder, can play running back, defensive back and wide receiver. He just may make the club because of his versatility. The former University of Toledo flash was San Francisco's fourth round choice.

Tim Anderson, the team's No. 1 pick from Ohio State, has gone to Toronto in the Canadian League. Wide receiver Sam Dickerson, a third-rounder, was cut and is now with Denver.

Coach Dick Nolan will decide by Tuesday how he will reduce his squad to 40 men. Meanwhile, a lot of nervous rookies will be working out at the 49er camp.

Blanda Still Has The Stuff

OAKLAND (UPI) —"Let George do it" is still a popular handle among te Oakland Raiders.

George Blanda, who turns 44 on Friday, was his usual frisky self Saturday night as he threw a 54-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff to break up a tight exhibition game and ease the way for Oakland's 24-3 win over Baltimore at Jacksonville, Fla.

The toss widened the Raiders' lead from 10-3 to 16-3 and insured Oakland with its fifth preseason win against one loss, the best exhibition record in the club's history. It also was the pre-season finale for both teams.

"We needed a bomb play," said Blanda who earlier had kicked a 31-yard field goal in the third period. "The situation was perfect for it. Freddie hadn't had anything all night.

"I faked a play action on first down and let go. I knew it was there."

It marked the first time in five meetings that Oakland was able to defeat Baltimore.

"Our defense was particularly good against the Colts," said head coach John Madden. The Raiders intercepted four passes and allowed the Colt quarterbacks to complete only 10 of 37 passes.

Lone Baltimore score was a 33-yard field goal by Super Bowl hero Jim O'Brien in the third period.

"In the first period we just wanted to be physical, just wanted to tee off, let our line get off and not use anything fancy," said Madden who begins preparing the Raiders this week for Sunday's 1971 opener at Foxboro, Mass., against Jim Plunkett and the New England Patriots.

Veteran Daryle Lamonica led the Raiders on an 80-yard, 15-play drive in the second period against the Colts. Pete Banaszak capped the march with a one-yard plunge into the end zone.

Then Ken Stabler, the third Oakland quarterback, flipped a five-yard TD pass to rookie Bob Moore of Stanford for the only score in the fourth quarter.

Only injury suffered by the Raiders was to rookie linebacker Greg Slough of USC. He damaged the same knee he hurt in his senior year at college.

CHAMPAGNE READY

A's Can Clinch Crown With Two Wins In K.C.

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—THE Oakland A's shoot for two goals tonight when they open their last road trip of the season against the Kansas City Royals.

Their first goal is to beat the Royals and thereby reward Jim Hunter with his first 20-game season. Their second is to move a little closer to clinching the American League West title.

The A's dropped a 10-inning, 7-5 decision to the Minnesota Twins at home Sunday but reduced the magic number to four when the Royals lost to Chicago. Thus, back-to-back victories here tonight and Tuesday night could start the champagne flowing — the first time for an A's team since Connie Mack owned the club and had it in Philadelphia way back in 1931.

"It sure would be nice to get this thing over with soon," said A's captain Sal Bando. I'm not talking for myself. I feel just fine but a few other guys are draggins."

Manager Dick Williams didn't seem too upset with Sunday's loss to the Twins even with Vida Blue missing for the third time for Victory No. 24. Blue went eight innings, gave up seven hits, five runs, struck out five and walked a season high six batters.

Blue said there is nothing wrong with his golden left arm but that the rest of his body is tired.

"I can pitch strong for five or six innings," he said. "But then it gets tough."

Williams said as soon as the A's clinch the division title he will ask his starting pitchers to work only five or six innings.

"That would be fine with me," said Blue.

A triple by Bert Campaneris and a sacrifice fly by Reggie Jackson staked Blue to a 1-0 lead in the first and he nursed it to the sixth when the Twins tied it and then went ahead, 2-1, in the seventh. It became 5-1 in the top of the eighth when George Mitterwald slammed a three-run homer after an error by Dick Green and a walk put two men on with two out.

The A's came back in the bottom of the inning when Jackson hit his 28th homer and pinchhitters Gene Tenace and Mike Regan added run-scoring singles to cut the deficit to a run at 5-4.

Jackson, back in the home run groove again, nailed his 29th in the ninth to tie it and get Blue off the hook, but in the 10th the Twins won it on a two-run single by Cesar Tovar off Jim Grant.

Charles Coody Shows He Can Win Under Pressure

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—The albatross is gone from around Charlie Coody's neck.

The 34-year-old taciturn Texan from Abileen will never go down in sports history as a funny guy to listen to, like Lee Trevino, and he himself insists even today, "I'm not a superstar, I just do the best I6can."

But in the wake of his one stroke World Series of Golf victory here Sunday, nobody can ever say again that Charlie Coody isn't a deadgame guy on the golf course, that he's the type of a golfer who will fold when the pressure gets really hot.

Because the tall, dark haired former Air Force lieutenant looked disaster in the eye at least three times in the final round and came through with great shots in the clutch for a three over par 73 that produced a winning total of 141 for the two day, 36-hole tournament among the winners of the top golf championships of 1971.

Jack Nicklaus, four time winner of the Series, was second with a 71-142, Bruce Crampton of Australian was third with a 70-143 and Trevino, the U.S. and British Open champion, was last with a 74-146.

Here are the three crises of Charlie Coody on a cool, overcast day at the par 70, 7,180 yard Firestone Country Club course:

...He started the day three strokes ahead of Nicklaus, went four ahead with his only birdie of the day on the first hole then blew the whole wad with a double bogey seven on the second hole as Nicklaus fired an eagle three. Coody made a rambling tour of the rough on two fairways and a trap and wound up muffing a four foot putt.

("It was one of the worst holes I've ever played," he confessed later. "It wasn't that I hit bad shots, it was that I didn't think the hole through. For instance, it never occurred to me to play down the third fairway.")

...He got back into a two stroke lead as Nicklaus bogeyed the 11th hole but saw Big Jack cut it to a single stroke with a fantastic iron shot on the 15th that stopped 18 inches from the pin to set up a birdie.

"I told him 'nice shot,' but what Ireally wanted to do was hit him over the head" said Coody in a rare adventure into humor."

...He went into the final hole leading Nicklaus and the charging Crampton by just one stroke, and then seemed to set himself up for a bogey when he spanked his second shot into the crowd at the right of the green, about 15 feet off the putting surface.

But he came back with a deft chip shot that stopped three feet from the cup.

("That chip shot was the shot that won it for me.")

And then he walked up and took little time wrapping home the short putt for the $50,000 first prize.

People have been mentioning Coody and fold up in the same breath since the 1969 Masters when he went to the 15th tee in the last round with a one stroke lead and bogyed all of the last four holes. But he virtually wiped out that memory when he won this year's Masters for his first major championship which also earned him a berth in the World Series and his victory here has completed the wipe-out job.

Ranney Wins In A Walk

It was San Rafael High School day at the sixth annual Fairfax Festival Walking Race yesterday as Bill Ranney, a San Rafael high teacher, won for the third time.

His 54:38 clocking over the eight-mile course in sweltering 95 degree weather easily defeated San Rafael High School senior Steve Lund, 56:29.

Goetz Klopfer, another San Rafael H.S. instructor, claimed third at 59:31.

Defending champion Tom Dooley, another San Rafael High faculty member was sidelined by a foot injury, thus reducing the size of the field. In Dooley's absence, Ranney grabbed a short lead at the outset with Klopfer hot on his heels. However, Ranney kept the face pace as Klopfer began fading after three miles.

Meanwhile, Lund, walking his best race to date, was still within striking distance at the five-mile mark before he succumbed to the pressures of heat and pace.

When Lund fell back, Ranney walked home a winner, a full 1:51 ahead of the spread out field. Lithe Sheryl Robinson was 11th, the first female finisher at 69:56.

The top 15:
Bill Ranney, Athens Athletic Club, 54:38; Steve Lund, unattached, 56:29; Goetz Kopfer, Athens Athletic Club, 59:31; Roger Duran, San Jose Yearlings, 60:31; Jim Bentley, Stockton Race Walkers, 62:24; Manuel Adriano, West Valley Track Club, 62:45; Brad Bentley, Stockton Race Walkers, 62:53; Wayne Glusker, West Valley Track Club, 63:30; Jerry Lansing, Athens Athletic Club, 67:12; Dan Horan, Chico State College, 69:25; Sheryl Robinson, Stockton Race Walkers, 69:56; Bryan Snazelle, Stockton Race Walkers, 70:00; Jack Halligan, unattached, 72:00; Lyndon Blodgett, Stockton Race Walkers, 72:45; Phil Mooers, West Valley Track Club, 74:52.

Wibroe Wins Knarr Yacht Regatta

Belvedere's Knud Wibroe won the Knarr Class International Regatta title Sunday with 40 points, nipping fellow Sausalitan Al Blair by one point.

Denmark's Niels Grauballe finished third in the three-nation field of 20 skippers battling on San Francisco Bay. Another Dane, 1970 champion Niels Johansen, claimed the sixth and final heat to take fifth overall, one slot behind Terry Anderlini of San Mateo.

Richard Griffith of Belvedere was ninth, two pegs ahead of Sausalito's Ted McKown. Wynn Oliver, a San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere member, was 13th. Three other S.F. Yacht Cub color bearers took honors, George Sayre, 15th, Art Rude, 18th, and Grant Settlemeier, 19th.

Revson Getting Close To Can-Am Race Title

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Peter Revson of New York is close to the 1971 Canadian-American Challenge Cup driving championship.

Revson moved closer to the title Sunday when he swept to victory in the 210-mile Donnybrooke Can-Am at Brainerd, Minn., averaging better than 119 miles per hour.

Revson earned $17,450 in prize money after piloting his Gulf-McLaren to a 47-second victory over teammate Dennis Hulme of New Zealand, who also drove a Gulf-McLaren. Gregg Young was third.

The victory gave Revson 20 more points in the 10-race competition and boosted his total to 107. Hulme is second with 70 with three races still remaining.

Al Unser sped by his brother, Bobby, on the 247th lap and went on to win the 250-mile Governor's Cup U.S. Auto Club late model stock car race at West Allis, Wis. Al Unser, in a 1971 Ford Torino, managed to win when Bobby decided to forego a pit stop.

San Marin '11' Loses Opener

By RON LENT

Though San Marin High School quarterback Hoza Wright had his troubles, he proved to be an offensive spark in an otherwise lackluster, 346 loss, compliments of Gunn High School of Palo Alto, Saturday at Novato High School's field.

Wright bolted 11 yards for the Mustangs' lone tally with 9:22 left in the one-sided contest. However, the visiting Titans proved too experienced and smooth for the young ponies in their opening game.

Subdued Mustang coach Bob Martin had little to say after the 48-minute mauling, but sideline observers and the visiting coaching staff were a bit more loquacious. "Their quarterback and fullback (Fred Doar) were strong," a pair of Titan tutors agreed while running for the team bus.

This opinion was also accepted by numerous arm chair experts; but their enthusiasm was tempered by the final score after seeing Gunn hit paydirt in each period behind the signal calling expertise exhibited by Bob Briggs.

The sharp passing, hard running field general showed triple threat talents, kicking four extra points enroute. Briggs fired four touchdowns, including two 54-yarders.

When Briggs was not wreaking havoc on the youthful San Marin secondary, he was sweeping end or giving off to halfbacks Dolf Placencia and Tom Oberhelman.

Wright also stood out, albeit to a lesser degree. Wright left his leaky pass protection pocket to run 71 yards, 14 more than teammate Fred Doar. The latter played with a lot of heart, in view of an injured knee.

Doar should be in better shape when the Mustangs host Encinal High of Alameda on the same field Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

One Play Costly To Marin

Today Marin Catholic High School football mentor Bruno Banducci was still talking about a broken play which spoiled his head coaching debut Saturday. Salesian High of Richmond won 14-12.

With less than two minutes remaining, the host Wildcats were clinging tenaciously to a seemingly solid 12-7 lead. "After missing two passes, Don Maestas threw a 68-yard bomb which our Russ Knudson intercepted, but when he was hit, the ball popped in the air and a Salesian end caught it. The guy went into the endzone all alone, because the ball never hit the ground," Banducci explained afterward.

"It would have been a nice little win," he continued, "and we stopped them pretty well considering they were so much bigger. We did a good job considering. We didn't tire. We made our yardage in the second half."

Ironically, the locals' two touchdowns came during the first 30 minutes, without benefit of sustained marches. The first was razzle-dazzle play with quarterback Steve Sherry pitching out to tailback Pat Parnow. The strong runner then returned the ball to the signal caller who ran it 59 yards for the first six pointer of the game.

The other Wildcat tally came on a Sherry to John Shallich pass. After catching the aerial, Shallich lateralled to slotback Tom Louderback. The latter bolted the remaining 46 yards for Marin's last offensive outburst of the day.

"We held them well in the second half, also, but they got that winning touchdown on a fluke of errors," he said. "Their first touchdown came after pass interference was called against us inside our 10-yard line." The ensuing score made it 12-7 at the intermission, setting the stage for the second half pyroantics.

5 Shutouts Open Pop Warner Play

Outstanding defensive play highlighted the 18th annual Marin County Pop Warner Football Conference Festival Saturday at College of Marin and yesterday at Marin Catholic High School.

There were five shutouts in the seven games: San Marin Mustangs 20, Novato Hornets 0; San Marin Colts 12, Novato Yellowjackets 0; San Rafael Rangers 12, Petaluma 0; Tamalpais Indians 14, Drake Pirates 0; Drake Buccaneers 14, Tamalpais Redskins 7; Redwood Giants 12, Terra Linda Trojans 8; Terra Linda Trobabes 18, Redwood Gremlins 0.

Pop Warner football is for boys aged 10 through 14 years.

Scoring touchdowns were: Mustangs — John Weston (2), Brett Schaake; Colts — Paul Pater (2 on passes from Marc Flint); Rangers — Tim Coleman, Jeff Mallett; Indians — Doug Smith (2); Buccaneers — Bill Cuneo (2); Redkins — Mike O-Neill (pass from Ken Knudsen); Trobabes — Cory Reade (2) and Wayne Bonfante.

Bunce Named Player Of Week

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Like his illustrious predecessor, quarterback Don Bunce of Stanford is beginning to reap some honors.

The 6-1, 196-pound successor to Jim Plunkett today was picked the first 1971 Pacific-8 Conference offensive player of the week. The former Woodside High School star was at the throttle most of the way as Stanford ran up 353 yards in a season-opening 19-0 win over Missouri.

Bunce engineered a pair of touchdown drives for the Indians in the second quarter and directed the squad to within range of two successful field goals. He hit on 12 of 26 passes for 149 yards, including a 26-yard scoring toss to sophomore flanker John Winesberry.

5 Marin Teams In Scrums

Five Marin County Athletic League football teams got in their first scrimmage licks against other schools Saturday under a broiling sun.

Coaches minimized scoreboard importance, preferring to discuss overall developments and team enthusiasm; San Rafael, Novato, Terra Linda, Drake and Redwood High Schools sqnt two hours each in scrums.

Terra Linda Trojan mentor Don Lucas was pleased with running back Mike Sabel's 65-yard off tackle touchdown scurry, despite the 28-9 count favoring host Pinole Valley.

Redwood also came out on the short end as Alameda handed the Giants a 30-6 slap. However, coach Phil Roark, while not overjoyed with the score, was happy with the development of sophomore halfback Bill Edralin, making his first varsity appearance. The young fullback drew accolades for solid running efforts on the Larkspur field.

Besides the score, Roark's only other regret was the loss of backup quarterback John Troppmann. He will probably miss the opener Saturday with visiting Sacred Heart of San Francisco.

The Novato Hornets outscored visiting Harry Ells of Oakland, four touchdowns to three as returning All League Quarterback Marty Moroski unlimbered his talented throwing arm.

While the Hornets, Giants and Trojans performed in game-like conditions, San Rafael High held a controlled scrum.

One area Drake won't have to apparently worry about is the defense. In a controlled scrimmage in Alameda, coach Bob Franchescini's charges proved "we could stop people" against Encinal High School. Offensively, the San Anselmo mentor said, "we need some work, but we are coming along pretty well."

John Miller Wins $20,000 First Prize

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — John Miller became the eighth first-time winner on the PGA tour this season when he scored a five-stroke triumph Sunday in the South Open Invitational Tournament.

The 24-year-old Californian fired a three-under-par 67 in his final round for a record-breaking total of 267, 13-under-par. He took home $20,000 as first prize.

"I'd planned to go fishing and decided at the last minute to cancel it," Miller said. "I'm glad I did. I'll be here every year."

Football

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Place kicker Tom Dempsey, whose 63-yard field goal set a national football league record, was placed on wavers but went unclaimed by the other 25 NFL teams, a New Orleans Saints spokesman said Sunday.

Dempsey was successful on only one of eight field goal attempts in five pre-season games this year.

The record 63-yard boot gave the Saints a 19-17 win over the Detroit Lions Nov. 8, 1970. Dempsey's feat was considered even more remarkable because he was born with only half a right foot, his kicking foot, and no right hand.

According to the spokesman, the Saints have until Thursday to activate Dempsey, place him on the taxi squad or release him completely.

Baseball

MONTREAL (UPI) — Gene Mauch, manager of the Montreal Expos, Sunday had his contract extended through the 1973 season.

Mauch, who had one year to run on his current contract, was given an extension of one year by Expos' general manager Jim Fanning. Mauch, 45, has been the manager of the Expos since they entered the National League in 1969.

The Expos have finished last in the East Division in the previous two years but stand a good chance of escaping the cellar this year.

Tennis

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Arthur Ashe and Ken Rosewall of Australia will meet in a $1,000 exhibition tennis match at the Golden Gateway Club Sept. 25.

The event will benefit the Youth Tennis Foundation and also kick off the $50,000 Redwood Bank International Open championships at the Berkeley Tennis Club Sept. 25 through Oct. 3.

NFL Completes Exhibition Slate

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Pro football's pre-season schedule, a season unto itself, finally is over and all that remains before next weekend's opening games is the paring down of rosters.

The exhibition season came to a close Sunday as Detroit clobbered Philadelphia 49-10, Pittsburgh ripped the New York Giants 20-3, Houston downed New Orleans 24-17 and Chicago drubbed Denver 33-17. What faces the National Football League's 26 coaches today is the 4 p.m. EDT deadline for trimming rosters to 40 players.

And complicating the matter further is the fact that since this is the last cut of the exhibition season, waivers cannot be recalled. There'll be lots of juggling and manipulating to avoid losing some valuable property for the $100 waiver price.

Detroit, prepping for its big season opener against Minnesota, a game which could set the tone of the National Conference's tough Central Division race, ran roughshod over the hapless Eagles. Greg Landry, out the last two weeks with a twisted knee, returned to action Sunday night with a four touchdown performance, including three TD passes to tight end Charlie Sanders, to power the Lions to victory.

Landry hit Sanders with TD passes of 49, eight and four yards and also threw an 18-yard scoring pass to Ron Jessie. Mel Farr and Bill Triplett scored on short runs and reserve quarterback Bill Munson added a six-yard TD pass to Craig Cotton.

Pete Liske's four-yard pass to Gary Ballman in the second quarter provided the only Philadelphia TD.

John Fuqua rambled 52 yards with a short pass from Terry Bradshaw to break open a close defensive battle and lead the Steelers over the Giants.

Houston built up a 21-3 halftime lead and then held off New Orleans' second half rally to beat the Saints. Joe Dawkins' 35-yard run, a 61-yard punt return by Zeke Moore and Charlie Johnson's 35-yard pass to Jim Bierne accounted for three Oiler scores in the first half before Manning rallied the Saints for a pair of third quarter TDs.

Mac Percival kicked four field goals and Jack Concannon and Kent Nix threw a TD pass each as the Bears rallied from a 14-point first period deficit to defeat the Broncos. Denver took a 14-0 lead on a pair of TD passes by Don Horn of three yards to Jim Whalen and 64 to Dwight Harrison before Don Shy's six-yard run and Concannon's 17-yard pass to Bob Wallace tied the score.

Two field goals by Percival, a 55-yard TD pass from Nix to Dick Gordon and two more Percival field goals put the game out of reach.

In Saturday action, Cincinnati and Washington played to a 1717 tie, Dallas stopped Kansas City 24-17, Minnesota shut out Miami 24-0, Oakland crushed Baltimore 24-3 and San Diego whipped Atlanta 21-14.

Bill Kilmer, playing in place of the injured Sonny Jurgesen, threw a 42-yard TD pass to Jerry Smith in the fourth quarter to help the Redskins tie Cincinnati.

Dallas finished with the NFL's only unbeaten pre-season record —6-0 —when Craig Morton threw a 70-yard TD pass to Gloster Richardson with 4:03 remainung in the game tc boost the Cowboys over Kansas City. Richardson, obtained from Kansas City in an off-season trade, pulled in the pass from Morton on the 23 and raced in untouched.

Len Dawson had TD passes for 48 yards to rookie Elmo Wright and 55 to Otis Taylor.

Clint Jones ran for two scores and Norm Snead threw a 45-yard TD pass to John Henderson as the Vikings humbled Miami.

Daniele, former Terra Linda High School star, completed 14 of 30 passes for 204 yards and ran for 41 yards while Peak connected on 10 of 22 attempts for 135 yards. Marin's leading rusher was Leon Delisle with 46 yards.

In the defensive scrimmage Saturday evening at Concord, standouts for Marin were linebackers Chris Fenton, Rick Puccinelli, Dennis Miller and Rick Gifford, end Ken Blasingame and tackle Frank Pomilia. Pomilia recovered two fumbles while Art Monroe, McGrath and Dave Perron each intercepted a pass.

COAST FOOTBALL

Stanford Wins; Cal Is Drubbed

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Stanford and Washington took an early sniff of the roses over the weekend while the rest of the Pacific-8 Conference appeared to be suffering from sinus trouble.

All of the Pac-8 schools opened their 1971 gridiron seasons against intersectional foes but only the Indians of Stanford—the 1971 Rose Bowl winner—and the Huskies of Washington were victorius.

Behind a stalwart defense and the quarterbacking of Don Bunce, Stanford blanked Missouri 19-0 for the first shutout suffered by the Tigers in 38 games. Junior quarterback Sonny Sixkiller threw touchdown passes of 42 and 27 yards while seeing limited action in Washington's 65-7 blitz of UC Santa Barbara.

The two Pac-8 schools from Los Angeles—UCLA and USC—dropped their openers. Pittsburgh edged the Bruins 29-25 Saturday night after Alabama had disposed of USC 17-10 Friday night. The Trojans were ranked fourth and UCLA 14th in UPI's pre-season poll.

Top-ranked Nebraska piled up 426 yards and contained quarterback Dan Fouts and tailback Bobby Moore in whipping Oregon 34-7 at Lincoln, Neb. Oregon is expected to battle USC, Stanford and Washington for the Pac-8 title this season.

In other road games involving Pac-8 teams, Arkansas overwhelmed California 51-20, Georgia outgunned Oregon State 5625 and Kansas whitewashed Washington State 34-0.

In the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, defending champion Long Beach State traveled to Jackson, Miss., and dropped a 29-13 decision to the Mississippi Rebels while Miami of Ohio pinned a 17-10 loss on University of Pacific at Stockton.

Two upstarts from the Far Western Conference pulled surprises. Tiny Hayward State defeated Fresno State 18-14 and San Francisco State nipped Puget Sound 35-34.

"It was a typical opening game," said Stanford coach John Ralston. "We did some things right and some things wrong. We expected Missouri to open up more in the second half."

Bunce, who inherited the Indians starting quarterback role from Jim Plunkett, completed 12 of 26 passes for 149 yards. He also hit sophomore Flanker John Winesberry for a 26-yard scoring pass.

But Buncegave all the credit to the Stanford defense led by linebacker Jeff Siemon, guards Larry Butler and Pete Lazetich and new defensive back Dennis Bragonier, filling in for the injured Charlie McCloud.

"Offensively, we have to credit our defense more than anything else for turning the ball over to us so often," said Bunce.

Stanford accumulated 353 yards on offense compared to 147 for Mizzou. And in soccer style kicker Rod Garcia, the Indians found a successor to Steve Horowitz. Garcia booted field goals of 44 and 28 yards.

Steve Kemnitzer scored twice on two-yard smashes to give Cal a 13-7 lead over Arkansas but the Razorbacks bounced back behind quarterback Joe Ferguson to rout the Bears. Arkansas piled up 593 yards on offense.

"They just out-executed us," said Cal coach Ray Willsey. "Our defensive secondary didn't support against the run very well. We had a lot of breakdowns all over the field."

In addition to losing a game, the Bears also lost quarterback Reed Chastang with an injury to his right shoulder. He undergoes surgery Tuesday and will be lost to the Bears for at least six weeks. Jay Cruze will take over at quarterback.

Warriors Sign Baptiste

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Golden State Warriors, who begin official National Basketball Association pre-season workouts this week, have signed 6-9 center Cyril Baptiste, a Creighton junior selected in a supplemental draft for collegiate hardship cases.

Terms of the agreement, which was announced Sunday, were not revealed, but a Warriors spokesman said Baptiste "can no longer be considered a financial hardship case."

Baptiste, the oldest of four children whose father was killed 18 years ago while enroute to the hospital for the birth of the youngest Baptiste boy, averaged 19.1 points per game in his two-year collegiate career along with 11.5 rebounds per game.

Warriors general manager Bob Ferrick said that by drafting Baptiste now the club loses its first round draft pick next spring.

"Had Baptiste been eligible last spring," Ferrick said, "we would have picked him No. 1."

Instead, the Warriors chose Darnell Hillman of San Jose State and the U.S. Army, but Hillman signed with the Indiana Pacers of the American Basketball Association.

Baptiste will arrive in San Francisco and join his new teammates in informal workouts. The Warriors, who will play all their home games this season in the Oakland Coliseum Arena, open official training sessions Thursday at San Jose City College.

The 15 men on the regular roster, including player-coach Al Attles, also numbers several rookies. Forward Odis Allison of Nevada-Las Vegas and guard Greg Gary of St. Bonaventure are among this year's draft crop as is guard Charlie Johnson of California, who has not signed but will probably join the camp.

Other newcomers include former Michigan forward Cazzie Russell, acquired in a trade with New York for Jerry Lucas, and guard-forward Jim Barnett, picked up from the Portland Trail blazers.

World's Record Ping Pong Game

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The score was 2,602 to 2,509 when Warren Murray and his wife wearily dropped their paddles Sunday after a 24-hour ping pong match.

Murray, 29, a television writer who is the son of comedian Jan Murray, and his wife, Hope, 28, claimed the world's record for the longest singles table tennis match and the highest singles score.

"We looked up in the Guinness Book of Records and noted there wasn't a record for the longest, highest scoring singles match played between two people," Murray said. "A record was set in 1970 for continuous singles play of 424 hours but that was with four alternating players."

Pollution's Pied Piper

It only takes one person or one group within a city or town to take the lead in a good pollution fight. Just one group or person that knows what it takes to beat the problem.

Like keeping in close touch with local budget and zoning matters; or establishing clean-up or beautification committees; or urging local support for sewage treatment plants; maybe driving for more trash receptacles and better "street furniture."

There's one more thing you can do to start your town's anti-pollution fight: Write for a free booklet, "71 Things You Can Do To Stop Pollution," Box 1771, Radio City Station, New York, New York.

People start pollution. People can stop it.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Finance Needs Limit Growth

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would like to know about the rights being offered by Pacific Tel. & Tel. Should I buy or sell the rights? Should I sell my stock and take a $2500 loss? It pays a good dividend but what are the chances of it going up? — S.Q.

A. Under terms of this rights offering, which expires Sept. 30, you will be entitled to purchase one common share at $16.375 for each eight shares you now hold. In your case you would be able to increase your holdings by 25 shares. Otherwise the rights should be sold through your broker. And, unless income is of paramount concern, I would advise taking the latter option.

Full acceptance of the Pacific rights offering will increase the common outstanding by 13 per cent, diluting common share earnings proportionately. Construction expenditures are anticipated at $1.7 billion for 1971 and 1972. By 1975 these costs are expected to reach $1 billion annually, financed in part by additional common share offerings.

Earnings progress will, in effect, be restricted in proportion to the mounting number of common shares outstanding. Rising interest and construction expenses will also be a factor in limiting Pacific's growth potential.

Q. How are over-the-counter purchases handled? — R. D.

A. OTC purchases are made just like any other, as far as you personally are concerned. They are, however, handled differently by your broker, who acquires stock by negotiation rather than by auction on the floor of an exchange, as is the case with listed stocks. If your investment house acts as a broker, it will buy shares for your account and bill you as agent, charging about the same commission as you would have to pay for a listed stock. If it acts as a dealer, it will bill you as principal at a net price which includes its normal markup.

Jittery Investors Send Stocks Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks were slightly lower in quiet trading through the second hour today.

Electronic and selected specialty issues came under the most pressure. Chemicals ranged to more than a point lower. Steels were steady to fractionally easier, while motors, oils, airlines and aircrafts moved over narrowly irregular paths.

Profit taking, spilling over from late last week, accounted for part of the setback. Another key reason, however, stemmed from investor uncertainty over what action President Nixon will take in phase two in his new program designed to spur economic recovery.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.23 at100.19, and declines topped advances by 200 issues.

Prices also retreated in routine trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most heavily traded Amex issues were Equity Corp. down slightly on 22,000 shares, House of Fabrics, Inc. down fractionally on 21,000 shares, and Presley Development up more than a point on 13,000 shares.

On the Big Board, weakest spots included Bausch & Lomb down 4 3-8 and IBM 3 1-4. Among the issues down a point or so were Eastman Kodak, Missouri Pacific Railroad, Honeywell, Polaroid and Wrigley.

Fractionally lower were Bethlehem Steel, Atlantic Richfield, Southern Pacific, UAL Inc., General Dynamics, General Electric, Westinghouse, Zenith, Xerox, and American Telephone.

Group Buys Bonds For U Of Nevada

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Bank of America and Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc. head an underwriting group which have bought the $6.75 million revenue bonds of the University of Nevada.

The offering consisted of $4.25 million University of Nevada, Reno, capital improvement fee revenue bonds and $2.5 million University of Nevada, Las Vegas student fee revenue bonds.

Proceeds of the sale of the Reno capital fee bonds will be used to construct a physical education building on the Reno campus and to purchase and install the necessary equipment.

Funds realized through the sale of the Las Vegas student fee bonds will be used to build and equip a gymnasium on the Las Vegas campus.

Student enrollment was 6,734 on the Reno campus and 4,559 on the Las Vegas campus in the fall of 1970.

Table-Top Computer Device May Replace Vote Machines

An unemployed aerospace engineer, James Whitworth of Greenbrae, has developed a table-top computer device, which he says promises to obsolete every voting machine in the country.

Called the Ballotmaster, the machine electronically records and stores votes in a memory system at each precinct. When the polls close, memory banks are interrogated over telephone lines by a processor-storage unit at central election headquarters.

Whitworth, who hopes to find financing for his Ballotmaster before the 1972 elections, says its accuracy is assured electronically by eliminating the human error in the voting process and by the fact that the voter punches an IBM card when casting his vote. This can be checked later against the electronic vote. And it is said to work fast — recording total votes for entire counties within minutes after the polls close.

How much does it cost? Whitworth is shooting for a figure of $1,000 per precenct for one Ballotmaster and its memory unit.

SCHOOL STARTS TODAY

The clutter of bicycles, the piling out of a bus, the smiling faces on some and the dejected expressions on others all mark the opening of school. These students today were headed for classes at Davidson Junior High School in San Rafael. Summer vacation will be interrupted for another nine months of education. Rebel Prisoners Kill 9 Hostages

28 Inmates Killed In Attica Fighting

ATTICA, N.Y. (UPI) — Rebel convicts killed nine civilian employes at Attica State Prison today as more than 1,000 state troopers, National Guardsmen and sheriffs' deputies stormed the facility. One unconfirmed report said 28 prisoners died in the gunfire.

The insurgent inmates had held 38 hostages since the outbreak erupted last Thursday. Twenty-nine hostages were freed, including four in critical condition.

The throats of eight hostages had been slashed, officials said, and one employe was shot to death. In addition, a guard died Saturday of injuries suffered when thrown from a window.

A helicopter decoyed the prisoners at the start of the assault by flying over one corner of Cellblock "D". When the prisoners seemed distracted, two other choppers began dropping tear gas and the authorities opened fire as they attacked the high-walled prison.

Nearly four hours after the massive assault on the prison began, fighting continued.

At first, officers poured hundreds of shots and tear gas canisters into the besieged prison. Throughout the morning sporadic firing came from inside the gray walls.

The attack on the prison came after prisoners rejected an appeal from state Correction Commissioner Russell G. Oswald to release the hostages. Oswald said he had no alternative because prisoners were becoming in creasingly well-armed with knives made in a prison shop they controlled. He said they also were erecting barricades that soon would have been difficult to break through.

"It became apparent to me that the situation was rapidly deteriorating and it was evident the prisoners were not going to cooperate," he said. "Their behavior was not too much different than their behavior on the streets, where several were convicted of manslaughter and murder."

Capt. Elmer Huehn, one of the freed hostages, said the prisoners "became more militant" after the ultimatum was delivered.

"We were so near death so many times in the last five days, it's unbelievable, unbelievable," Heuhn said. "After the ultimatum they held a knife to my throat. But the Puerto Rican guy didn't have the heart to do it."

Gov A. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who said before the attack he could not legally grant the prisoners' demands for amnesty, postponed his trip to the National Governor's Conference in Puerto Rico and remained in his New York City office.

The convicts had threatened to kill their hostages if their

San Francisco Busing Boycott

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The largest elementary school integration and busing program in the nation went into effect today with evidence of a widespread boycott.

In Chinatown, where opposition to the court-ordered program to bus 26,000 San Francisco children to new schools ran highest, the boycott was virtually complete in some cases. One bus went out with only one child. Others carried only 5 per cent of assigned students.

At U. S. Navy facilities at Treasure Island, where children for the first time were being bused elsewhere, a total of 571 students were assigned to buses and 149 actually went.

In scattered checks elsewhere in the city, buses appeared to be carrying about half their assigned students.

No violence was reported and only light picketing at scattered locations. School officials said the boycott was a familiar reaction which had been experienced in previous busing programs and were hopeful the children would start coming to school over the next few days.

At Chinatown's Commodore Stockton School, the first bus went out with one lonely little Eurasian girl, Mickey Metcalf, 7, as its occupant. Chinatown residents strongly resisted the busing which they said would destroy their traditional Chinese schools.

Later buses out of Chinatown to schools in other parts of the city appeared to be carrying only about 5 per cent of the children assigned to them

Incoming buses to the Chinatown schools were about half full.

"It will pick up," said Caesar Orsine, principal of Commodore Stockton. "It will pick up. Every day."

Mickey's mother said she was taking part in the program because an integrated society "is the true society."

"It's the law," she said. "It will take a while to work out."

Other Chinese parents, whose children were to ride on later buses, said they did not agree with the program but would take part in it. "I am working," said Mrs. Peach Marteinz. "we can't do anything else."

The Board of Education hired a private firm to provide 130 new yellow buses to carry out the court-ordered integration program for the city's 97 grammar schools. The city's junior and senior high schools were not involved.

U.S. District Judge Stanley A. Weigel in July ordered the

Post-Freeze Council Role Backed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Archie K. Davis, president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, recommended today that the Cost of Living Council be kept in existence to oversee whatever economic controls are imposed following the 90-day wage-price-rent freeze.

Just before going to the White House to join in a meeting of 11 business leaders with President Nixon, Davis said the group would tell the President they applaud his economic moves while favoring a return to a "free market" as soon as possible.

"But Phase 2 (the period after the freeze) has to be a gradual winding down," Davis said.

Davis' position —which he said reflected the feelings of the other business leaders attending the meeting —was in conflict with AFL-CIO President George Meany, who has recommended that Phase 2 be controlled by an independent board of labor, business and the public.

Prior to the second of a series of meetings he is holding with various groups to discuss post-freeze plans, Nixon met with members of his Cabinet and their wives. They crowded around the big Cabinet table.

The conference with the business group immediately followed, starting shortly before 11 a.m. EDT, in the same room. On hand among Nixon advisers were the chairman and vic3 chairman of the Cost of Living Council, Tre asury Secretary John B. Connally and Paul W. McCracken, head of the Council of Economic Advisers.

Davis was interviewed on the NBC-TV Today Show.

Davis said Meany's plan for a nongovernment board would not work. "I think it would be a mistake to start out that way because you would pit business and labor and the public against each other," Davis said.

Davis said the present Cost of Living Council, composed of Cabinet level members, was the logical and the best group to control Phase 2. The council

Marin Heat Wave; Mercury Hits 107

The hottest weather of a relatively cool summer hit Marin and Southern Sonoma counties yesterday and temperatures ranged as high as 107 degrees in Novato.

The weatherman promised little immediate relief but said cooling air will arrive toward the end of the week.

"It's just hot; that's all," a National Weather Service meteorologist said.

As for smog, a spokesman for the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District described the situation yesterday as "well above the adverse level." He noted that "the oxidant count was high in San Rafael." The oxidant count, he said, was .19 per million parts compared to .10, the adverse level set by the state. (See smog readings, page 9).

Carbon monoxide and nitrogen dioxide counts were low, however, he said.

The spokesman said, "Allowing for haze and a few other things, it wasn't as bad yesterday as it has been and not as bad as we're expecting today."

The hot weather coincided with the opening of school in many districts, giving credence to the folklore that there's always a heat wave for the beginning of the school year.

High temperatures in Marin and Southern Sonoma yesterday were San Rafael, 101; Fairfax, 97; San Anselmo, 101; Terra Linda, 104; Hamilton Air Force Base, 98; Novato, 107; Petaluma, 102; Woodacre, 105; Sausalito, 98; Mill Valley, 92; Bolinas, 80, and Tamalpais Valley, 90.

FORMER HURRICANE'S LEGACY

Refugees load into a National Guard truck in Sinton, Tex. after south Texas was flooded by hurricane Fern which died in the northeastern Mexico mountains yesterday. Another tropical storm, Heidi, churned in the Atlantic and small craft warning flew from Cape Hatteras to New England. Hurricane Ginger flung 90 mile-per-hour winds east of Bermuda. Former hurricane Edith, which claimed 35 lives in Nicaragua, drifted into the Gulf of Mexico.

Viets Capture Red Supplies And Guns

SAIGON (UPI)—South Vietnamese Black Panther forces destroyed a Communist supply cache hidden near the Laotian border and in the same mountain jungles captured three 122mm long range North Vietnamese guns, military spokesmen said today.

It was the first major success for a 13,000-man South Vietnamese task force now in the second week of a sweep across 625 square miles of rugged terrain below the Demilitarized one (DMZ).

South Vietnamese military spokesmen said a 220-man Black Panther unit operating 11 miles northwest of the old Khe Sanh combat base and about one-half mile from Laos Sunday and early today withstood a barrage of about 100 "undetermined type" shells directed at their position and took no casualties.

They said the unit located and destroyed three Soviet-built Molotova trucks, 1,400 gallons of gasoline, 200 rounds of 82mm mortar shells and nearly 5,000 pounds of bagged rice concealed in a cave complex near the border.

The unit also found the bodies of 27 North Vietnamese soldiers killed earlier in some of the massive air strikes which have been supporting the operation along with three Soviet-made 122mm field artillery pieces, the spokesman said.

American B52 bombers late Sunday and early today supported the drive with six more missions, dropping upwards of 500 tons of explosives.

McGovern Arrives In Saigon

SAIGON (UPI)—Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., arrived today in South Vietnam on his round-the-world fact-finding tour and criticized President Nguyen Van Thieu's one-man race for re-election in October.

McGovern, the only announced Democratic candidate for the U.S. presidential election in 1972, shrugged off an earlier threat by South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky that if McGovern ever appeared in Vietnam Ky would kick him out.

"Since Gen. Ky made that statement he has joined me as a critic of the Thieu government," McGovern said upon arrival from Paris. "Perhaps we are not as far apart as when he made that statement."

McGovern had angered Ky several months ago when he attempted to link the vice president with drug smuggling. Ky said McGovern was a "tool of the Communists."

En route to Vietnam, McGovern had a stopover in Tel Aviv and told a news conference he felt it was vital for the United States to send Israel more Phantom jet fighterbombers.

Nader Rips VW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader says the highly popular Volkswagen beetle is "the most hazardous car currently in use in significant numbers in the United States" and the bigger microbus should be barred permanently from the road.

Nader, in a 200-page report issued during the weekend, urged the German manufacturer to recall all three million VW's which he said have been sold to American buyers and to correct a variety of alleged safety hazards.

Volkswagen immediately defended its products, saying it met or exceeded all safety standards and is "providing millions of owners with safe, dependable and economical transportation."

Nader claimed the recall would cost Volkswagen $184 million and was necessary to correct these alleged hazards:

"The danger of injury from the windshield, the weakness of the seat backs, the likelihood of the doors opening in a crash, the consequent likelihood of passenger ejection, the dangerous location of the gasoline tank, the propensity of the gas cap and the gas lines to come off during a crash, steering column penetration in a frontal crash, the vulnerability of the doors to side impacts, extraordinary sidewind sensitivity and handling qualities which make the car unpredictable."

Warned Of Fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — A former engineer with the Apollo program, John Dietz, had warned 15 days before the Apollo 1 fire that killed three astronauts that there was a danger of fire on the space capsule, Life magazine said yesterday.

Astronauts Gus Grissom, Ed White and Roger Chaffee were killed during the ground test at Cape Kennedy Jan. 27, 1967. Dietz' report supports a $10 million suit filed by Grissom's widow against North American Rockwell Corp., the prime contractor for the spacecraft, Life said.

Dietz, a General Electric employee working on the Apollo project in Houston, became concerned about fire danger when a fire broke out during an April, 1966, test of an Apollo environmental control system.

Dietz tried to get a rundown on inflammable materials in the capsule and North American offered to make a survey for $93,200 which was not paid, Life said.

Fatal Pileup

WARRINGTON, England (UPI) — About 200 cars and trucks crashed into each other today on a fog-bound superhighway in northwestern England, leaving dead, injured and crushed vehicles in one of the worst automobile pileups in British history.

Police said at least eight persons were killed, more than 50 others were injured and more bodies were being recovered from the wreckage strewn over the M6 Motorway near Warrington, 15 miles southeast of Liverpool.

Firemen fought truck blazes and with blow torches helped ambulance drivers cut dead and injured from the bulks of twisted metal.

Police said the huge pileup occurred when several trucks collided while speeding along the motorway despite flashing warning signs to slow down because of dense fog conditions.

36-24-34 And Beautiful

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Laura Lea Schaefer of Ohio, Miss America 1972, is brown-haired, green-eyed, 36-24-34, and, of course, beautiful.

Laura

She is against premarital sex, has been offered drugs by her peers but refused, always wore skirts or dresses to class, feels President Nixon is doing a good job, says she is political conservative, and has a boy friend in Columbus.

The boy friend says "the country's choice merely points up my good taste."

"I'm not a typical co-ed, but I feel the majority of my peers feel the way I do," she said Sunday in her first press conference.

Measles Program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. Public Health Service is extending its vaccination program against German measles to teen-age girls and women.

The PHS previously has concentrated on vaccinating youngsters as the means of eliminating rubella, which can cause defects in unborn children when contracted by pregnant women.

Dr. H. Bruce Dull, an assistant director of the PHS center for disease control in Atlanta, said the program aimed at teen-agers and women is still "low priority."

Dull said in an interview yesterday that the only non-children vaccinated are those who, through testing, seem susceptible to the disease.

Belfast Bombing

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The two men walked from their car, left a package in the building doorway and drove off. The delivery took only seconds.

Anywhere else it might not have attracted much attention. But in Belfast residents know it usually means only one thing. Their reaction last night was almost instinctive — they dived for cover.

Moments later the supermarket near Brae Hill Park on the Upper Crumlin road was rubble. Two elderly women living in a nearby house suffered cuts from flying glass.

It was one of a dozen incients of violence in the province yesterday. In Belfast and Londonderry, British troops came under attack from Roman Catholic crowds and a man electrocuted himself while trying to pull down a power pylon.

Sacrament Change

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican announced today a change in the centuries-old formula used in confirmation, one of the seven sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church.

The new rite calls for anointing with perfumed oil instead of the traditional laying on of hands, and a different set of words said by the bishop.

The reform is outlined in a document signed by Pope Paul VI. Msgr. Aime Martimort of the Vatican department for divine worship said the reform is aimed at giving the sacrament greater meaning for modern men.

At confirmation, Roman Catholics believe they receive the gift of the Holy Spirit and become full members of the church.

Few Minorities In Management

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Women and minority workers are under-represented in managerial and policy-making jobs, according to the latest survey of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

The commission said 1.7 per cent of blacks in the work force held positions of authority in 1970, although 10 per cent of the workers were Negro.

Spanish-surnamed Americans comprised 3.6 per cent of the total employment and, the commission said, reflected "slight improvements" in occupational distribution. But they held only 1.0 per cent of the managerial positions.

Sweden publishes 518 copies of newspapers per 1,000 of its population, says the United Nations.

Nikita Khrushchev Buried In Moscow

MOSCOW (UPI)—Nikita S. Khrushchev was buried today in the least hallowed part of Moscow's second best cemetery. The Kremlin said goodbye with a seven-foot wreath of pine boughs and a seven-line Pravda obituary for the man it called a "merit pensioner."

No Communist Party or government leaders were present at the funeral of this unperson who had ruled as premier and party leader until he was deposed in 1964. He was denied burial in the wall of the Kremlin, the pantheon of Soviet heroes.

The eulogy was by his blonde, bespectacled son, Sergei, who stood in a light mist, occasionally glancing down at the open coffin draped in black and red crepe. "There were many who loved him, many who hated him, but few could pass him by," he said.

It was a funeral for a man, not a political leader, and there was no hint of politics in the brief service. Khrushchev lay in a simple wooden casket, his body covered with a red satin coverlet which left his face free. His medals, including three stars of the Hero of the Soviet Union, the nation's highest honor, were strewn across his feet. They were buried with him.

Khrushchev's wife of 48 years, Nina Petrovna, was there in a black lace mantilla and a black coat. She stepped forward and bent over Khrushchev's face for farewell. She caressed his forehead, her fingertips moving from one side to the other in what appeared to be a religious gesture. She gently kissed his forehead and hands.

The tears flowed at the end when graveyard workmen stepped forward in their blue overalls and pounded shut the lid of the coffin, which was lowered on ropes into the grave while a black-suited brass band played the national anthem.

All that was left at the end was a mound of dirt, the pine bough wreath and a white stone marker bearing Khrushchev's portrait and a gold engraving: "Khrushchev, Nikita Sergeyevich. 1894-1971."

Khruschev died Saturday at the age of 77 in the suburban Kremlin hospital from a massive heart attack. His coffin lay open in the hospital's Hall of Mourning and was taken today to Novodevichy Cemetery, a burial ground for the not-so-great and the has-beens.

Only one famous Soviet citizen mourned publicly over Khrushchev's body, not at the cemetery but at a wake in the Hall of Mourning. He was Yevgeny Yevtushenko, the firebrand poet who made his literary name when Khrushchev relaxed the censorship of Josef V. Stalin.

Yevtushenko stood briefly gazing down at Khrushchev's face. His mouth was set in a grim line as though he were working to control emotion. He did not weep and he walked away after a minute or so.

There were many Russians who thought their bluff and earthy Nikita deserved the honor of burial in the Kremlin wall for his role in ending Stalinist terror, but they said so privately.

About 250 persons, family, friends and a small crowd of unknown Russians admirers stood in the remote and little honored corner of the cemetery. One, a woman in a blue raincoat, bent over the coffin and wept uncontrollably.

The burial site was in a remote corner of the cemetery.

It was as far as one could get from the inner sanctum area where other honored political figures such as the wife of Premier Alexei N. Kosygin are buried, diagonally across the sprawling cemetery and within sight of elevated railway trains that pass outside the cemetery walls.

San Diego Bank Of America Bombed

VISTA, Calif. (UPI)—A Bank of America branch was firebombed Sunday, touching off a blaze which caused $1,600 damage.

The San Diego County sheriff's office said a Molotov cocktail was thrown through a rear window. No one was in the bank at the time.

BICYCLISTS' REST STOP

A bicycle inn and coffee house for weary bicycle riders pedaling through Larkspur will be considered by the city's planning commission tomorrow at 8 p.m. at city hall. Proposed for the site of the old Banfield Rug Cleaners on Magnolia Avenue, the "inn" will feature lounge areas inside and out, a coffee bar and restaurant and various displays. The rest stop will retian the old buildings original style and charm, according to developer Peter Tolger of Larkspur.

Police Fail To Get 'Fix' On Robbers

LONDON (UPI)—A ham radio operator overheard a band of bank robbers chatting away on walkie talkies Sunday as they looted a branch of Lloyd's Bank, but police were helpless because they could not get a fix on the radio conversation.

Today, the Lloyd's branch on Baker Street in the fashionable Marlyebone District of London found the thieves had tunneled into the strongroom and got away with "a substantial sum, possibly hundreds of thousands of pounds."

The radio ham told police he heard one of the robbers say, "We are sitting on 500,000 pounds ($1.2 million)."

In the transmissions monitored and taped around 2 a.m. Sunday the robbers also talked of "fumes from cutting apparatus," "getting sandwiches and flasks of tea" and "taking a rest."

The radio ham, whose name was withheld, said one robber seemed to be speaking from inside the bank and the other from a rooftop lookout.

British Post Office detector vans fanned out to try to get a "fix" on the transmission. They narrowed them to a 10-mile radius around Marlyebone when the walkie-talkie chatter stopped. Police and detectives swarmed through Marlyebone Sunday checking banks, including the Lloyd's branch on Baker Street. But they detected nothing amiss and left—without bothering to check inside the strong room.

Bank representatives and police found the strong room door secure and "everything seemed to be okay," a Scotland Yard spokesman said. "Only on arrival of the staff this morning it was found entry had been made by a hole in the strong room floor."

Sensitivity Of Fish To Pollution Probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It doesn't take an awful lot of pollution to jeopardize the survival chances of fish and other marine species.

Just a little will do the trick if it disrupts the chemical communication systems on which such creatures depend.

Scientists of the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution told the American Chemical Society's annual meeting today that less than lethal amounts of pollutants can turn a thriving marine community into a dying one. Affected are such senses as smell and taste.

Said Dr. David B. Boylan, a Woods Hole chemist:

"One of the weakest links in the life chain of aquatic organisms may be the dependence of this life on the use of certain chemical signals for communication."

"Natural chemicals, either released from other organisms or present in the aquatic environment," he said, "serve to stimulate certain actions such as attraction to food, attraction of male to female, recognition of predators by prey, recognition of homestream territory by migrating fish, and many others."

Consider the lobster. Boylan found in a study of oil pollution that lobsters, for some reason, were attracted to extremely low dilutions of kerosene, though it did them no good and interfered with their normal chemical communication.

This caused many changes in normal lobster behavior and resulted in "a decrease in local population density."

Boylan said population effects of pollution "could be catastrophic" in the case of far-ranging fish such as salmon, which come home to spawn only in the streams where they were born.

Such fish are able to sense the "chemical fingerprint" of their homestreams even though the water differs only slight from adjacent streams.

How much or how little or what kind of pollution would it take to destroy the ability of fish to find their exclusive spawning sites after a lifetime at sea? The Woods Hole scientists hope to find out.

Jackie Tells Of Churchill Influence

BOSTON (UPI) —According to Jacqueline Onassis, the books of Winston Churchill helped shape John F. Kennedy and may influence the late president's son.

Mrs. Onassis discussed her son John, the late president, Churchill's books and Churchill's son Randolph, in a book just published here — "The Grand Original," edited by Kay Halle (Hought on Mifflin, $7.93).

The book contains memoirs of the late Randolph Churchill by persons who knew him, including former prime minister Harold MacMillan of Britain, Aristotle Onassis and Mrs. Onassis whowrote:

"I can't write what I feel about Randolph.

"He was my friend.

"You know how Jack and Bobby (the late Robert F. Kennedy) loved him — but did you know how my son John loved him?

"It started whenJohn was 4 to 5 and Randolph came to the cape. He was fascinating to children — as least to John. . .

"Randolph had decided to have first editions of all Winston Churchill's books beautifully bound and was going to give them to Jack's library. . .

"But on Sunday after he had left Hyannisport he wrote me that he disapproved of giving things to institutions —and he sent them all in a painted tin trunk, to give to John. There are 49 volumes and they are in the bookshelves in the dinning-room, beside Jack's (copy of Winston's biography of his ancestor the first Duke of) Marlborough, which he read when he had scarlet fever as a boy, and the Churchill books he had at Harvard.

"At supper the children have invented a guessing game — 'which of Winston Churchill's books are they thinking on?' They used to stump Bobby with it, and be so delighted, as he would always guess the ones we have all read —and they would rattle off, 'London to Ladysmith via Pretoria,' 'Painting as a Pastime,' 'Savrola'. . .

"John is always taking one out —together they cover about 10 running feet —and asking me what it is about. It is because he enjoyed Randolph that he cares about the books.

"If, when he is older, he finds in them what his father found in them —that would be this strange, touching legacy of Randolph's. Winston Churchill and Randolph outlived Jack — but maybe Randolph will be the one to draw John to the books that shaped John's father.

"Thatounds too sentimental.

"That sounds too sentimental. Maybe John won't like books at all. . ."

Man Suspected Of Kicking Boy

Edward Henry Voss, 31, of Sonoma, was arrested on suspicion of attacking a 10-year-old boy and a Petaluma policeman Friday night.

Police said Alan D. Wilkinson, 1102 F Street, Petaluma, reported that Voss had kicked him while wearing baseball cleats at McNear Park and chased other youngsters.

Officer William Lane, 26, said Voss struck him in the left eye during booking at the city jail for assault with a deadly weapon and battery on a police officer. He was scheduled for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Marin parking to climb to $16,784.00 per hour.

Just five years ago, you could park in most lots for just a quarter an hour or so. Today you're lucky if it's a dollar. Our research staff has examined this and it appears that, at this quadrupling rate, parking will cost you $16,784.00 an hour by the year 2006. Well, we'd like to point out that we have a swell 250 car parking lot, so at the moment we offer free parking and charge only for our excellent food and drink. Goldberg Supports Continued Controls

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Democrat Arthur J. Goldberg, in sharp dispute with the administration view, testified today that nothing less than blanket controls would be needed to control inflation when the wage-price freeze ends.

Goldberg, former general counsel of the United Steel workers union and the old CIO, Secretary of Labor, Supreme Court justice and United Nations ambassador, disagreed with the White House and some prominent liberal Democrats in rejecting post-freeze selective controls of the economy.

"Patch work controls will result in a chaotic labor and price situation which will not be tolerated" by the public at large, Goldberg told the House-Senate Economic Committee.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally Jr., chairman of the Cost of Living Council which is to map out the next step after the freeze, has already rejected across-the-board controls enforced by a huge bureaucracy.

Some Democrats, notably economist John Kenneth Galbraith and Chester Bowles, the former administrator of World War II wage-price controls, have argued that controls need be imposed on the wages and prices of only the largest corporations.

Goldberg said he could not agree "with my friends Chester Bowles and Mr. Galbraith."

He proposed that an agency headed by labor, corporate and public representatives be set up to administer controls after the freeze ends.

Goldberg testified at one of three hearings on Capitol Hill today on the economic situation. AFL-CIO President George Meany appeared at a House hearing.

As the freeze entered its fifth week, Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., offered more criticism of the President's strategy, saying it "is far too weak ... to stimulate the economy and provide the jobs we need."

Proxmire, the influential chairman of the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, predicted Sunday that the President's program might drive unemployment up from the present level of about 6 per cent to 6.5 per cent through next year unless stronger steps are taken.

The Wisconsin Democrat advocated action to get more money into the hands of lower income people. Specifically, he proposed delay of the Social Security tax increase scheduled for Jan. 1, repeal of the administration's accelerated depreciation rules for businessmen and immediate enactment of Nixon's welfare reform plan.

Meany, head of the 13.5 million-member AFL-CIO, called for tax reforms and an excess profits tax on corporations, which he said stand to reap a $70 billion windfall over the next decade under Nixon's 10 per cent investment tax credit proposal.

The labor leader, who repeatedly has attacked the program Nixon outlined almost a month ago, said the President's tax proposals "will create few jobs if any ...give no stimulus to the economy and ... make the tax burden of all American families even more inequitable."

was created hastily when Nixon announced his economic program Aug. 15.

The executive director of the council, Arnold N. Weber, said in an interview carried by the New York Times today that he was not free to discuss whether the group would continue in existence beyond the Nov. 13 end of the wage-price freeze.

Weber said he felt it had done its job "reasonably well" and was now operating, with less than one-third of the 90-day period gone, "on a national scale" after starting with two or three persons.

Davis challenged a charge by Meany that Nixon's economic moves favored business over the working man. Davis said business was not going to be able to meet the challenge of foreign competition and to create more jobs "unless we improve our competitive efficiency."

One schism developed in the ranks of the businessmen. Wilson Johnson, president of the National Federation of Independent Businessmen, said his 300,000 member organization felt the unlimited 10 per cent investment tax credit favored big business over the smaller businessman.

He said the smaller business people applaud in principle the concept of investment credit, but believe the President's proposal favors big corporations. Johnson, in a statement fo UPI, suggested a $100,000 ceiling.

Other business leaders invited to the meeting included Robert C. Bassett, National Association of Small Businessmen; Stephen D. Bechtel, Jr., president, Bechtel Corp.; Berkeley Burrell, president, National Business League; Edward W. Carter, president, Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc.; Edward J. Dwyer, president, ESB, Inc.; William M. Batten, chairman, J. C. Penney, Inc.; R. Heath Larry, vice chairman, U.S. Steel Corp.; James M. Roche, chairman, General Motors Corp.; and Walter B. Wriston, chairman, first National City Bank.

Nixon met Friday with labor leaders, who promised to cooperate in the post-freeze policy if it is "equitable and fair."

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally said over the weekend that Nixon would announce his new policy in mid-October. The administration's economic advisers are due to make their recommendations by Sept. 30.

Nixon planned to follow up his talks with the business executives by meeting Tuesday with a group of agricultural leaders and Friday with key members of Congress. He said last week that he would be consulting many people outside the government before making his final decisions on phase II of the administration's economic stabilization program.

Heart Implants In Big Decline

CHICAGO (UPI)—Expanded techniques in direct coronary artery surgery and disappointment over the post-operative results of heart transplant cases have resulted in a sharp decline in heart transplants, according to an article in the current issue of Journal of the American Medical Association.

The report, prepared by the American College of Surgeons —National Institutes of Health Organ Transplant Registry, is the first summary of world transplant experiences, the AMA said.

The first human heart transplant was performed in December, 1967. In the 12 months following that initial operation, 101 such operations were performed, the article said.

However, it said, in 1969 and 1970, the number dropped sharply and in 1970, only 17 heart transplants were performed.

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI)—The Lyndon Baines Johnson library, dedicated this spring on the University of Texas campus by Johnson and President Nixon, is the fifth library built and dedicated to American presidents.

Two Dogs Kill Five Sheep

Two "husky-type" dogs killed four sheep and a ewe on Ross Valley Sanitary District property in Greenbrae "this morning or last night," according to Jack Faulkner, shelter superintendent of the Marin County Humane Society.

Faulkner said the two dogs were shot, but he hadn't learned the details of the episode. The dogs didn't have license tags or collars, he reported.

"This shows what can happen if people let dogs run loose," he said.

ATTICA

demands for amnesty were not met. Authorities ignored the amnesty demand and ordered the attack.

"Surrender peacefully. You will not be harmed," a bull horn blared to the prisoners. "Surrender the hostages. Surrender the hostages. Lie down on the floor and put your hands on your head."

The attack on the prison came without warning. Rockefeller had signed the executive order calling up the National Guard hours earlier, but it was not announced.

The assault started with a small helicopter sent to one corner of the huge cellblock building to divert the attention of the rebels. Soon after, two larger Army 'copters moved in, dumping what one official called "tons" of tear gas on the building.

State troopers and deputies stormed through the front gate toward the cellblock, halted for several moments by barricades at every intersection.

When they entered the outer part of the cellblock, they found eight bodies.

"It was horrible, just unbelievable," one trooper said.

Twenty minutes after the assault began, a National Guard artillery battalion entered with several hundred men and Red Cross ambulances. Three hours later, a plea went out for more ambulances to bring out the dead and injured from the gray walled prison.

An Army demolition team discovered explosives inside the prison and said the prisoners had dug underground tunnels and wired them with homemade bombs.

A light rain fell on the prison throughout the morning. Tear gas clung like fog to the prison buildings.

As the lucky hostages were freed, their names were read by officials to relatives waiting outside the main gate. Some wept for joy; others waited to hear the fate of husbands and sons.

State Policy: No Bargaining

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The California Department of Corrections said today it would be "contrary" to long-standing rules for prison officials to negotiate with convicts who held hostages.

The policy, in effect for 25 years, declares that "hostages shall not be recognized for bargaining purposes" and that "all inmates shall be informed of this rule."

A department spokesman stopped short of saying that a revolt and bargaining session such as occurred at Attica State Prison in New York couldn't occur in California institutions under the policy. The Attica convicts held 38 hostages.

Agnew To Address Chief Convention

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will deliver the keynote address at the annual conference of the International Association of Chiefs of Police Sept. 27.

The association made the announcement Sunday and estimated that 4,500 police executives from the United States and 62 other member nations would attend.

Suspected Killer To Be Extradited

NEVADA CITY (UPI)——Nevada County District Attorney Harold Berliner said today that Clarence Otis Smith will be brought to California this week to face charges that he is the sickle killer of Dog Bar.

Berliner said that Sheriff Wayne Brown will leave Wednesday for Texas where he will pick up Smith and return with him either Thursday or Friday.

Santa Rosa Woman Leaps To Death

A Santa Rosa woman leaped to her death yesterday from the Golden Gate Bridge, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Witnesses said Maxine Imanell Pennington stopped her southbound car near the bridge's north tower about 4:15 p.m. and jumped in full view of motorists and pedestrians. Despite Coast Guard efforts at recovery, her body has not been found, the patrol said.

Park Guide Considered

Don't make another Yosemite Park out of Point Reyes National Seashore — keep cars and people from desecrating the natural environment.

This is the guiding principle that runs throughout a joint recommendation hammered out today by the Marin County planning commissioners and the parks and recreation commissioners during a two hour discussion at the Civic Center.

The two groups agreed that a southern access point proposed by the National Park Service at Palomarin should be reconsidered because this access would harm environment and the Bolinas area.

900 More GIs Leave Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI)—Withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam last week dropped to the lowest level in seven months with 900 soldiers going home, cutting the force in Vietnam to 215,800 men, military spokesmen said today.

The pullouts were spread over the Army, Air Force and Navy to bring troop strength in the war zone to the fewest number of GIs since February, 1966, when 208,000 servicemen were in the area.

Spokesmen said the cutback from the previous week's total of 216,700 was achieved by reducing army strength by 700 to 169,700, Navy by 100 to 9,900 and Air Force by 100 to 35,600. The marines with 500 men and 100 Navymen remained steady.

X-rays were discovered by Wilhelm Roentgen, a German physicist.

SCHOOLS

schools integrated as a result of a suit by the NAACP. The school board adopted a plan dividing the city into seven busing zones.

Police dispatched patrolmen to possible trouble spots as the new school year opened. City officials urged antibusing parents to refrain from violence.

The school board Friday held a "dry run" for parents and their children. Although the turnout was sparse, board officials said effort was 85 per cent effective.

In the "dry run" many buses were late, some failed to show up at the appointed hour and others went to the wrong loading zones.

All children were given name tags to be worn on their outer clothing. The tag listed the child's name, the number of his bus, his classroom and school.

Since the court order, many neighborhood organizations were formed in opposition. Leaders urged parents to boycott the program. Some urged parents to send their children to their regular neighborhood schools.

Many antibusing parents pulled their children out of the public schools and sent them to parochial and private institutions.

Mayor Joseph Alioto, opposed to busing, warned that violence, including efforts to block buses or prevent students from getting aboard, would not be tolerated by police.

Among the most outspoken opponents of busing were parents in the Chinese community and the parents on Treasure Island, a Navy installation in the middle of San Francisco Bay. Four "freedom schools" were formed in Chinatown for parents who did not want their children moved out of the neighborhood.

The state superintendent of public instruction, Wilson C. Riles, a Negro, urged residents to give "the children a chance" to make the plan work.

However, he did say San Francisco was an example of how not to integrate schools. He said the city had abrogated its responsibilities to the courts which were not competent to rule on specific desegregation plans.

When that happens, he said, parents lose confidence in the schools and extremists on "ego trips" take over.

"Suddenly people make believe you're tearing babies away from their mothers' breasts and you're taking them God knows where, and, if they get the bellyache, they're going to die," Riles said. "It becomes easy for political people to ride the tide of emotion."

Edward Z. Lewis, Stinson Beach, Dies

Edward Z. Lewis of Stinson Beach, president of the Bolinas-Stinson School District board, collapsed and died yesterday while playing tennis in Stinson Beach.

China Gains Foothold In Malaysia

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI)—The awesome image of China dissolved in coconut drinks and lilting Malay songs last week at the end of the seven-day visit of the first official delegation from the Communist mainland to Malaysia.

Dancing the gay Malay "joget," the 13-man team of Peking trade officials celebrated the conclusion of a substantial trade agreement in the company of well-proportioned Malay girls at a leading nightspot.

Their host was Mohamed Khir Johari, minister of commerce and industry. Instead of austere Mao jackets, the Chinese donned bright--patterned "Batek" sport shirts made in rural Malaysia.

There was plenty of reason for both sides to be jolly. China established its first friendly foothold in this part of Southeast Asia. Malaysia took another giant stride toward patching up differences with her once arch-foe.

Chang Kuang-tou, director of the China Chemical Import-Export Corporation and leader of the delegation, told a dinner gathering, "Our ties stretch back to a thousand years. But the imperialists interfered. I am confident the exchange of such visit will lead to a further strengthening of ties between the peoples of Malaysia and China."

The third day the Chinese were here, Chang led five colleagues in a meeting with Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak. It was Razak who turned Malaysia from pro-Western anticommunism to non-alignment in foreign affairs last September after he took over as head of government from Tengku Abdul Rahman.

Their 40-minute talk was reported to have ranged from table-tennis to Razak's proposal for neutralization of Southeast Asia.

Razak is seeking guarantees by China, the United States and the Soviet Union in the form of a United Nations declaration for non-interference in a neutralized Southeast Asia. He says he also wants eventual diplomatic ties with Peking, but adds China must recognize Malaysia as an independent sovereign nation and stop interfering in her internal affairs.

Communist China traditionally has lent moral and some physical support to Communist insurgency in Malaysian jungles along the Thai and Indonesian borders.

Chang's visit appeared to be a definite step in Razak's desired direction. Chang significantly spoke of "Malaysia" and not "Malaya," the form China used before to imply nonrecognition of the Malaysian federation.

Chang's team spent three days of talks with officials from the national trading corporation, Pernas. Pernas recently took over from local Chinese merchants all Malaysian trading with China.

Four million resident Chinese form Malaysia's largest minority and control much of the economy here. The fact China has agreed to trade with an agency sponsored by the Malay dominated government rather than individual Chinese entrepreneurs was taken in official circles as a positive diplomatic gesture.

It also calmed fears among Malaysia's 5 million Malay majority that a detente with China will stir racial passions among Malaysian Chinese, most of whom maintain at least sentimental feeling for their former homeland.

During the visit no activity was reported between security forces and border Communists near the frontier with Thailand. Razak seeks to pull the rug from under the local Communist terrorists by his wooing of China.

In the final communique Chang's team pledged to make Malaysia their main source of rubber for an indefinite period.

The communique said direct trade links had been established and government-owned Malaysian and Chinese ships will begin calling at each others ports "as a big step forward" toward formal trade ties.

Mass Wedding Is Planned In Mexico

Cranston Says Draft Not Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said today the 75-day lapse of the draft law showed it was not needed and vowed to continue a filibuster against stalled legislation to extend selective service two more years.

As the Senate resumed debate on the measure following a long recess, Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott announced at the same time he would soon initiate a formal move to put "an end to this farce" and halt debate.

The measure has been before Congress for seven months. The previous draft law technically expired June 30 but the system continues to operate, other than induction of men.

The proposal opposed by Cranston would extend selective service until June 30, 1973, and would give the military its largest pay raise in history.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said he would not support the filibuster forces but declined to commit himself on Scott's cloture proposal.

However, the Montana Democrat suggested he might favor sending the controversial legislation back to a House-Senate conference committee to try to reach a compromise.

There was a break in Republican ranks when Sen. Gordon Allott, of Colorado, urged the Senate to reject the measure on grounds its military pay raise provision was unfair to low-ranking men and officers.

Allott, the Senate's No. 3 ranking Republican, urged his collegaues not to be "stampeded" by administration arguments that the compromise should be passed quickly to avert a depletion of military manpower.

While he did not directly indicate whether he would support a filibuster, Allott said "I do not favor, and will not support, any undue delay."

Colorado has 11 National Forests, two National Parks and six National Monuments.

San Quentin Tests Put 25 On List

San Quentin officials were happily surprised by the turnout Saturday for the first examinations for correctional officers' positions since the bloody escape attempt on Aug. 21 in which six persons died.

Information officer Joseph R. O'Brien said that 28 men took written tests and 25 passed, an unusually high percentage of successful applicants.

He said the test consists of an aptitude section as well as one designed to ascertain attitudes toward guard work.

The men will now be given oral tests to determine if they will be employed at San Quentin.

Those hired will fill vacancies created by resignations of guards since the bloodbath as well as new positions authorized since Aug. 21.

Men who took the test Saturday were reluctant to talk of their reasons for applying but, O'Brien, who expressed pleasure at the turnout, suggested today that unemployment is more widespread than generally realized.

Jane Fonda's Show Stopped

TRAVIS AFB, Calif. (UPI)—Jane Fonda says she will take her antiwar show for servicemen to the East Coast after being denied a permit to perform near Travis Air Force Base.

Miss Fonda, at a news conference Saturday, said it was the first time she had been denied a permit for her show.

The performance had been planned for a vacant field half a mile from the air base, but Solano County refused her a permit required for outdoor festivals, ruling Miss Fonda's sponsors had not met all the requirements of an ordinance adopted last year.

Typical Homeowner To Pay $100 More In Taxes

The typical homeowner in Marin County, with a $33,000 house, will pay out $100 more in taxes this year than he paid last year, County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell disclosed yesterday.

He made the tax rise prediction after analyzing various tax rates imposed by 71 separate taxing agencies in 378 code areas (geographical taxing areas).

Overall, the average tax rate in the county for 1971-72 will be $12.103 per $100 assessed valuation, an increase of 41.9 cents over last year's $11.684.

"This means that the average taxpayer will pay $907.72, based on a $33,000 home assessed at 25 per cent of market value and with the homeowner's exemption," said Mitchell. "This comes to about $111 more in taxes than last year on a comparable $33,000 home assessed at 23 per cent of market value." (State law requires the assessor to assess 25 per cent this year instead of last year's 23 per cent.)

The lowest tax rate in the county is in the Nicasio area, which has a rate of $8.979 per $100 assessed valuation. Other low rates are $9.084 in the Union School district near Sonoma County and $9.139 in the Bolinas-Stinson area.

The highest tax rate in a sizable tax code area (with an assessed value of a million dollars or more) is $14.168 in Bel Marin Keys. This includes a $3 tax rate which Bel Marin Keys voters approved for dredging improvements.

There are a couple of small tax code areas with an even higher tax rate, but the auditor-controller did not include these among the representative code areas because the total assessed valuation is less than a million dollars. One such area with a high tax rate is the Paradise Cove area of Reed School district, with a rate of $16.019. This includes $4.33 special tax levy to pay for maintenance and improvement of sewer facilities.

Among incorporated cities, the highest tax rate is in Fairfax with $13.409. The lowest is San Rafael's $11.059.

This year's tax rates for the 11 cities are as follows:

Belvedere $12.029; Corte Madera $11.744; Fairfax $13.409; Larkspur $11.929; Mill Valley $12.944; Ross $12.724; San Anselmo $13.179; San Rafael $11.059; Sausalito $11.189; Novato $12.163; and Tiburon $12.424.

Tax rates in five major communities in the unincorporated areas:

West Marin $9.549; Terra Linda $13.154; Marinwood $13.139; Kentfield $11.679; and Loma Verde $11.328.

Committee Members To Be Named

The San Rafael Board of Education will appoint members to its citizen's advisory committee at the board's meeting tomorrow.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Laurel Dell Primary School.

Paul L. Jones, board president, said the board will attempt to fill 12 vacancies in the 34-member committee. He said the board will select the people from nominations submitted by the parent-teacher associations from the district's 15 schools.

He added that if the board does not fill all 12 vacancies, people could submit their names at the meeting for consideration. Each committee member serves three-year terms except the four student representatives who are chosen each year.

The board will also hear a report on the 1971-72 district enrollment.

Realtors Back College Bonds

The Marin County Board of Realtors yesterday put its weight and some of its money behind the Marin Community College District's proposal for a $16,760,000 building bond issue.

Directors of the realty board voted $500 to help finance a campaign for passage of the bond issue, which will be before Marin voters Nov. 2. President William Bush also announced appointment of 15 realty brokers as co-chairmen of bond campaigns in their areas.

The proposed bond issue would finance construction and equipment of buildings for Indian Valley Colleges, the district's second campus at Novato, and complete the building program at the present college in Kentfield.

Course Slated On Classroom Behavior

A Sonoma State College course in psychodynamics of classroom behavior, designed for teachers, will include techniques for dealing with abnormal behavior. It begins Sept. 22 in Greenbrae.

Dr. Joseph P. Gutstadt of the Community Mental Health Center will teach the course at the center at 250 Bon Air Road, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Wednesday.

Soot Used To Reclaim Land

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Scientists reported today that two environmental problems have been successfully attacked by using smokestack soot to reclaim land wasted by coal mining.

Soot, or fly ash, presents a giant disposal problem to utilities that burn coal to generate electricity. Power plants produce 30 million tons of it a year.

By applying the soot, which is alkaline, to acidic coal mine spoil and refuse areas, the land can be made less sour and more hospitable to plant life. There are more than 600,000 acres of acid land in the big strip mining states of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Illinois and Kentucky.

Teen Will Run For Supervisor

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Miss Yvonne Westbrook, 18, has announced her candidacy for the county Board of Supervisors.

"I listened and listened and then I realized that someone could do their job just as well," the youngest candidate for the board said in an interview.

Miss Westbrook, a freshman at the University of San Francisco, said, "Young people had no voice, and I knew that it was time for us to be heard down there."

Her campaign headquarters are in her home.

She is a former junior high school pep leader and won the "Miss Poly" title at Polytechnic High School.

Contract Awarded For Off-Ramp

The California Division of Highways has awarded a contract to Teichert Construction of Woodland for construction of a Highway 101 southbound off-ramp and frontage road off-ramp near San Rafael.

Teichert Construction had the low bid of $91,814.50 out of four bids for the .4-mile long project from North San Pedro Road to the Forbes Station overhead.

Lesson From Bridge Physician: Learn To Go Slowly At First

"I'm not as young as I used to be, but I can still finesse, my doctor bragged the other day on his annual checkup. "Does it ever hurt?" I asked sympathetically. (My tableside manner is very soothing.) "One of my recent finesses kept me up all night," he admitted.

"I won the first trick with the ace of diamonds, drew two rounds of trumps and tried a finesse with the queen of clubs," my doctor related.

"Some of my other patients try tricks like that," I told him. "All the aspirin in the world won't put you back on your feet if you rush in like a beginner."

My doctor looked stricken, and I hastened to reassure him. "We don't talk about right or wrong any more," I pointed out. "But some things are very wasteful. You lost two clubs, two hearts and a night's sleep. Right?"

He nodded soberly, and I gave him my diagnosis. If you plan to open your own consulting room, you should be ready with an opinion before you read on.

TRY HEARTS

After taking the king of diamonds, South should lead a heart to try a finesse with the eight. There will be time later for the club finesse.

East takes the jack of hearts and returns a diamond to the king. South draws two rounds of trumps and leads another heart. West must step up with the ace to avoid the revealing play of the ten.

FINESSE TIME

West returns a club, and South can afford to try the finesse. East takes the king and returns a club to dummy's ace, but now declarer can lead the queen of hearts from dummy. South ruffs out the king and ten on the same trick; and he returns to dummy with a trump to discard a club on the established nine of hearts.

A difficult play, but my older patients must rely on their brains rather than on their muscles. Next patient.

DAILY QUESTION

Your side is vulnerable, and the opponents are not.

Dealer bids one spade, and you are next with:

♠ - 8 3
♥ - A 10 4
♦ - Q J 10 6 5 2
♣ - 10 9.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

The hand is not worth a vulnerable overcall of two diamonds. It would qualify if you changed one of the very low diamonds to the king since then you would have five sure diamond tricks and a side ace for your overcall.

CIA Trains Laos Troops, Report Says

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A transcript of secret Senate testimony disclosed Monday that the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) has been secretly training and supporting 30,000 guerrilla troops in Laos since 1962.

The figure was disclosed for the first time in published closed door hearings before the Senate Armed Services Committee.

G. Murtrie Godley, U.S. ambassador to Laos, told the committee the CIA-financed guerrilla units "have been the backbone of the military effort in Laos" to repel the North Vietnamese forces.

"The irregular forces in Laos today ... number about 30,000 men," he said. "These forces are organized into SGU (Special Guerrilla Unit) battalions, and these battalions now comprise about 330 to 360 men each."

Godley said the guerrilla units operated every where in Laos except the area around the capital, Vientiane.

"The reason that no personnel has been recruited in the Vientiane area was that there were in the 1960s a series of coups," he said.

"Military personnel played a rather prominent role in these actions, and the United States did not wish to become initimately involved in the internal political machinations or political military actions in that country."

Godley said the CIA began covertly assisting Lao irregular forces in 1962 and 1963, when it became apparent the North Vietnamese were not going to respect the Geneva accords barring outside military interference in the Laotian affairs.

In one year 380,353 umbrellas, 256,031 pairs of glasses and 170,189 shoes were left behind by passengers on Japanese trains.

Mars Back After Two-Year Absence

By SHERMAN WALKER

Mars is in opposition (opposite side of the earth from the sun) again after a two-year absence. This planet has grown in interest during the past century and is still growing. The space probes that sent back photographs have given us more information about its makeup.

Mars is one-tenth the mass of the earth and about half its diameter. The average distance of that planet from the sun is about 141,500,000 miles. Due to the fact that its orbit is an ellipse, it comes closer to the earth at some oppositions than others. The oppositions that occur in August or September are the most favorable for observing Mars because Mars is closer then. This time the opposition occurred about Aug. 9, indicating Mars was perhaps 35 million miles from earth.

For a long time there has been argument as to whether there is life on Mars. This is encouraged by the fact that lines on the planet are visible—straight lines suggesting they must have been made by intelligent beings. It is widely believed that some kind of plant life exists there. However, since there is so little moisture and air there plant life would have a hard time subsisting.

The lines on Mars that were once thought to be canals are still a mystery.

Mars has two moons but both are very tiny and hard to see. One is about five miles in diameter and the other 10 miles. The closer moon goes around its orbit faster than the planet rotates, so to a Martian it would appear to rise in the west and set in the east.

Tiburon Youth Held For Pot

An 18-year-old Tiburon youth has been arrested by Larkspur Police on suspicion of possessing marijuana after officers observed him smoking what they believed to be the weed on a city street.

Arrested Saturday was Donald George Riley of the Hilarita Housing Project when officers saw him throw away a suspected marijuana cigarette while talking with friends on Madrone Avenue.

In Riley's pocket, officers said they found five more handrolled cigarettes believed to be marijuana.

Riley was booked into Marin County Jail and released on his own recognizance to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Separation On Dollar To Continue

BRUSSELS (UPI)—The European Common Market countries agreed today to continue for the time being their present system of separate national action with regard to the dollar, Common Market sources said.

The agreement was reached at the start of a one-day session of the market's finance and economics ministers in Brussels to review the international monetary crisis.

The six market countries — West Germany, France, Italy, Belgium, tha Netherlands and Luxembourg —have adopted different tactics to cope with the money and economic measures announced by President Nixon last month.

Market sources quoted French Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing as telling his colleagues the coexistence of the different national systems had proved possible.

"The Alarms of August" when the six market nations failed to agree on a common action towards the dollar, "have vanished," the sources quoted the French minister saying.

Belgian Minister Jean Snoy et Doppuers warned of the dangers of comtinuing separate action for too long, the sources said.

"There will be a rupture in the agricultural system because the present system is both difficult and politically impractical," the sources quoted the Belgian minister as saying.

Under the present system of different national monetary measures, it is impossible to fix common prices for agricultural trade between the six market nations.

The ministers' cautious attitude in leaving aside for the time being their internal differences did not come as a surprise. Instead they were expected to try rather to find a common ground for over-all reforms of the international monetary system.

Sausalito Woman Injured In Wreck

Mary Ann Boyd, 21, of 18-A Alexander Avenue, Sausalito, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a broken right wrist suffered in a two-car accident Saturday at 10 a.m. on Sonoma Mountain Road, three miles east of Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said her car and a car driven by Earl P. Pascu, 52, of Santa Rosa collided head-on.

Scholarships Won By Youths

Ten young members of the First Missionary Baptist Church of Marin City received scholarships to be used for college studies in ceremonies yesterday at the church.

The presentation culminated a scholarship drive by church members and the funds raised included a $1,000 donation from Ross financier William M. Roth in memory of former church member Willie Kelly.

Scholarship winners were Susie Battle, Karen Howard, Rhoda Knighten, Janice Harrison, Pamela Howard, Richard L. Brown, Debrah Downs, Rose Miller, Gerald Battle and Maud Collier.

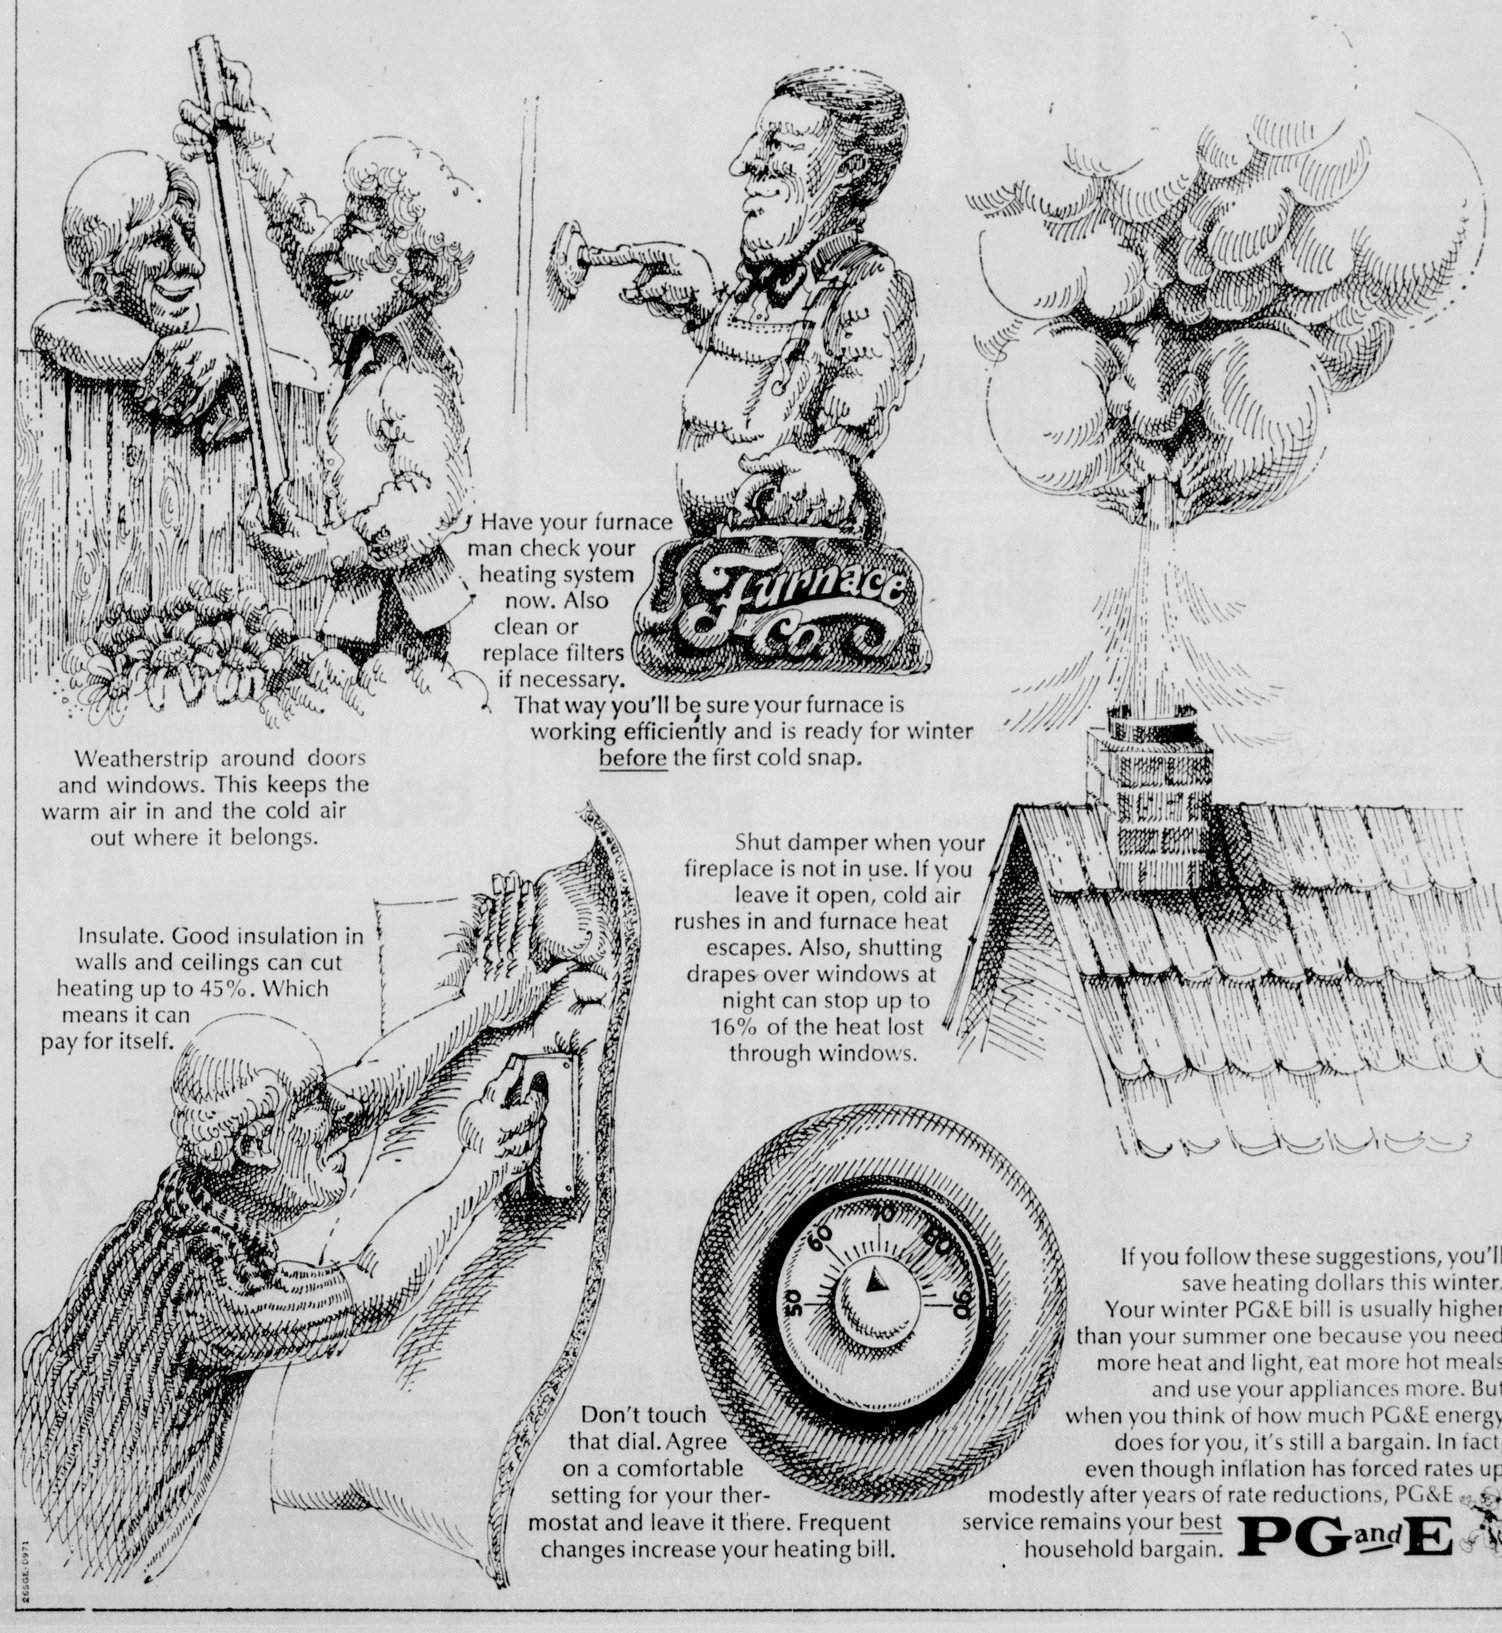
Does More Than Help Shrink Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues Due To Infection

Also Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief in Many Cases from Pain, Itching in Such Tissues.

Doctors have found a remarkably successful medication that actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues when infected and inflamed. And it does more. In many cases it gives relief for hours from pain and itching in these tissues. Tests by doctors proved this true in many cases.

The medication used was Preparation H. And no prescription is needed for Preparation H®. Ointment or suppositories.

How to get ready for frost and save a little jack.



Have your furnace man check your heating system now. Also clean or replace filters if necessary.

That way you'll be sure your furnace is working efficiently and is ready for winter before the first cold snap.

Weatherstrip around doors and windows. This keeps the warm air in and the cold air out where it belongs.

Insulate. Good insulation in walls and ceilings can cut heating up to 45%. Which means it can pay for itself.

Shut damper when your fireplace is not in use. If you leave it open, cold air rushes in and furnace heat escapes. Also, shutting drapes over windows at night can stop up to 16% of the heat lost through windows.

Don't touch that dial. Agree on a comfortable setting for your thermostat and leave it there. Frequent changes increase your heating bill.

If you follow these suggestions, you'll save heating dollars this winter. Your winter PG&E bill is usually higher than your summer one because you need more heat and light, eat more hot meals and use your appliances more. But when you think of how much PG&E energy does for you, it's still a bargain. In fact, even though inflation has forced rates up modestly after years of rate reductions, PG&E service remains your best household bargain.

Will Death Of Monk Be Solved?

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Cambodia's case of the murdered monk, a tale of politics, nationalism and religion, will likely never be solved.

Government officials and followers of the venerable abbot Ek San are convinced that Viet Cong stabbed the monk to death, stuffed his mouth with stones, weighted his body and tossed it into the Tonie Sap, a major river 55 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

"It would have been impossible for a Cambodian to kill Ek San," said another monk, who had known the dead Buddhist priest for six years.

The Communists have not yet published their side of the story, but it is likely, if past precedents are followed, that they will blame Cambodian soldiers.

Ek San was the head monk in Prey Kry, a rich village 50 miles north of Phnom Penh, and reportedly had not cooperated well with the Viet Cong during the year they controlled the town.

He was last seen entering the forest near Prey Kry Aug. 24. He said he was going to find the Viet Cong to demand the release of two of Ek San's students held by the Communists.

Four days later his body was found floating in the river. A piece of barbed wire, which had apparently been tied to a rock, was dangling from the monk's corpse.

The Cambodian government immediately denounced the "barbarous assassination" of Ek San, and Information Minister Long Boret asked for public donations so that a state funeral could be held.

Ek San was "savagely assassinated by the anti-Buddhist Viet Cong and North Vietnamese while he tried to serve the population and the cause of the Cambodian republic," the minister said.

The effect on the civilian population was one of shock.

"We do not know why anyone would kill a monk," said Srey Bunthol, deputy governor of Kompongn Chhnang province, in which Prey Kry is situated. "Maybe they thought he was a government agent."

Only seven prisoners were still in the Bastille when the Paris mob stormed it July 14, 1789.

Youths Aim For Sanitary Board

By STEVE SWENSON

Two 18-year-old Tiburon youths want to spend one Tuesday night a month at the Trestle Glen waste treatment plant.

No, the plant isn't a local hangout. The youths, who have seriously studied sewage problems, are seeking election to the Richardson Bay Sanitary District board which meets there.

Joseph J. Franaszek of 17 Juno Road, and Christian G. Fritz of 700 Hawthorne Drive, are the youngest candidates for public office in Marin's history as they take advantage of the new state law making 18-year-olds eligible for public office.

The two graduated with honors from Redwood High School and plan to attend the University of California at Berkeley this year. They said they have been working on ideas together and would like to be elected as a team.

Asked why they are running for the district, Fritz said, "The district is small enough so that we can effect a change. We feel our interest, capacity to handle the job and the issues we support overcome our lack of experience."

The candidates outlined two proposals they would like the board to consider:

The first is to eliminate what they call an "unnecessary smell" at the Trestle Glen plant. Franaszek said he talked to the Santa Clara County sanitation district manager who said the odor could be eliminated.

Fritz noted the odor has been around a long time and it is about time the board to come to some actioN to alleviate the unpleasant smell which offentimes drifts up to Little Reed Heights.

The youths also proposed combining two or more sanitation districts to avoid duplication and increase efficiency. They also suggest constructing a new treatment plant with a high temperature furnace capable of treating both refuse and sewage at 10 times below the federal air standards, according to Franaszek.

He said there is already such a plant in San Leandro which serves about 150,000 people, three-fourths the population of Marin. Fritz said the new plant would have a high price tag but if several districts were combined, the taxpayers could save money in the long run.

Both youths emphasized they did not want to be thought of as "youth candidates." Franaszek said, "We don't want to be elected because we are 18, nor do we want to be voted against because of our age."

One problem the youths said they sensed talking to people was apathy. "People can successfully defeat you by ignoring you," Franaszek said. Many people have a hopeless feeling that no matter who they elect the board will not be responsive, he added.

Both candidates, who have had experience in student government, said they feel part of the job is to bring complaints and proposals other than their own before the board.

The youths said that if they were elected and did a competent job, they think it would help change adult attitudes that young people are "shiftless" and would also pave the way for other youths who feel they have something to contribute for public office.

Lt. Calley Refuses To Talk

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (UPI) —Lt. William L. Calley Jr. refused to testify today at the court-martial of his former commander, Capt. Ernest L. Medina, and Medina's attorney said he would prove that Calley "was solely responsible" for the massacre at My Lai.

Calley, the only man convicted thus far in the My Lai affair, was brought here from Ft. Benning, Ga., where he has been under house arrest, to appear as the opening witness for the defense.

He refused to testify on advice of his attorney, however, and neither the court nor Medina's attorney, F. Lee Bailey, pressed the point.

The military judge, Col. Kenneth A. Howard, declined to order Calley to testify, noting the young lieutenant still could face a retrial, and in such an event anything he said here could be used against him.

Bailey let the matter pass, telling the court, "I don't want to parade him in here and embarrass him" by forcing him to plead the Fifth Amendment.

Medina is on trial on three charges. He is accused of personally killing a woman, ordering the death of a small boy, and failing to stop his troops from killing 100 other civilians.

Calley also was tried for 102 murders at My Lai. He was convicted on 22 counts and sentenced to life imprisonment, but the sentence has been reduced to 20 years confinement.

Bailey said the defense would produce "the man who shot that boy" Medina is accused of killing. "He will say he received no order from Capt. Medina, but did it on his own."

Bailey said Medina himself, and another witness, will relate the shooting of the woman, showing that Medina thought the woman was about to throw a hand grenade at him and "shot her to save his own life."

The famed criminal lawyer also promised the defense would produce witnesses to show that "Lt. Calley was soley responsible" for the deaths of civilians at My Lai, and that "Capt. Medina knew absolutely nothing about it."

The first witness for the defense was Robert James Lee, a former soldier from Oshkosh, Wis. Lee, a medic with Medina's company, described the professional 34-year-old soldier from Monrose, Colo., as a "good leader" and a strong commander."

Calley was flown from Ft. Benning to the Fulton County Airport near Atlanta early this morning. He made the short trip to Ft. McPherson in an Army sedan, escorted by two military police cars. His attorney, George W. Latimer, was with him.

A six-man security guard accompanied him as he stepped from the car and walked briskly into the courthouse. He was in uniform and wearing sun glasses, and appeared thinner and in better physical condition than he was during his trial last spring.

Newsmen were warned against asking him questions, since he is a prisoner, but someone yelled, "Hello, Rusty," as Calley made his way toward the courtroom.

He flashed a smile, and gave a slight wave of his arm.

Latimer said in advance of Calley's courtroom appearance that his client would not speak unless the judge "commands the lieutenant to testify under threat of sanctions."

Calley was the first witness called by the defense, which began presenting its case today.

Bomb Blast At Rally In Manila

MANILA (UPI)—A small pillbox bomb exploded today during a major rally protesting President Ferdinand E. Marcos' curtailment of civil liberties.

No one was reported injured in the explosion but witnesses said one of two persons appeared hurt when a small part of the estimated 20,000 crowd panicked and tried to run. A pillbox is a small homemade bomb usually containing gunpowder and nails.

The rally took place in bloodstained Plaza Miranda where terrorists tossed two fragmentation grenades Aug. 21 during a ally by the opposition liberal party. Eight persons were killed and 96 injured, including most of the Liberal party leaders in the worst political attack in Philippine history.

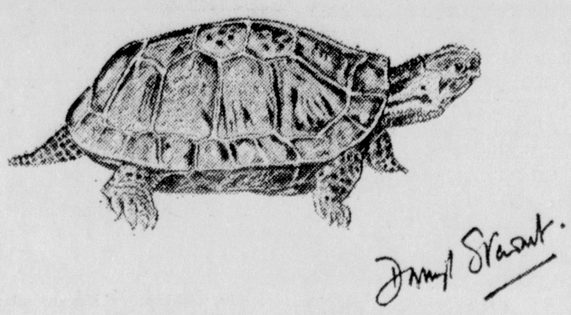
Bog Turtle Faces Extinction Due To Commercial Collection

By DARRYL STEWART
Toronto Telegram Syndicate
(Sixth of 12 articles)



Bog Turtle

Unquestionably, the bog turtle is a very rare reptile. Both the International Union for the Conservation of Nature in Switzerland and the United States Department of the Interior include the bog turtle on their list of rare and endangered species.

The small (maximum length about four inches) and very attractive bog turtle was discovered in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, by clergyman and botonist Heinrich Muhlenberg during the latter part of the 18th Century. Not surprisingly, this species is also referred to in some circles as Muhlenberg's turtle.

This turtle can readily be identified by its straight-sided shell which is short and narrow. The general ground color is brown, with the lower shell (plastron) of a darker nature. The upper shell (carapace) is distinctly marked by concentric rings with no scattered yellow spots. However, its best-known mark of identification is the large orange or yellow patch on the side of the head.

It is likely that the bog turtle was never very common, for it appears to have always been confined to freshwater swamps and bogs of certain Atlantic states. In total, its range stretched from Western Massachusetts and central New York south to the westernmost reaches of North Carolina. Today, its colonies are even more restricted and isolated. Undoubtedly it is rare throughout this entire range and, with minor exceptions, the existing colonies are separated from one another by several miles.

As its name implies, it shows a strong predilection to areas of spagnum bog.

Bog-dwelling creatures like the bog turtle are most vulnerable because their habitat is always in a constant process of chance. As time passes, the bog fills over by giving way to invading hardwood trees.

However, this is a natural long-term process, whereas the impending demise of the bog turtle is more immediate and likely to be brought about by the hand of man.

Each year, more and more of the bog turtle's home is eaten up by the plough under the guise of land "reclamation." This unnatural pressure has been felt in all parts of the turtle's range, but has been especially severe on populations in New Jersey and southeastern Pennsylvania.

Also, over-collecting has contributed much to the bog turtle's present reduced status. The ever-increasing scarcity of this highly-desirable reptile makes its capture so much the more lucrative for the commercial collector.

Despite the seriousness of the situation, very little has been done in the way of protective measures. In only one state, namely New York, has protection been granted.

A law passed in 1968 makes it illegal to collect, own, or sell the species in the State. Unfortunately, the law is often ignored and the sale and collection of bog turtles is allowed to continue unabated.

There are also very few bog turtles in captivity right now, despite the fact that traffic through pet-dealers continues. East Coast zoos have seen a steady decline in the numbers brought in by interested persons.

The future of the bog turtle is black indeed.

While it is altogether possible that this species may one day be conserved and perpetuated in zoological parks, its breeding potential in captivity is unknown, since there are few if any, records of this in the past.

Israeli Guns Shoot Down Syrian Jet

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli gunners fired at a Syrian Soviet-built MIG17 jet fighter as it flew over the Israeli occupied Syrian Golan Heights today, a military spokesman did not say if the aircraft was hit.

It was the third overflight of the Golan Heights by Syrian planes since the Middle East cease-fire of August, 1970. Israel lodged an immediate protest against the flight with the U.N. Truce Supervisory Commission in Jerusalem.

The incident occurred nearly two days after an Israeli gunner at the Suez Canal shot down a low-flying Egyptian fighter-bomber. An Israeli military spokesman said Egyptian retaliation was not expected and warned that Israel "will fire again" at aircraft intruding on its airspace.

The spokesman said in Tel Aviv that Israeli troops at the Suez Canal went without protective gear today despite the possibility of retaliation by Egypt following the most serious incident at the canal since a cease-fire went into effect there Aug. 7, 1970.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo described the downing of the Soviet-built Sukhoi 7 as an "isolated incident" and said, "You do not go to war over the loss of one plane." Egypt had said the plane was on a training flight two miles inside Egyptian territory. It termed the shooting "an aggression" but did not confirm the craft was hit.

In the Arab world, the Middle East News Agency (MENA) said Palestinian guerrillas have agreed to attend a peace conference with the Jordanian government at Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, Wednesday. The conference, postponed three times, because the guerrillas failed to show, is sponsored by Egypt and Saudi Arabia.

In Egypt, Prime Minister Mahmoud Fawzi began consultations toward the formation of a new cabinet in a reshuffle dictated by a public referendum which approved a new permanent constitution Saturday. Fawzi submitted the resignation of his 33-man cabinet to President Anwar Sadat Sunday.

Israeli military sources said the Sukhoi was hit by a machine-gunner who later was rewarded with a bottle of champagne. It was the 17th time Israel reported firing at Egyptian planes since April 26, the first it reported a hit and the 40th time it complained of Egyptian overflights to the U.N. Truce Supervisory Commission.

Athletes Killed In Colorado Bus Crash

GUNNISON, Colo. (UPI) — The school bus transporting the Gunnison High School junior varsity to a football game was coming down the east side of the 11,312-foot Monarch Pass when the odor of smoke drifted back to the players.

"One of the boys noticed the brakes smelled," said Bob Ragatz, a 14-year-old junior varsity football player at Gunnison High School. "Not bad at first, but it got worse —the smell of smoke."

The bus slowly gathered momentum. The bus driver, Royce Mustain, 23, pushed on the brake pedal, and then pushed harder. The force of his efforts brought him bold upright out of his seat, his foot pumping the pedal.

"One of the coaches got up to try and help the driver put the bus in first gear," Ragatz said. "But then the brakes seemed to go, and then the transmission."

Down the winding mountain road the bus sped out of control, —50, 60, 70 miles per hour.

"A couple of the kids began to scream," Ragatz said.

The bus careened out of control for 2 1-2 miles before the driver swerved to miss two cars and crashed into a parking lot at Garfield. The bus rolled over and split open.

Eight players and a coach were killed and 39 others were injured in the accident Saturday. Nineteen persons were still hospitalized today —three in critical condition, including Mustain. Mustain was among 15 of the injured who were airlifted to Denver for medical treatment.

State officials today were trying to learn what caused the mishap. E. Dean Coon, acting commissioner of education for Colorado, said the National Highway Safety Bureau in Washington would be asked to send an investigator.

The bus, which had been driven 3,500 miles, was taken to narby Salida and impounded until authorities could conduct their investigation.

In Gunnison, a small south central Colorado mountain town with a population of about 3,500, junior and senior high school students were told to stay home.

James E. Pahlau, principal of Gunnison High School, said combined funeral services would be held Wednesday in the Western State College gymnasium for seven of the players and an assistant coach. Private services will be held Tuesday for the eighth player.

All nine victims will be buried in a common grave in Gunnison Cemetery Wednesday.

Boisterous Man Held For Pot

A 22-year-old Larkspur man has been arrested on suspicion of possessing marijuana, narcotics paraphernalia, being drunk in public and disturbing the peace.

Larkspur police said today Gregory John Golden of 106 William Avenue was arrested at 4:30 a.m. Saturday while standing at Jones Way and Madrone Avenue with a companion who was also arrested for being drunk in public.

Officers said the two had awakened nearby residents with yelling and strong language, which prompted several complaints.

While searching Golden at the Marin County Jail, officers found a plastic bag of suspected hashish and a pipe which could be used for smoking the drug. He remained in jail and was scheduled to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Death, Destruction In Monsoon Floods

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Monsoon flooding of the Gomti River in Uttar Pradesh state has claimed 454 lives and caused about $150 million worth of damage to property and crops, the Press Trust of India (PTI) said today.

Agnew Asks An End To Bickering, Partisanship

SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew called on the nation's governors today to shun "petty bickering and partisan jockeying" in debate over President Nixon's new economic policy.

"In this period of a freeze on wages, prices and rents, and indeed in the stage that follows the freeze, let us work together in the public interest through a rational discussion and a spirit of cooperation," Agnew told the 63rd annual National Governors Conference.

Two bombs exploded in an electric power plant early today, knocking out electricity for about an hour in the immediate area of the plant. Authorities issued conflicting statements on whether the explosions were caused by an accident or by militant independence groups.

A parade of at least 25,000 supporters of Puerto Rican independence took advantage of the governors' presence Sunday to tell them they were not welcome here. However, the protest was more festive than angry.

In remarks prepared for the opening business session of the meeting, Agnew returned to his role as chief White House link with state government. He defended Nixon's new economic policy against Democratic and labor movement charges that it offered unfair tax relief based on a trickle down theory and that profit controls should be tied to other controls as they were not in the 90-day wage-price freeze.

He said he was a believer in "honest partisanship, that the Nixon policy was not handed down from Mt. Olympus and was subject to searching study leading to improvement where it could be improved."

"We're open to ideas, because the only way the fight against inflation can succeed as if every group and every individual has a stake in its success," Agnew said.

In presidential politics, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama says he may enter three Democratic presidential primaries in the South next year, but that would not rule out an independent race for the presidency as a third party candidate.

Wallace, speaking before the formal opening today of the 63rd National Governors Conference, indicated he might appear on the presidential primary ballots in Florida, Tennessee and North Carolina as a Democrat.

WHEN THE BUSES rolled out full of youngsters bound for school today in Novato, the children's safety was uppermost in the mind of Mrs. Karen Millikin, dispatcher and scheduler. Last month she gave up a trip to Hawaii to spend three weeks learning special school bus driver safety techniques in Sacramento and is teaching them to the 15 women bus drivers of the Novato Unified School District and to other school bus drivers in Marin.

NOVATO SCHOOLS

Safety Is First For Bus Drivers

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Safety of children who began riding school buses in the Novato Unified School District on this first day of school is utmost in the mind of Karen Millikin, bus dispatcher and scheduler, and her crew of 15 women drivers.

Mrs. Millikin was the only Marinite to spend three weeks last month in Sacramento with 14 others attending 120 hours of teaching techniques in classroom and behind-the-wheel instruction for school bus drivers.

She will now be responsible for initiating and conducting school bus driver training programs in Marin County.

The aim of the program is to reduce the number of school bus accidents in California. It was initiated in October under joint three-year funding by the U.S. Department of Transportation and the California State Department of Education. A number of other states are looking at the California model, according to Dr. Stanley McDougall, director of the project.

THE NOVATO bus program is unusual in that all of its regular bus drivers are women. One man, Ben Young, is a substitute driver.

Mrs. Millikin and Dr. Eugene de Brecht, assistant superintendent in charge of business and buildings, say it takes a special kind of person to drive a school bus.

And women don't mind the broken hours — they start work at 7 a.m., but they have time off during the middle of the day. Dr. De Brecht also said there is a very low turnover of drivers.

Karen started driving a school bus seven years ago after her children were grown. She was born in Novato and knows every road in the Novato area. Another long-time bus driver with the district, Mrs. Lena Blaski, who has been a bus driver for 20 years, talked Mrs. Millikin into driving a bus. However, Karen only substitutes now as her special job demands her time in the transportation office.

Until the school children are all registered, Mrs. Millikin will not know how many will be bused, but on the average last year 2,000 children or about one-sixth of the youngsters in the school district were transported by bus.

For the security of the youngsters and other motorists, the school bus driver must check her entire bus every morning, including brakes, windshield wipers, oil pressure, first aid equipment and fire extinguishers.

ON FRIDAY, Mrs. Millikin conducted in-service training for her drivers. Also giving instruction were Officer Art Olson of the California Highway Patrol and Al Mendoza, safety officer of the Novato Police Department who assist in the school bus drivers program and work very closely with the school district.

Mrs. Millikin says she will be teaching the drivers the methods given her at Sacramento, among them, the proper way to make a right or left turn without straying into another lane, which is difficult with the big buses. She'll also stress defensive driving.

This year all school buses will drive with their lights on. She also said red lights flashing at the top of the bus indicate that children are either getting on the bus or leaving the bus and motorists must stop.

MANY CHILDREN are taking the bus for the first time this year and brochures were sent home with each child listing the proper conduct and safety programs for the youngsters, which also give advice to parents on responsibility of the student riding the bus. It advises parents on responsibility of the student riding the bus. It advises parents, "Help your child understand that school bus riding is a privilege and permission to continue riding can be withdrawn if order and conduct is unruly."

Mrsh Millikin left Novato when she married during World War II. But she and her husband, Albert Millikin, an employee of the department of electricity for the City and County of San Francisco, returned to Novato in 1953. They have three children.

During her years in Novato Mrs. Millikin served as the first president of Hill Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association, was active in Camp Fire Girls and Bluebirds, served on the north Marin Council P-TA and was active in the order of Eastern Star. She is a member of the Sylvan Circle of Druids and served on the education goals committee of the Novato Unified School District.

Mrs. Millikin says, however, "this is my cup of tea," referring to her job. She says she likes her job so well that when the invitation was given her to attend the school in Sacramento last month, she and her husband cancelled a three-week trip they had planned to Hawaii.

Stopping Truth Decay Is Goal Of Education

By PATRICIA McCORMACK.

NEW YORK (UPI) —"Compulsory education," some critics maintain, "embalms students, turning off their curiosity."

"The trouble with education," other critics claim, "is that therre are too many frills, plus too much coddling of students."

"Experimentation, that's all, that's what goes on in the classrooms, experimentation at taxpayers' expense," other nonfriends of contemporary education are fond of saying.

So what really is the function of education?

Ewald Nyquist, a state education commissioner, says one of the vital tasks of education was stated in front of a Baptist church in Tulsa, Okla. The sign read:

"Help stop truth decay."

Nyquist, commissioner of education for New York State, did his telling at the 30th annual superintendents workshop, sponsored by Teachers College at Columbia University, for school bosses from across the nation.

PRESSURES ON public education include the voices of the young raised against the established order in general and again the educational system in particular, according to Nyquist.

"And they have been joined by the poor and the blacks," he said. "They represent the new disestablishmentarianism. The cry for relevance has echoed through our compartmentalized schools with their lock-step programs, standardized schedules, prescribed curricula, and other rigidities.

"Present education is too frequently an experience characterized by information gathering, with its fact-centered, course-centered, subject--centered, grade-getting, bell-interrupted activities, and fragmentation in terms of time, space subjects, and teachers."

Nyquist said it reminds him of the "new" there R's: rote, restraint and regurgitation."

If education is to really help stop truth decay and contribute to the development of a rapidly changing society, shifts are needed. Among those cited by Nyquist were:

—From a system geared for relatively slow evolution to one capable of rapid change.

—From a system to provide mainly predetermined curricula and programs to one geared to supporting the ongoing development of students.

—From a system which provides contributions only at early and middle years of a person's life to one geared for sustained contributions appropriate at every stage of a lifetime.

—From a system geared to provide mainly knowledge, treating knowledge as an end in itself, to one geared to helping people learn how to use what they learn and how to work together productively.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Widow Ought To Be Grateful The Ride Only Cost Her $25

DEAR HELEN:

I am a new widow and not used to men.

I knew this man while I was married and so, when he asked me out, I accepted. Actually he was a business acquaintance. I believed him when he said he was divorced. We got quite friendly.

When I planned a European trip, he said he wanted me to write, but he gave me his office address, saying he had a nosy landlady who snooped in his mail and sometimes didn't deliver it. I asked for his phone number but he said he didn't have one, temporarily, because of a mix-up on billing. It sounded fishy to me, and I said so. How did I know that he wasn't trying to hide me from his wife? He never once took me to his "apartment."

He became very angry and accused me of not trusting him. I haven't heard from him since, although I wrote a note of apology. My trip is scheduled for the last of this month. Should I try to reach him again, as I don't want to come home to a manless existence. (But I don't want to get mixed up with a married man, either).

Oh yes, I forgot to say: He's a car salesman, and he borrowed $25 that he hasn't returned to me. — GLORIA

DEAR GLORIA:

My IGAP (I'm Guessing Again Perception") says your car salesman took you for a ride. Be glad it was short and cost only $25. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

About four years ago you published a column titled "What is a Wife?" I kept it in a "safe" place but, being a wife, that means I'll find it again next time we move. Could you re-print it for me and my friends? I believe it was written by your husband. — ANOTHER NUT

DEAR NUT:

Be glad to. But let me say here that I am not the inspirator for everything my husband writes (I keep telling myself).

A WIFE IS A WOMAN WHO:

Reads road maps upside down and gets you hopelessly lost; then remarks, "A WOMAN would stop and ask a service station."

Stretches a teabag to the third cup of hot water, but spends 75 bucks on a new dress at the drop of a credit card.

Is always on a strict diet — until you take her out to an expensive restaurant. Puts YOU on a strict diet, then gets an urge to make cream puffs.

Figures all cars will go ten minutes longer after the gas gauge registers "empty" and, if you drive faster, you can beat the odds.

Can't replace a blown-out fuse or start the power lawn mower (if a man is there to do it for her), but repairs a washing machine with a hairpin and a toaster with a well-placed thump.

Complains that you snore, when all you're doing is humming her to sleep.

Can't figure out the plot of any television show more complicated than "Lassie," yet spurns the direct approach in favor of involved, devious schemes to make a husband think going out was his idea.

Goes barefoot none-tenths of the time, but always needs a new pair of shoes . .

Tears into the kids with strong words, but says, "Dear, they're ONLY children," when you try it.

Smears her face with cream so that good night kiss is like stepping on a banana peel in an ice rink.

Says it shows originality to improve on recipes, yet hollers when you experiment with a green tie, maroon socks and a blue suit.

Saves empty gift boxes, but throws away your lucky fishing hat.

Never wants a rest stop or a hamburger until you hit the freeway.

Spends two hours making something for nothing — which she could buy for 39 cents in five minutes at a variety store.

Says the bank made the error.

Is really not a bad sort when you consider her handicap of being female. — BOB BOTTEL

NOTE FROM H: That last line was written before Women's Liberation made it a "no-no" to say such things.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

FABRIC SECRETS

JOAN CROSSLEY

Polyester is our newest miracle fabric, and in many ways, it is man's most progressive production of cloth. That fine material that catches your eye for the lightness of its weight and the brightness of its color is really one of the most durable of clothing fabrics. Not only is polyester durable, it is resistant to shrinking and stretching — something especially unusual in a fabric which is often so light. The material is crisp and resilient. Wet or dry, it resists wrinkles and is, all factors considered, a good buy for your money.

You'll find your best buy today is sewing clothing for yourself and family. At FABRIC LAND, 836 4th St. we have a wide variety of materials for every use. This shop has a complete selection of upholstery and drapery fabric and if you desire an At Home Decorating Service. Cutting The High Cost Of Funerals

By ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — You may not be able to do much about the cost of living, but you may be able to cut hundreds — perhaps thousands — of dollars off the cost of dying with a newly revised 64-page booklet.

The publication, the fifth edition of "A Manual of Simple Burial," provides frank answers to almost every question that arises at the time of death. Its aim is to show "how to obtain simplicity, dignity and economy in funeral arrangements through advance planning."

It also offers information to help people donate parts of their body to medical research or to various "banks" such as eye banks in order to serve other people. Names and addresses of medical facilities and organ banks are given along with special conditions wherever they apply.

THE THEME of the booklet is "advance planning." By looking ahead to the inevitable, says author Ernest Morgan, you can assure dignity and simplicity at comparatively low costs. Failure to make advance plans can leave you at the mercy of costly customs while you are under great emotional stress.

Unlike best-selling books of a decade or so ago, this booklet has some kind words for the majority of funeral directors:

"It is important that we not judge funeral directors in general by the occasional shady operator who is to be found among them, and that we understand their problems and appreciate the services they perform."

Morgan believes that candid information and advance planning can benefit both the public and the funeral industry.

THE BASIC problem, says Morgan, is the surplus of funeral directors. There are some 24,000 to handle enough business for only 2,000 working at maximum efficiency. With an average of only about one adult funeral a week, a funeral director is forced to charge considerable overhead in the price.

It is no wonder that a Congressional study a few years ago found that the average price of a funeral in this country exceeded $1,000. It may be even more now although many morticians have scaled down their fees.

The main thrust of the booklet is away from elaborate funerals and fancy caskets and toward simple memorial services after the body is either cremated or donated for charitable or scientific purposes.

A special section of the booklet lists more than 100 member organizations of the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies, with their addresses, phone numbers and principal services. Some two dozen other memorial societies are also listed.

IN A SERIES of questions and answers, Morgan explains what a memorial society is and what it tries to do:

"A memorial society is a voluntary group of people who have joined together to obtain dignity, simplicity and economy in funeral arrangements through advance planning." The booklet tells how to organize a society.

For the name of the nearest funeral society, write to the Continental Association of Funeral and Memorial Societies, 59 E. Van Buren St., Chicago, Illinois, 60605.

For a copy of the booklet, send a dollar to the Celo Press, Box 79, Burnsville, N.C., 28714.

Epidemics Of Head Lice Close Schools

A number of schools in various parts of the United States had to be closed last year due to epidemics of head lice. The parasites are found from the arctic to the tropics and can infest anyone, child or adult. Personal cleanliness does not necessarily act as a safeguard against them. Last year it was noted that a number of so-called upper-middle class communities were hit.

Although in the past kerosene, DDT and other unpleasant "remedies" were used with varying degrees of success, nowadays many physicians prescribe a shampoo containing gamma benzene hexachloride. Generally only one application of the shampoo is required.

Calvin Freel, Nancie Nave Repeat Vows

Nancie Nave of San Rafael and Calvin Freel of San Anselmo were united in marriage in a ceremony Saturday afternoon at St. Raphael's Church in San Rafael.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Nave Jr. of San Rafael, Nancie was attended by her sister Marianne Nave as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were another sister, Susan Nave of San Rafael, and Carolyn Nave of San Rafael, the bride's sister-in-law; Valerie Kehrlein and Christine Bonfiglio, Kim Bacharach and Dianne Lee, all of San Rafael, and Cyndy Curry of Roseville.

Lee Freel performed best man duties for his brother. The ushers were the bride's brothers, Bill and Mike Nave of San Rafael, Jeff Curry of Woodland and Louis Arnone, Van Scotto, Wayne Magliulo and Brian Bettini, all of San Rafael.

The reception followed at Blessed Sacrament Church in Santa Venetia. The couple then left on a wedding trip to Hawaii. They will live in San Rafael.

Both are graduates of San Rafael High School and the bride is employed with Marin Title Guaranty Co. in San Rafael. Calvin also was graduated from College of Marin and is attending San Francisco State College and employed at Paul Ciampi Distributing Co. in San Rafael.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nave of San Rafael.

Calvin is the son of Marle Freel of Glendale and Mrs. Evelyn Freel of San Anselmo. He is the brother of Mrs. Marcia Proffitt of San Rafael, Michele Freel of San Anselmo and Mrs. Donald Volle of Kansas.

Bill Guarantees Maternity Leave

LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—A working woman who becomes pregnant would be guaranteed a leave of absence from her job to have her baby, under a bill introduced in the Michigan state senate.

The measure would guarantee any woman who has worked at least one year for a firm a one-year leave of absence if she became pregnant. Any woman with more than three years' service with a company would be guaranteed a two-year leave of absence.

Self-Buttering

A first self-buttering electric popper for popcorn looks like a streamlined, bubble-top lunar lander in miniature. An insert in the transparent lid holds solid butter that melts and drips down evenly on light, nonstick lining on the metal part and a kernel separater to sift out unpopped corn. The lid doubles as a serving bowl.

KATHAK — Chitresh Das whirls with grace and precision despite 13 pounds of bells about his ankles. The braid of bells is a feature of the Kathak, a 2,000-year-old dance, of which he is a master. Das will pass on his knowledge of dance this year at the Ali Akbar College in San Rafael. (Independent-Journal photo)

THE KATHAK

He Wears 13 Pounds Of Copper Bells And Dances Up A Storm

By MARG BURNS

The bells on Chitresh Das's slight legs have been tuned through years of practice. His dancing is both gentle and ferocious; his slender body does not seem weighted down by the 13 pounds of copper he supports as he spirals through the air.

Das, a 27-year-old dancer from Calcutta has come to Marin County to teach Kathak — a north India classical dance in which the performer wears braids of bells on his ankles.

The youthful looking Das became interested in Kathak accidentaly. His father, a dancing teacher, went to Pandit Ram Narayan Misra, who later became Das's guru, to learn Kathak.

"The guru told my father he was too old and suggested that he bring his son." Das's father took the guru's advice and when Das was seven years old took him to the guru.

Now Das moves with the grace of a ballet dancer. He is only 5 feet 5 inches tall and weighs 135 pounds but has made up for his size with rigorous exercises "to develop stamina." Besides practicing at least an hour every day he occasionally plays recordings and simply moves around with the bells or high kicks in place wearing the bells.

Kathak, his specialty, is about 2,000 years old. It originated during from the minstrel songs of praise to God. Eventually dancing replaced singing.

The dance in its present form evolved from Moslem and Hindu influences, though it is based on Hindu religious philosophies.

Nine sentiments — including love, valor, anger, fear, disgust, wonder, despair, peace — are portrayed through facial movements in the dance. Das has mastered the communication of these feelings.

He wears heavy makeup he claims is practically nonexistent compared to the amount more experienced dancers wear especially around the eyes to exaggerate them.

Das began studying 17 years ago. He has received both bachelor and master's degrees in dance (along with a bachelor's degree in general education from universities in India.

He recently spent a year studying modern dance and teaching at the University of Maryland on a Whitney Foundation grant.

His feet have been conditioned so they move in perfect tempo with the irregular rhythms of the Indian sitar music he uses as an accompaniment. Throughout the obviously physically taxing dance he smiles his enjoyment.

"Everything becomes sacred in this dance," he says, from the audience to the earrings of his costume.

Das and his American born wife, Julia, spent the summer in Seattle with her family. The couple met while Mrs. Das was studying in India with Das's father.

OPERA REVIEW

Rich, Robust 'Der Rosenkavalier'

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

SAN FRANCISCO — A brilliant 49th season indeed is predicted for the San Francisco Opera if it continues like the first two offerings — Friday night's opening "Manon," that was a musical triumph as well as the usual fashion parade, and Saturday night's sensational 'Der Rosenkavalier."

Planning to attend "Manon" later, I chose "Rosenkavalier" as my opener for the season, and an exciting one it was.

The smash hit target could hardly have been missed with major roles in this tale of old Vienna sung by the Viennese stars mezzo Christa Ludwig as the boy lover Octavian and bass-baritone Manfred Jungwirth as the coarse Baron Ochs, and a polished orchestra, particularly the strings, conducted by Silvio Varviso who regularly conducts in Vienna. He set the right pace for this lively opera with its famed Viennese waltz themes, making the orchestral music a lustrous setting for vocal gems — perhaps even a bit too brilliant.

So loaded with vocal and dramatic riches was this performance of Strauss's famed tragicomedy that Hager's production actually could afford to cast Stockholm-born Nicolai Gedda — the most recorded tenor in history — in the minor role of the Italian singer. His top notes, however, seemed forced.

By far the greatest individual triumph was the long anticipated San Francisco Opera debut of Ludwig. Not only was her powerful voice covering a wide range perfectly focused and colored, but the acting of this 43-year-old singer as a young man impersonating a maid part of the time was amazingly convincing. Hers was the best handling of a "trouser" role I have ever seen.

In his American debut Jungwirth was a foxy old Baron Ochs, playing the role to the hilt for grossness and vulgarity but avoiding the buffoonery often encountered in many portrayals.

The Yugoslavian opera star Sena Jurinac as the appealing Marschallin sang beautifully and in appearance was ideally suited to the attractive but aging princess who gives up her young lover to the youthfully pretty Sophie. Making her San Francisco debut in this role was Texas-born Helen Donath, whose lyric soprano was pure and sweet.

A high point of the evening was the trio singing in the last act of Ludwig, Jurinac and Donath.

The cast: Octavian, Christa Ludwig; The Marschallin, Sena Jurinac; Marschallin's majordomo, Peter Van Derick; Marschallin's footmen, John Glenister, Richard Styles, Eugene Naham, Eugene Lawrence; Baron Ochs Von Lerchenau, Manfred Jungwirth; three noble orphans, Carolyn Lewis, Gwen Jones, Sandra Bush; a milliner, Arlene Adams; an animal vendor, Orva Hoskinson; Valzacchi, Ragnar Ulfung; an Italian singer, Nicolai Gedda; a notary, William Fleck; Annina, Edna Garabedian; Leopold, Daniel Sullivan; Vonfaninal, Raymond Wolansky; Sophie, Helen Donath; Marianne, Julia Emoed-Wallace; Von Faninal's majordomo, James Atherton; innkeeper, Joe Pinedo; police commissioner, Allan Monk; Marschallin's page Mohammed, Aida Brolly. And a scholar, flute player, hairdresser, his assistant, a cook, musicians, a footman, couriers, lackeys, maids, a physician, cook boys, waiters, coachmen, guests, children.

Handling the minor roles of the Italian intriguers Valzacchi and Annina with Panache were that gifted Norwegian singing actor Ragnar Ulfung, tenor, and the Fresno-born contralto Edna Garabedian in her regular San Francisco opera debut after her success in spring opera. Also vividly portrayed by Cleveland baritone Raymond Wolansky was Sophie's father Von Faninal.

Among many colorful minor characters performing well were tenors Peter Van Derick and James Atherton as the Marschallin's and Von Vaninal's majordomos and soprano Julie Emoed-Wallace as his housekeeper.

A sparkling touch was added by tiny Aida Brolly as the Marschallin's little black page.

Costumes and sets were elegant and lavish except for the last act inn scene, which was not nearly as effective as the one for the last "Rosenkavalier" in San Francisco. Unfortunately a backdrop for another opera could be seen at the top and back of the inn set.

Other performances of the opera will be given on Sept. 14, 17, 22 and 26.

ART REVIEW

Petaluma Park — Happy Action

By ADA GARFINKEL

Art-in-the-Park in Petaluma's tree-shaded Walnut Park last weekend was part happening, part montage, and altogether a mosaic of color and action — albeit on the "cool" side the hot weekend!

The occasion was the 12th Annual get-together of artists, art-lovers, friends, children, and visitors, sponsored by the 18-year-old Petaluma Art Association, for the purpose of exhibiting their work and raising a student scholarship fund through donations. Not stated, but quite apparent was the fun of being part of an important and lively community activity.

Some 1,500 visitors came, saw, and bought — some from as far away as San Francisco. Also from San Francisco came the five-piece Banjo Club Band in red-and-white striped vests, sleeve-bands, and straw hats, playing turn-of-the-century music in the bandstand, as a token of affection for the now deceased, long-time association member, Don Todd, and his widow. Ringing the musicians, quiet groups of the under-10 set sat in rapt attention at the sight and sound.

Other youngsters played in a well-equipped children's playground supervised by several high-school students. Others used park picnic tables for clay modeling, drawing — and just resting. One chubby youngster was busily painting a turtle on a block of wood... doing his own thing away from the others.

Just as much part of the scene as the 78 panels of paintings and drawings which encircled the park square, were the countless bikes and small groups of handsome teen-agers huddled on the lawn and taking it all in. There was no doubt about the good "vibes" here! Much of it must be due to the excellent rapport generated by Frank Marshall, an art instructor at Petaluma High School (and the only association member who is a full-time working artist) and his wife Pat, this year's chairman of the annual event, and the mother of four. Said she: "We get stronger each year."

Art-in-action included water-color and oil painting demonstrations by the Marshalls and Lew Barber; pottery by Jean Pratt, and clay sculpture by Rosa Estebanez (who has recently completed a commission for a 900-pound cement-and-sand sculpture — Mother and Child — for San Sebastian Catholic Church in Sebastopol). Among the crafts exhibited were spinning, weaving, stitchery, macrame and jewelry. A special feature for the children (and young-at-heart) was a stint by Edmund Moy, a ventriloquist.

Several extremely interesting miniature copper-and-wire sculptures — a scale replica of the Wright brothers' airplane; an old-fashioned bicycle; a drag racer; a stripped-down "cow puncher"; a pole-vaulter and other pieces — are the works of Ken Crowder who embarked on this work a year ago, and Doug Knudson who started four months ago.

William Evans who teaches industrial art to the blind in Berkeley, showed fascinating things with laminated woods: A knock-down tent table designed to be an "eye-catcher" — held together with wedges and braced to support a blue cloth canopy, its tabletop an intricate pattern simulating crystalline structures "took about a month of spare-time." A total of 63 artists participated in the event.

Japan Woos Canada For Trade Pact

TORONTO (UPI)—Japanese Foreign Minister Takeo Fukuda said today Canada and Japan should join together in an alliance to promote free trade in the face of last month's U.S. economic measures.

Fukuda, addressing the opening session of a Canada-Japan ministerial meeting, said Canada and Japan are "disciples of free trade and it is imperative that we address ourselves to this problem in the face of rising protectionism."

"I am hopeful that we can create a Japan-Canada alliance for the preservation of free trade in the world today," he said.

The Japanese minister said that the economic crisis caused by President Nixon's Aug. 15 economic moves, including a 10 per cent surcharge on imports, had led to "an era of turbulence of the greatest magnitude since World War II."

He noted that both Canada and Japan had sent high-level missions to Washington to plead for an easing of the trade restrictions in the new 7.S. economic policy and that neither delegation won any positive concessions.

Novato Council To Eye New Tax

Novato City Council will consider adopting an ordinance setting a bedroom tax on new residential construction at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The proposed tax is $75 for the first bedroom in each dwelling and $15 for each additional bedroom, with the revenue to be earmarked for parks.

COPTER WATCHER — For 14-year-old Mike Kenward all the action that counts is aloft. He's an inveterate watcher of helicopters and plans to be a pilot some day. The other day, his enthusiasm won him an honorary captaincy in SFO Helicopters.

MADE HONORARY CAPTAIN

Mike's Head Is In A Whirl Over Future As Copter Pilot

By FRANK FARRARA

A 14-year-old Larkspur boy, who wants to be a helicopter pilot, is off to a flying start.

The future flyer, Mike Kenward, son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Kenward of 12 Palm Avenue, was commissioned an honorary captain of SFO Helicopter Airlines Friday.

It was a big day for Mike, who has been interested in helicopters about as long as he can remember and describes himself as a "helicopter nut."

While talking to an Independent-Journal reporter at his home this weekend, Mike heard the buzz of approaching helicopter, dashed out onto the deck to take a look, and returned to report, "It was Army."

He said his interest in helicopters started when he lived in San Francisco, more than six years ago. "A guy invited me to a birthday party and we went to a helicopter factory," he said.

Mike's interest picked up in recent years and in the past year, he bicycled to the SFO Helicopter terminal at Waldo Point, which became his ground school.

He would watch the helicopters coming and going, walk around seaplanes in the area, and hang around the office, he said.

Pilots told me what this was, and what that was. I'd ask them a lot of questions and they would tell me," Mike said. "You know if you're in the San Francisco Airport and you pick out a captain, he'll show you a cockpit."

Through talking to pilots, Mike found that most of them learned to fly in the service, and that he should concentrate on mathematics if he wants to be a pilot.

Anxious to get started on his career, Mike wrote to SFO helicopters and asked for a job, any job so he could be around helicopters.

In return, the company invited Mike and his family to the Oakland Airport, ostensibly to take a tour of the facilities, and surprised him with a certificate naming him an honorary captain.

The also gave him captain's wings, a company jacket patch, a book on the history of the helicopter, a maroon tie with silver helicopters on it, and an employment blank.

The Kenward family got a helicopter ride, covering the company's Bay Area routes, Mike's third flight.

About a possible job, Mike commented: "They said something about sitting in the middle between the pilot and co-pilot."

Three Seek To Halt Jury Indictments

By C. P. McCARTHY

Attorneys for Stephen M. Bingham and two San Quentin inmates today sought a Marin Superior Court order to prohibit Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales from seeking grand jury indictments of the three.

According to petitions filed today, the attorneys said they believed Bales would seek indictments from the Marin County Grand Jury tomorrow in connection with the violence at San Quentin Prison Aug. 21.

Bales said today he had not intended to seek indictments tomorrow, but that he will "when the case has been properly prepared."

He said he did not know how long that would be. Regardless of the timing, however, he said he would fight the move to prevent him from going to the grand jury.

Bales has already filed a complaint in municipal court and obtained a warrant for Bingham, char ging him with five counts of murder.

Bingham, an East Bay attorney and member of a politically prominent Connecticut family, is accused of smuggling in a gun to inmate George Jackson, touching off a bloody escape attempt in which Jackson, two other inmates and three corrections officers were killed.

The two inmates who said they believed Bales will attempt to indict them are Hugo A. Pinnel and John Larry Spain.

Spain fled from the prison's adjustment center with Jackson on Aug. 21, but dove into bushes when guards started firing at the pair. Jackson was killed, but Spain escaped injury.

A guard taken hostage by inmates in the adjustment center reportedly gasped, "Yogi did it," as he stumbled out of the adjustment center with a severe throat wound as prison officials regained control of the adjustment center. Sources at the prison said "Yogi" was a nickname for Pinnel.

The petion for Pinnel and Spain was filed by attorneys Edwin T. Caldwell of San Francisco, Elaine F. Wender of Oakland and Carl B. Shapiro of San Anselmo.

The other petition was filed by Oakland attorney David Nawi in behalf of Bingham and his father, Alfred M. Bingham, a Connecticut lawyer and former state senator.

Both petitions said they believed Bales would take the cases to the grand jury tomorrow and that Pinnel, Spain and Bingham would be among those he sought to have indicted.

They charge that because of extensive publicity regarding the San Quentin escape attempt and subsequent events, including the issuance of a warrant for Bingham, "an attitude of hysteria and lack of impartiality has gripped the general public of Marin."

The attorneys said they "had every reason to believe" that members of the grand jury share the "general hostile attitudes of the public."

They noted that even if their petitions are granted, Bales can still pursue prosecution of the cases by starting in municipal court — a process he has already begun in Bingham's case

A grand jury indictment would eliminate municipal court proceedings and put the cases in superior court where they would be tried.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court today signed an order for Bales to appear at 9 a.m. tomorrow to show why the attorneys' petitions should not be granted.

The grand jury is scheduled to meet at 1 p.m.

Churgin Named To Drug Post

Lloyd Churgin, 34-year-old New Yorker, has been appointed to the new post of Marin County drug abuse and alcoholism coordinator, according to Dr. Donovan O. Cooke, director of county health services.

Churgin's experience includes many years of work with addicts, their families and communities and especially with young drug abusers, Dr. Cooke said.

He has worked with many drug subcultures and at New York City's Addiction Services Agency, and has supervised a network of drug abuse prevention and treatment programs and youth centers.

He helped found Encounter Inc., a community program in Greenwich Village, where he supervised programs for addicts, preaddicts and their families. Dr. Cooke said that he has also served as a street worker with a fighting gang.

Churgin's immediate duties will include finding the gaps in present services for addicts and alcoholics and to help agencies in the county develop needed programs, Dr. Cooke said.

The post was created by the supervisors earlier this summer during budget sessions. Churkin, who has already started to work, will be paid $1,058 a month.

Churgin, who is married, arrived in Marin after a world trip during which he worked as volunteer in India, Japan and Israel.

THREE Rs ROUTINE RETURNS

This class of kindergarteners responded enthusiastically today to teacher's aide Shirley Ward, as they began their first class day at the Marin City Learning Center. (Another schools' opening photo on page 1.) The young scholars were among more than 50,000 Marin County youth returning to classes after summer vacation and 50 students entering the center, Marin City's first private school. This school, begun by parents who were dissatisfied with the Sausalito School District, will meet temporarily in the Village Baptist Church. Twelve volunteer teachers will instruct the kindergarten through eighth grade pupils.

Girl, 4, Killed As Auto Rolls

A 4-year-old Sausalito girl was killed yesterday and four other persons injured, none seriously, when the car they were riding in careened down an embankment in Tamalpais Valley.

The child, Eve O'Reilly, was the daughter of Jean O'Reilly of the Waldo Point houseboat colony on Richardson Bay. She suffered a crushed skull in the accident and was killed instantly,

She had spent the afternoon at Stinson Beach with her babysitter, Deborah Polesky, 17, and Dorothy Marsh, 17, both also of the houseboat colony, the California Highway Patrol reported.

The trio, hitchhiking from the beach, got a ride with Edward Tyson, 28, of Oakland, driver of the car. Highway patrol officers said Tyson was eastbound in slow-moving traffic on Shoreline Highway, a half-mile west of Panoramic Highway, at 5 p.m. when an unidentified westbound vehicle crossed the yellow line into his lane.

To avoid a collision, Tyson swerved the car to the right and went over the embankment, rolling the car about 200 feet, officers reported.

Treated at Marin General Hospital were Tyson, sprained back; Miss Polesky, bruises on face and shoulder; Miss Marsh, bruised right shoulder; Herbert Dunn, 21, of Fairfield, a passenger in the car, back and neck sprain. Another passenger, Raymond Little, 23 of Oakland, was not injured.

Funeral arrangements for Eve were pending today at Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel, Mill Valley.

Judge Gardiner, Clerk Of Court Are Married

The first marriage of Samuel W. Gardiner, presiding judge of Marin Superior Court, was dissolved Friday and the judge remarried Saturday.

Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court married Gardiner and Barbara Kathryn Renfort, 45, of Mill Valley, Saturday at the Hall of Justice.

Gardiner's forty-four year marriage to Susan F. Gardiner was dissolved Friday afternoon by Superior Court Judge Henry J. Broderick.

Gardiner had filed for dissolution in July 1970, citing irreconcilable differences.

Judge Broderick ordered Gardiner to pay $300 a month alimony in addition to an undisclosed property settlement.

Gardiner and his new wife, a clerk in the Marin County clerk's office, were reported to be on a honeymoon at an undisclosed site. He is to return to the bench next Monday.

It was the new Mrs. Gardiner's second marriage. According to the marriage license, her first marriage ended in divorce in 1965.

Judge Gardiner was appointed to the bench by Gov. Edmund G. Brown in 1964 and was elected to a six-year term in 1966.

Police Arrest Pot Suspect

Kenneth Keith Wynns, 23, of 1139 Fourth Street, Novato, was arrested by Novato Police Saturday night on suspicion of drunken driving and possession of marijuana.

Officers said they stopped his car at Grant Avenue and Sixth Street at 10:58 p.m. after it had been reported speeding at Sweetser and Machin avenues.

Wynns had a bag containing what appeared to be processed marijuana in his pocket, police said. He was booked at Marin County Jail, released on his own recognizance and scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Thursday.

Four Hurt In Freeway Chain Crash

A driver suffered facial cuts and a swollen left arm and three passengers suffered minor injuries Saturday in a four-car chain collision on northbound Highway 101, south of Lamont Avenue, Novato.

Novato police said the collisions occurred as cars stopped in traffic at 11:14 a.m.

The driver, William M. Gluck of 375 Molino Avenue, Mill Valley, was treated at Novato General Hospital.

Mary Ellen Haubrock, 83, of San Leandro, passenger in a car driven by Arthur Lee Haubrock, 49, of Castro Valley, and David John Berg, 27, of 1825 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, passenger in a car driven by James Joseph Cassin, 57, of 325 Hidden Valley Lane, San Anselmo, complained of neck pains.

Herman G. Hein, 57, of 6 Jersey Lane, San Anselmo, a passenger in Cassin's car, suffered scrapes of his left ankle.

New Tam Group To Meet On Decentralization

The Tamalpais High School District board, meeting tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Redwood High School faculty lounge, will consider creating a citizens' advisory committee to oversee decentralization and to develop a master plan for district finance.

Such a committee was proposed during the decentralization controversy earlier this year and was part of the "settlement" between teachers, administrators and parents.

The board, meeting a half hour earlier than usual, will tour recently completed remodeling projects at Redwood between 7:30 and 8 p.m.

Hub Boys Held In Safe Theft

Two San Anselmo boys, 11 and 12, have been cited to juvenile authorities for stealing about $250 from the Baskin-Robbins ice cream parlor in San Anselmo, police said today.

The two youths were cited after employees at the parlor discovered the money missing from a floor safe in a rear room where the boys had been cleaning ice cream containers.

The boys told police they took the money after finding the safe open and no one around. They said the money was divided with friends.

Escapee To West Wants To Emigrate

A 28-year-old man who escaped from Communist Poland about two months ago to West Germany wants to come to America.

Henryk Moskalik wrote the Independent-Journal saying although he is free in West Germany, he has many problems because he doesn't know the German language.

He asked in the letter, "Who can help me to emigrate to the United States?"

He described himself as an anticommunist who escaped to West Germany for political asylum. However, he said he has no family or friends there and he is in a "difficult situation."

He said he has a technical profession and will return any help in getting him to America "300 per cent."

His address is 8502 Zirndorf, Rothenburger Str. 29, West Germany.

Women Treated After Accident

Two women have been treated at Marin General Hospital for injuries sustained in a two-car accident in Corte Madera.

Hospital spokesmen said Eleanore R. Kennedy, 53, of 477 Molino Avenue, Mill Valley, was treated Saturday for bruises on her chest and Pamela Kennedy, 27, of Fremont, a passenger, was treated for cuts on her forehead.

Details of the accidents were incomplete, Corte Madera police said today.

Change San Quentin? No, Abolish It

Over the years, many men who were in position to judge the matter, including the late Warden Fred R. Dickson, have advocated closing San Quentin Prison.

The reasons they have advanced are: (1) the prison is of outmoded design, which makes it difficult to govern; (2) it is in the wrong place for a prison, being within a metropolitan area; (3) the land on which it sits is too desirable, too valuable, to be put to such use.

WHEN THE STATE of California bought 20 acres of San Quentin Point from Benjamin R. Buckelew for $10,000 in 1852, the site was considered remote, and therefore suitable for the state's first prison. A barkentine, abandoned in San Francisco Bay when its crew turned gold rushers, was moored at the point to become a floating prison while the convicts themselves built the original cells — which were to remain in use over a century, and become known as the "old Spanish cellblock."

Recurrent outbreaks of violence plagued San Quentin Prison from its earliest days. But they have become more frequent in recent years as the spread of population has engulfed the once-isolated point, bringing throngs of demonstrators repeatedly to the prison gates to keep the inmates disturbed and "fired up." We are all too well aware of what has happened there recently.

Last Tuesday, Asst. Dist. Atty. Gary W. Thomas — himself a cripple as result of violance by San Quentin prisoners — proposed that the Marin County Board of Supervisors request the state to change San Quentin from a maximum security institution to a minimum security institution. This, he pointed out, would mean the worst "hard case" inmates would be moved elsewhere, reducing the problems. The supervisors seized on his suggestion with alacrity.

THIS IS AN APPEALING idea. But it probably is unrealistic.

In the first place, San Quentin is not designed for a minimum security institution. Everything about its high walls and forbidding aspect symbolizes close restraint.

In the second place, the State of California does not need more minimum security prisons. The three it has —at Chino, Jamestown and Susanville — are more than enough. This happens because the prisons were designed for a pattern of inmate intake that has been made obsolete by the soaring increase in violent crime the past few years. What the state needs are more maximum security prisons.

WE SUGGEST THAT the State of California, instead of spending more money to convert San Quentin, spend it to build maximum security facilities at one of its outlying prisons — such as Chino, Jamestown or Susanville. We suggest it cease spending on San Quentin construction, and continue to reduce the San Quentin Prison population — now down below 3,000 from a maximum of more than 5,000 a decade or so ago.

And we suggest that, as soon as sufficient facilities are available elsewhere, it sell the Quentin Point site, which would be one of the most desirable residential sites in the whole Bay Area if there were no prison there.

Atmospheric Lead Report Fails To Tell Whole Story

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

The National Research Council claimed last week that the lead content in air has changed little in the past 15 years, and that the average city dweller gets only one-fourth of the amount at which symptoms of lead poisoning begin to appear.

What the council failed to report is the extreme hazard to human health of spurious reports from government councils that purport to be honest and deserve public trust. We have in mind the council itself, or at least its committee on the effects of atmospheric pollutants, which issued the pollyanna report.

The full report did not make the press, we'll concede, but what it did get into its press agentry convinced us that the committee must have a hefty representation from the lead additive industry. The industry has been fighting limits on lead in gasoline, not without success.

HOW ELSE COULD the council's findings be so contrary to those in California by the state Department of Public Health? The department's own data documented definite increases in atmospheric lead in Los Angeles, for example. Bay Area smog officials said similar data has been gathered for only the past three years here, too short a time for meaningful findings.

According to the Department of Public Health, atmospheric lead levels above two micrograms per cubic liter, averaged over 30 days, can produce a definite effect on the biochemical mechanism involved in the manufacture of red blood cells. The 30-day average in the Bay Area "fairly consistently" exceeds the state maximum of one and one-half micrograms, and reaches as high as four micrograms, according to the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District.

In Los Angeles, the level reaches eight micrograms!

The council, however, apparently figured that the only health effect worth noting was lead poisoning. More subtle effects such as a failure in the biochemical mechanism to produce red blood cells did not concern it.

Personally, we have a higher regard for our red blood cells than we do for the council.

As one district official put it about the presidentially appointed council, "It's quite a prestigious group — at least it was until I read that report." He promised that after it is reviewed further, "I think we may have more to say."

SAN FRANCISCO BAY is far cleaner than it used to be, despite contrary claims by Ralph Nader's "raiders." As recalled by one who knows, much of the shoreline 20 years ago was "a stinking mess, devoid of dissolved oxygen and reeking with hydrogen sulfide gas."

All this is changed, we were reminded by John B. Harrison of San Leandro, for 18 years executive officer of the Regional Water Quality Control Board. And it has changed because of huge investments by municipalities and industry in wastewater controls.

Harrison noted that 20 years ago many of Nader's "raiders" were "no doubt absorbed in their own pollution control problems, such as those associated with the wearing of diapers."

MAN BITES DOG

"If our other freezes work sir, maybe we could put a freeze on population."

"I always said there'd be a special role for you in my foreign affairs program Spiro."

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Fee For Keeping Your Car On Street?

Is there support among Mill Valley residents and homeowners for the idea of charging a small monthly fee for use of city streets in residential areas for permanent parking, where there is no garage, carport, or platform? We might thus attack the problem of proliferating cars around one residence, as well as improve navigation on our narrow roads.

The issue is one of tax inequity, in my mind. Any structure, from a modest parking deck to a real garage, raises one's property assessment. With our tax rate of about $13 per $100 assessed valuation, we pay anywhere from about $12 a year in extra taxes to well over $100 a year for the fact that we keep our cars on our own property when not in use. Those who do not have facilities to do this, or have more cars than storage space, pay nothing at all. Meanwhile, their cars are an inconvenience to everyone else, to a greater or lesser degree. This is certainly inequitable.

We should have a monthly fee, payable annually or semi-annually, indicated by a sticker on the car, which an officer would check at night. I understand Fairfax and San Anselmo have banned overnight storage and issue $2 tickets for violations. Fairfax has a $1 a month "hardship parking permit" for those with no alternative.

The first question people ask is, "What about overnight guests?" In Milwaukee, where a $4 a month fee system has worked well for years, they exempt Saturday nights. In San Anselmo, they told me that visitors simply put a note under the windshield, which, obviously, could not be abused without the checking officer noticing. After all, it is the permanent parkers we are concerned with.

If you agree, please tell the Mill Valley City Council.

Senator Mills Thinks Editorial Amusing

It was with some amusement that I read your editorial of Sept. 8, entitled, "Does Senator Mills Think It's A Sin To Drive?"

You misunderstood the nature of the existing tax on gasoline, as well as the proposed sales tax when you label it a "sin tax". Tax monies from gasoline go into a highway users fund that since 1938 have been used exclusively for the motorist. You state that the sales tax on gasoline, which I propose, would only be used for transportation studies. That is not true. The monies derived from the sales tax on gasoline could be used for transportation programs including, but not limited to, rapid transit, local bus systems, bike trails and for roads and streets. Some of the beneficiaries of this bill would include the City of San Rafael and the County of Marin.

In short, it's a transportation bill, not a conspiracy, and it has the support of most organizations representing highway users — and the opposition of not one.

You criticize the increase in taxes, but still maintain that you are for alternative transportation. You had a hand in bringing this particular approach of funding about. It was the defeat of Proposition 18 at the hands of the highway and oil lobby that has created the necessity for this kind of legislation. Proposition 18 would have provided revenue sources for alternative transportation systems without raising additoinal taxes. You may recall the campaign against Proposition 18. In fact you opposed it along with others who said that Proposition 18 would mean more taxes. But failure to pass the ballot measure, as I told newspapers then, would mean an increase in taxes, as certainly as the night follows the day.

In your editorial you incorrectly state that SB 325 puts gasoline into the same category as whiskey, gin, and cigarettes, because it subjects gasoline to the general sales tax. To the contrary, it puts gasoline in the same category as shoes, clothes, diesel fuel, and most other commodities, which are also subject to the sales tax.

I am sure that a call to the Automobile Club of California or Southern California might be enough to allay your fears of what SB 325 would do. Unlike you, they support the bill.

JAMES R. MILLS

(Shoes, clothes, and most other commodities are not subject to a special tax included in the price on top of which the sales tax is assessed. This type of double taxation applies to alcoholic beverages and cigarettes. Senator Mills's bill would apply it also to gasoline. — Editor.)

Case Of Lt. Col. Herbert Reflects Shame On Army Leaders

In many ways, the case of Lt. Col. Anthony B. Herbert is a more damaging reflection on the present leadership of the United States Army than was the case of Lt. W. L. Calley.

A nation deadened to shock by the Calley case might find it easy to let the Herbert affair pass into history without any firm effort towards resolution.

But that would hardly serve the cause of justice. Nor would it serve the need for the Army to purge itself in the interest of restoring its internal morale and its public reputation.

LT. COL. HERBERT, a much decorated and highly regarded career officer, last March filed formal charges against two of his former superior officers in Vietnam, Maj. Gen. John Barnes and Lt. Col. J. Ross Franklin. Lt. Col. Herbert accused the two senior officers of failing to act on eight complaints he had made in Vietnam in 1969 about alleged atrocities against Vietnamese detainees committed by troops in the command. The troops that allegedly committed the acts were mainly South Vietnamese, although one American adviser was implicated. The two senior officers have denied the charges.

Lt. Col. Herbert claims that not only were his complaints ignored but that they earned him a bad efficiency report, relief from his combat command and a one-way ticket home to a dead-end job as reenlistment officer for the Third Army.

He has not made himself very popular with the Army's top brass since, airing his charges and criticisms in the press and elsewhere. Now the 40-year-old officer says he has been asked to retire.

PART OF THE PROBLEM in this case might have been too-intense competition between two ambitious officers, Lt. Col. Herbert and Lt. Col. Franklin. However, that is only a minor consideration relative to the fact that Lt. Col. Herbert has brought highly serious charges of a type that aroused the emotions of the entire nation in the case of Lt. Calley.

And as yet there has been no sign that the Army intends to bring courtmartial proceedings that would enable any of the officers involved to prove their conflicting contentions. All that has resulted has been what appears to be a systematic and underhanded effort to destroy the career of Lt. Col. Herbert.

If the colonel's charges are true and he made complaints that were not acted upon, the Army would seem to have a case for some form of punishment against the officers charged. If they are untrue, the Army has a case against Lt. Col. Herbert. In either event, the matters involved here are of such public importance that they should be resolved through a public trial, not by behind-the-scenes maneuvering of a type that suggests a Byzantine intrigue.

The matter has been festering too long and the Army is in no shape to afford further doubts about the character of its leadership. And the nation cannot afford to have doubts about whether the command structure, which goes up to the commander in chief, is capable of dealing with such matters.

Governors Are 'Forgotten Men' On National Political Scene

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — The governors of the United States, who are gathering here to exchange woes, used to be the premier politicians of the nation.

No more. They are working harder and enjoying it less. In most cases, once elected, their future is behind them.

This is particularly galling on the eve of another presidential election year. Once they were either the kings or the king-makers. It was not so long ago that Presidents and presidential nominees were mostly drawn from the governorships.

In the long array of 1972 Democratic presidential hopefuls — candidates who are running or are about to run — not even the brim of the hat of one Democratic governor is in the ring.

THE AMERICAN GOVERNORS are today overburdened with unsolved social and racial problems. Their states are underfinanced because of inadequate revenues. Their prospects of political advance to the national level are so small as to be barely visible to the eyes of all the reporters here in Puerto Rico.

The governors who are here are quite eager to discuss 1972 presidential politics. But when they do they are neither talking about themselves nor about each other.

When you look at the declining role of the governors in national elections over the past 40 years, they have been increasingly on the sidelines — and it has never been more evident than now.

There are at least 10 active or oftenmentioned candidates for the '72 Democratic presidential nomination — and there's not a governor among them and none on the distant horizon.

The Democratic vice-presidential nomination may go to Mayor Lindsay or Sen. Birch Bayh or Sen. George McGovern, but it isn't going to any Democratic governor.

No Republican governor could seriously challenge Richard Nixon's first-ballot victory at the 1968 convention, and if Spiro Agnew isn't going to be Nixon's running-mate, it is unlikely the choice will be a Republican governor.

THE PAUCITY of qualified governors for high national office is no recent phenomenon.

Look at the record for the past 12 years:

Out of 16 nominations from 1960 to 1972, only one will have gone to a governor.

In 1960 two Democratic senators (Kennedy and Johnson) opposed two former Republican senators (Nixon and Lodge). In 1964 two Democratic senators (Johnson and Humphrey) opposed two Republican congressmen (Senator Goldwater and Rep. William Miller). In 1968 two Democratic senators (Humphrey and Muskie) opposed Nixon and Governor Agnew. And next year it will be more of the same — hardly a governor in the running at any point on either ticket.

AND WHERE HAVE the governors been in national politics over an even longer political span? They have been out of sight most of the time — and the absence of governors on the national scene marks a radical wrench in the political pattern.

Consider that from Grover Cleveland's first term in 1884 to the election of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1932 seven of the 10 Presidents had been governors.

Time was when governors were the stuff Presidents were made of.

Not any more. Since F.D.R. no governor has been elected President of the United States.

This can't be accidental. It must be related to the fact that state government is declining relative to the burgeoning national government.

Everybody Fails To Act On Major Health Problem

By ERNEST B. FERGURSON

WASHINGTON — Dr. Moe Bergman of New York City called it "one of our most serious public health problems."

VD? Typhoid fever? Botulism? No.

"The pupils dilate, skin pales, mucous membranes dry, there are intestinal spasms and the adrenals explode secretions," according to Dr. Samuel Rosen, also of New York.

He might have been describing the effects of a new nerve gas developed by the Army Chemical Corps, but he wasn't. Dr. John A. Parr of Great Britain took the description of symptoms further:

"Our muscles tense and we jerk. Our abdonimal blood vessels contract to drive extra blood to the muscles, producing a feeling of the stomach turning over. And in an instant the liver releases stores of glucose to provide fuel for the muscles. This internal upheaval, if repeated again and again, is exhausting physically and mentally, and ultimately can cause a nervous breakdown."

St. Vitus dance? Delirium tremens? Cerebral palsy?

No. Just noise.

HOUSEHOLD NOISE, neighborhood noise, traffic noise, industrial noise, airport noise, pre-dawn noise, rush-hour noise — not one of them, but all of them, layered one atop the other, are literally driving a certain percentage of Americans mad and having an unmeasured effect on millions of unaware others.

Yet nothing organized or effective is being done about it. The Department of Labor had the legal authority for 33 years before it acted two years ago, under rising pressure, to set noise levels for industry.

In the city where the greatest variety of noises hammers at innocent ears and nervous systems, Mayor John Lindsay named a "task force" to consider the situation back in 1967. The words "task force" are used in naming a committee to imply that the committee is going to embark on crash action, the way Task Force 77 blitzed the enemy in the Pacific two or three wars ago. The Lindsay task force took three years to draw up a report agreeing that noise in the city had reached intolerable levels, and it recommended action. But have you visited New York lately?

Last March, a panel told the Commerce Department that noise pollution nationwide was "on the verge of reaching a serious level," and called for new federal and state standards to control it. The Senate Commerce Committee's environment subcommittee held hearings on proposed legislation at midsummer. A bill is being drafted now to reflect the administration's desires and the intentions of the subcommittee, as influenced by those hearings. Still ahead is either concurrence or another series of hearings by the Public Works Committee, which also has jurisdiction, as well as action in the House.

And even if the Senate bill is rubber stamped into law before the year is out, it will provide another two years beyond that before official federal noise level standards are set, and yet another two years beyond that before manufacturers of noisy machines are required to comply with those standards.

AS CURRENTLY PROPOSED, the federal law would have no retroactive effect — that is, the buses, trucks, garbage compressors, air hammers, whisperjets, motorcycles, sirens and other endlessly assorted instruments of the devil already committed to the assault will be allowed to continue unmuffled until they wear out. The federal standards envisioned also would preempt what localities could require toward quieter machinery. For a town or neighborhood to demand tighter regulations or an emergency exception to the non-retroactive federal standards would require legal appeals for special treatment.

To the surprise of absolutely no one, the long time lag between naming committees, passing laws and perhaps eventually seeing some results is a governmental courtesy to industry, which will have a hard time converting to make quieter equipment after it is required by law. Of course, no industry is going to do such a thing until it is required by law — not if there is a risk of losing a dollar in the process.

Granted, enforcement of industrial standards will take time. But the federal government will make a mistake if it removes decisions on noise standards entirely from local jurisdiction, and this is a threat the states' rights crusaders should be howling softly about. For example, while the wheels of bureaucratic enforcement are gearing up, nothing should stop each town in the country from posting a cop on a motorcycle alongside its busiest thoroughfare to haul in the noisiest passersby. (On second thought, better put him on a bicycle.)

B-29740 Has Own Solution To Violence At San Quentin

The morning mail one day last week brought a letter from a San Quentin prison inmate who had a simple solution for cutting down violence at the institution.

Convict No. B-29740, who said in his letter that he first was sent to San Quentin in 1938, certainly could be considered a longtime observer of the state's penal system.

Furthermore, the letter was handwritten in the careful, extremely legible style typical of the prison's "writ-writers" — those men who have perfected a certain way of petitioning the courts to take a look at their grievances.

B-29740, HOWEVER, did not discuss his own problems in the letter sent to the Independent-Journal. Rather, he took up the subject of the indeterminate sentence which is the final straw to many convicts and is under fire by some prison reform advocates.

The letter writer believes that California's old "good time" system, in effect until the Adult Authority was created in the 1940s, worked much better than the present setup.

B-29740 points out that even with indeterminate sentences, which became the law in California many years ago, a man could get out at a specified time if he earned "good time."

For example, he said, if a man had been given a one-to-five-year sentence, he could be discharged from prison after three years and nine months if he stayed out of trouble while in the "joint."

The writer went on to say that "no one wanted to lose his good time" and that if this system were restored, "I'm sure the violence will drop way down."

IN THE "GOOD TIME" days, prison officials made the determination of whether a man had behaved or not, a system still used in county jails, where sentences can be reduced for good behavior.

Under the present state prison system, however, a man goes before the Adult Authority board to find out if he is to be paroled. This group of the governor's appointees has the power to release men early or to decide that they have not been sufficiently rehabilitated to reenter society.

It is this power which gripes most convicts, many of whom say they'd rather know exactly how much time they have to serve.

Prison officials point out, however, that the indeterminate sentence was considered a great reform when adopted by the legislature. Before that time, sentences imposed by judges in various parts of the state for the same crimes varied widely according to the judge's own personality and the community in which he lived.

Since the indeterminate sentence came into existence in California, judges pronounce judgment, "I sentence you to prison for the term prescribed by law," and then the Adult Authority takes over.

THE TERM PRESCRIBED can be one to five years, five to life, or various other combinations.

It is never a fixed term, such as in the federal penal system where determinate sentences are given.

Since the rallying cry of the prisoner reformers these days is "do away with the indeterminate sentence," B-29740's suggestion for a return to "good time" is interesting.

It is also interesting that the reformers shy away from any proposal as to what they want instead of the indeterminate sentence.

Old Buildings Are Talk Topic

"Spanish and Mexican Buildings of the North Bay Area" will be described by Rev. William N. Abeloe at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the annual meeting of the Marin County Historical Society, Inc., at the San Rafael Improvement Club.

Abeloe is an author, teacher, lecturer and researcher of California historical landmarks.

There will be a short business meeting, election of directors, and annual reports at the meeting at Fifth and H streets, San Rafael, according to Frank Galli, president.

Pleasure Faire Bus To Operate

The Marin Transit System is running busses from Novato to the Renaissance Pleasure Faire in Black Point and a shuttle bus in the fair parking lot, company officials said.

Buses leave the Novato Greyhound depot starting at 9:30 a.m. and every hour on the half-hour until 5:30 p.m. The buses stop at the Ignacio turnoff at Highway 101 and then return from the fair every hour on the hour from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The shuttle bus runs all day in the parking lot. The fair continues today, tomorrow and for the next three weekends.

Are Government Workers Victims Or Overpaid?

By FRANK ELEAZER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Are government workers "sacrifical lambs" caught in President Nixon's pay freeze at substandard wages? That's what Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., believes.

Or are they already on the payroll at more than they could expect in private employment and overdue for a leveling off or even in some cases a cut? That's what a recent Wall Street Journal survey showed many businessmen think.

No doubt individual cases can be found to substantiate either contention. The fact is that government pay has spiraled in recent years and under existing law can be expected to continue to climb almost automatically by billions of dollars annually.

IN 1954 FEDERAL taxpayers paid their 5.7 million civilian and military employes $18 billion. In the 12 months that ended July 1 this year the payroll for 5.6 million federal workers totalled $45.7 billion. In addition, retirement pay ran $6.6 billion, for a grand total government manpower cost of more than $52 billion.

The average government job has jumped in pay by 75 per cent since 1962. The maximum salary for so-called classified workers has climbed to $36,000.

Of course, non-government pay has been going up too, and much of the government increase has been awarded in the name of "comparability" with private pay scales.

The next "comparability" boost had been due next Jan. 1 and was estimated to run 6 per cent. Nixon, as part of his anti-inflation campaign, has ordered that increase delayed until July 1, and has warned he may order postponed also the next scheduled "comparability" round.

ONE PROBLEM with "comparability" is deciding what job in the Agriculture Department is equivalent to what job in a bank. Critics of the system see another problem in the fact that the experts who make these determinations tend to be, in one way or another, government workers themselves and thus not without possible conflict of interest.

Civil servants come in grades 1 through 18. Military men are ranked differently but are supposed to be paid the same scale. The lowliest clerk or laborer (the government calls him GS 1) currently is paid $4,326 a year to start and can work his way up to $5,622. A GS 7 is paid from $8,582 to $11,156. With a rating of GS 12, a federal worker can expect from $15,040 to $19,549, depending on years of service and annual stepups. GS 16 pays from $28,129 to $35,633.

An 18 is down in the books for $37,624, but because that would put him over some of his appointive political bosses he is currently cut off at $36,000.

FRINGE BENEFITS in the bureaucracy are beginning to look mighty good also to some private workers. Pensions can run up to 80 per cent of an employe's highest three-year average pay. It takes 42 years at work and at least age 60 to qualify for the top, but lesser amounts can be drawn for shorter service and at ages as low as 55.

The next round of pay boosts, due Jan. 1, was to cost about $3 billion. Nixon under the "comparability" law was entitled to submit to Congress an alternative plan. He did. It was to postpone that raise by six months.

Under the same law, if either House or Senate within 30 days votes against Nixon's alternative plan, the pay raise goes into effect as originally planned. Waldie, with support of some other House members, introduced Wednesday a resolution to reject the delay.

The House will be voting on that in the next couple of weeks. Your congressman will be glad to hear what you think.

The meeting will be at the San Rafael Improvement Club, Fifth and H streets.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Fear And Panic Are Man's Worst Enemies In A Blaze

In 1970, fires killed approximately 12,200 persons in the United States. Of these, 6,500 died in the home. Do you know how to leave a burning building? According to The Continental Insurance Companies, fear and panic are man's worst enemies during a blaze. Most injuries and fatalities can be avoided if the family conducts careful, regular fire drills. Even young children can be taught to leave a burning house quickly and calmly.

CONTINENTAL has a small pamphlet with many suggestions along these lines. For example, an adult should check the house before retiring to be sure that all cigarettes are out and cooking appliances and space heaters are disconnected. Plan how each person can reach the ground level from the second story.

If a window sticks or does not open easily, teach the individual to break it with a chair, lamp base or nightstand. Drape a blanket or bedspread over the window frame to protect against cuts from fragments of glass.

HANGING by the hands from the window shortens the fall considerably. If someone has to jump avoid concrete walls, trellises and shrubbery. Better still, keep these obstacles away from window areas to facilitate escape.

In many homes and apartments, a porch, garage, sundeck, roof, or portico provides a temporary refuge or a way to reach the ground. Once out of the home, make it clear to each persons that no one is to reenter the building, even for his most precious possession.

FEW PEOPLE can afford sophisticated systems to detect smoke and heat. Local fire officials can tell you where to keep fire extinguishers, water hoses and sand. Test fire equipment periodically and be sure it is approved by a recognized firm, such as Underwriters' Laboratories, Inc.

Recently a friend of mine said he had a carton of fire extinguishers (the size of soup cans) in his home. These devices are not approved by UL. First, they must be held within a few feet of flames. Second, they contain too little fluid to put out the blaze.

Fire hazards are well-known. The most common seldom is stressed — smoking in a chair or bed after having a few drinks.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

SORE NOSE

R. Y. writes: Sunglasses never bothered me before but now the bridge of my nose gets sore when I wear them. Can you tell me why this happens?

REPLY

The fit of the glasses may be responsible or you may have developed an allergy to a chemical in the frames.

DAMAGED HEART

I.R.B. writes: What are the symptoms of a weak heart muscle?

REPLY

Shortness of breath, rapid pulse, and dropsy develop when a heart muscle is so damaged it cannot function properly.

HOT OR COLD

N.V. writes: Is it just as beneficial to drink cold water as hot?

REPLY

Yes. Both change to body temperature shortly after reaching the stomach.

COLD WATER ENEMA

Mrs. T. I. writes: Will an enema reduce fever?

REPLY

A cold water enema may reduce fever but only temporarily.

Today's Health Hint — The aging process is tempered by moderate but regular exercise.

Seashore Reaction Likely At Meeting

Marin County Board of Supervisors will attempt to draw up an official county reaction tomorrow to the National Park Service's master plan for Point Reyes Seashore.

Both the Marin County Planning Commission and the Parks and Recreation Commission have issued statements urging the protection of natural areas from the crush of automobiles and people.

The supervisors' all-day meeting will start at 9 a.m. on the third floor of the Marin Civic Center.

Supervisors will also consider candidates for appointments to the Marin Youth Commission, a proposed reallocation of positions in the county administrator's office, and the state's proposal to delete major Marin roads from the state highway system.

Other matters on the afternoon agenda are:

ALMONTE SANITARY — A public hearing to detach 36 acres of marshland from Almonte Sanitary District because it is within Mill Valley and is being double taxed. It is near Miller Avenue across the railroad tracks from Tamalpais High School.

DR. SUGARMAN — A public hearing on a plan by Dr. George Sugarman to develop five dwelling units on 19,500 square feet at the north side of Tiburon Boulevard between Bayvista Drive and Blackfield Drive.

CONDOMINIUM — A public hearing on Charles Parmelee's plan to build 114 units of condominiums on 7.8 acres along Tamal Vista Avenue opposite the Co-op Store in Corte Madera.

Novatan Held In Pot Probe

John Hood, 21, of 1113 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was to appear in Marin Municipal Court today on suspicion of possession of marijuana.

Hood was arrested at 12:50 a.m. Saturday by Novato Police who said he was walking in the street in the area of 930 Grant Avenue without apparent regard for his safety.

Officers said a search disclosed that Hood was carrying a half-ounce of what appeared to be marijuana in his pants pocket.

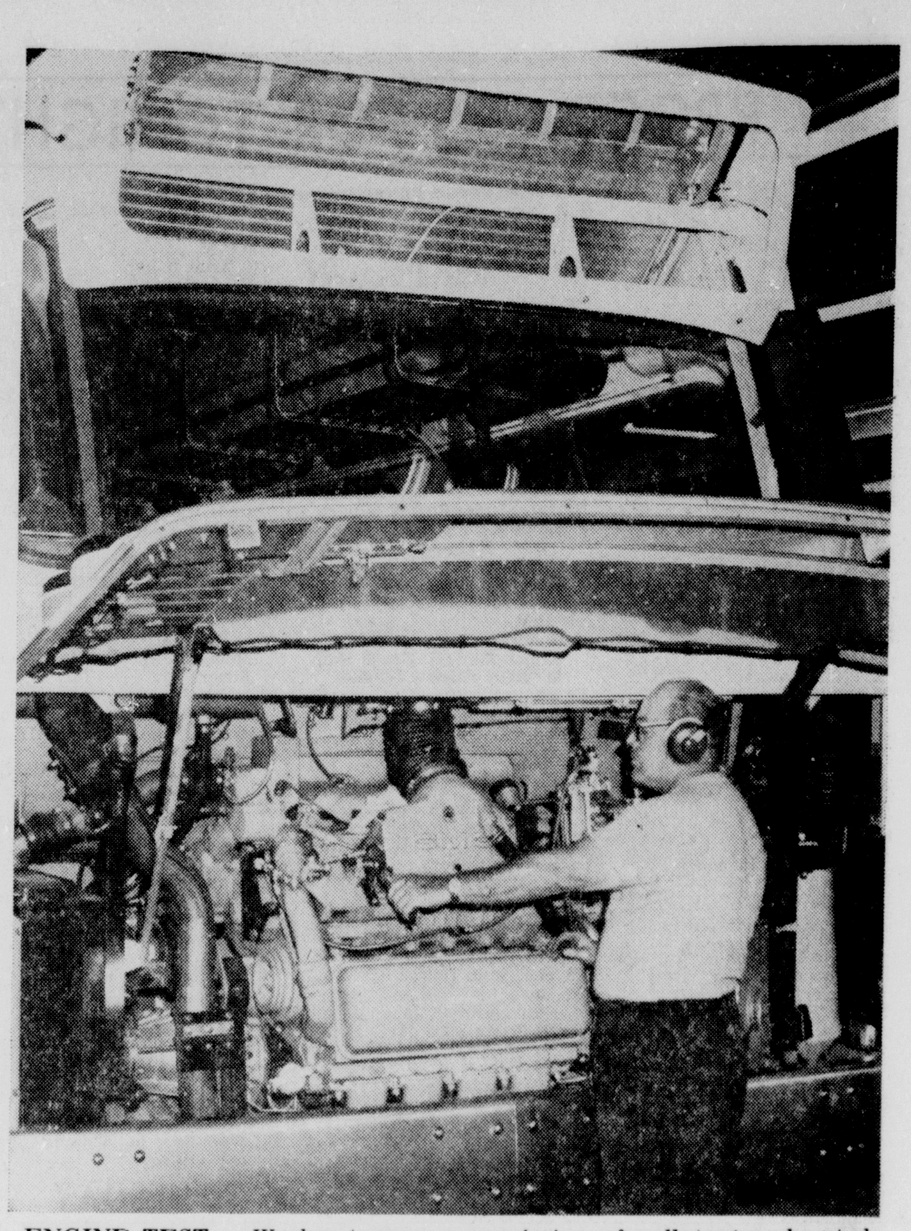
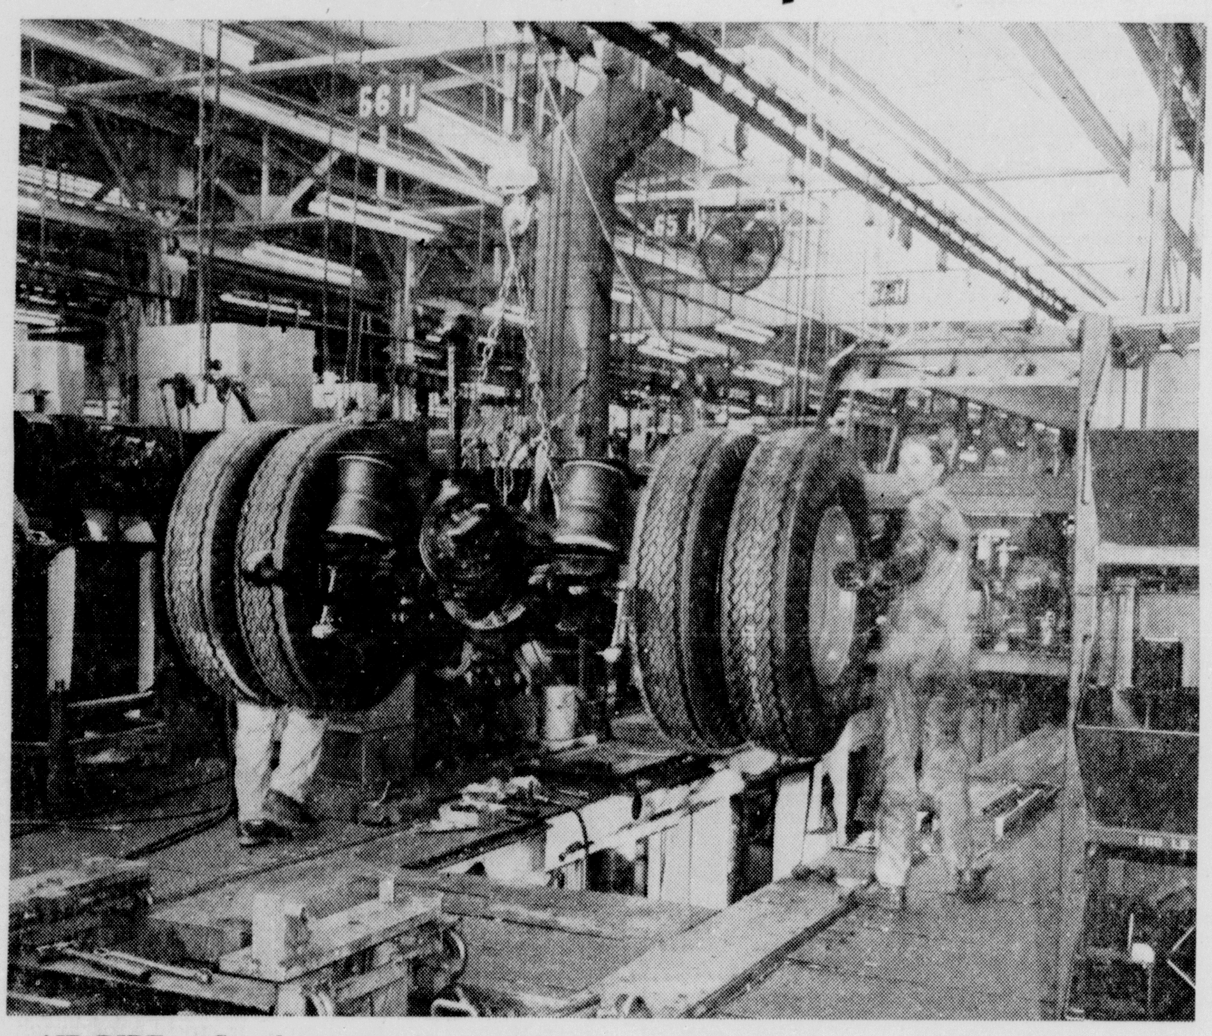
First Look At Span's Bus Fleet

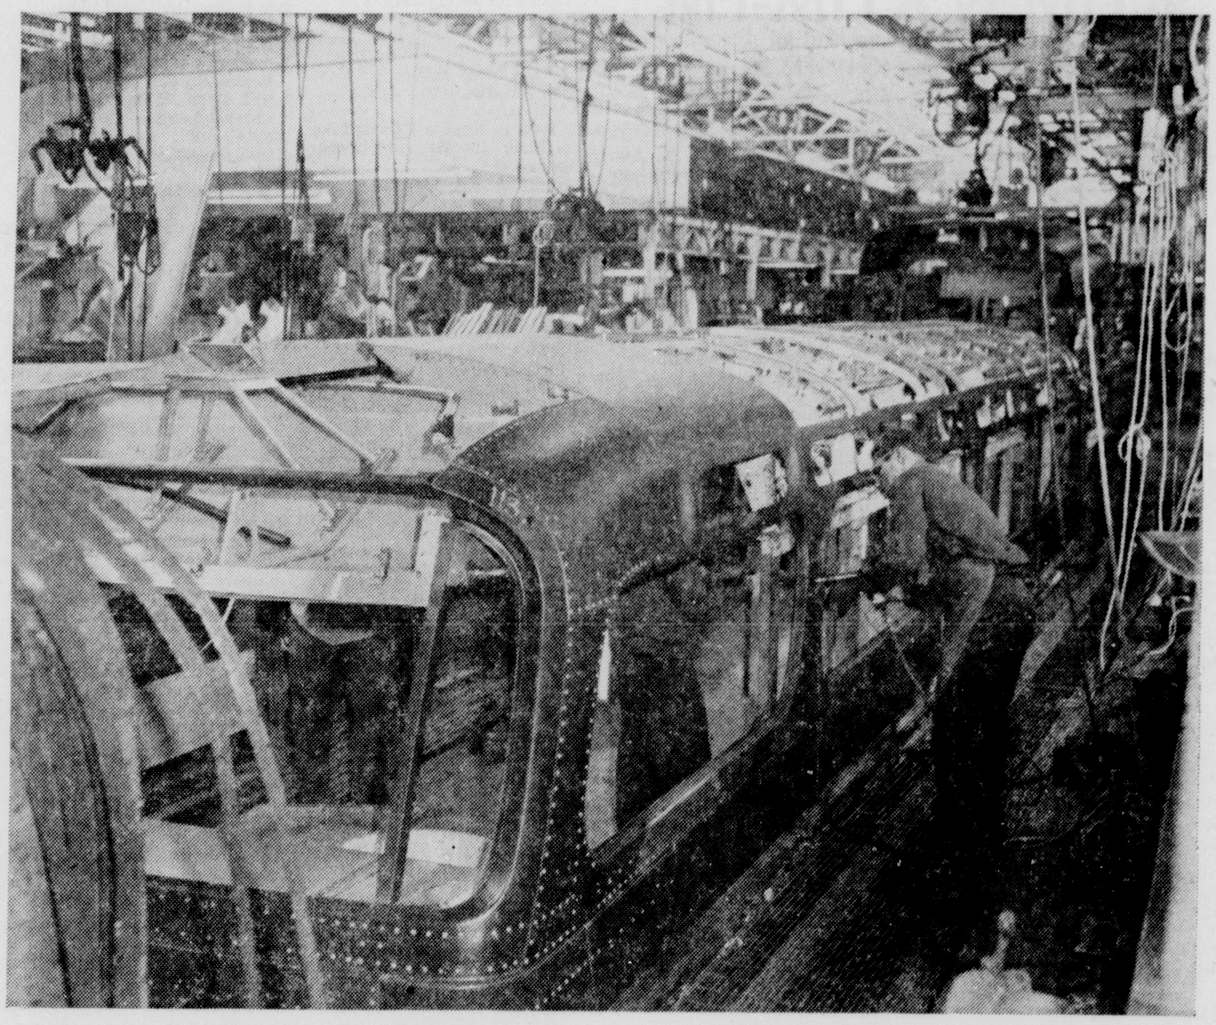
FINAL ASSEMBLY — The first of the Golden Gate Bridge District's $5.8-million fleet of 132 new buses gets its windshield wipers. Eight of the air-conditioned coaches a day come off the Pontiac, Mich., assembly line at General Motors Corp. The bridge district's new coaches, plus 20 Greyhound Lines buses, will roll into service by December.



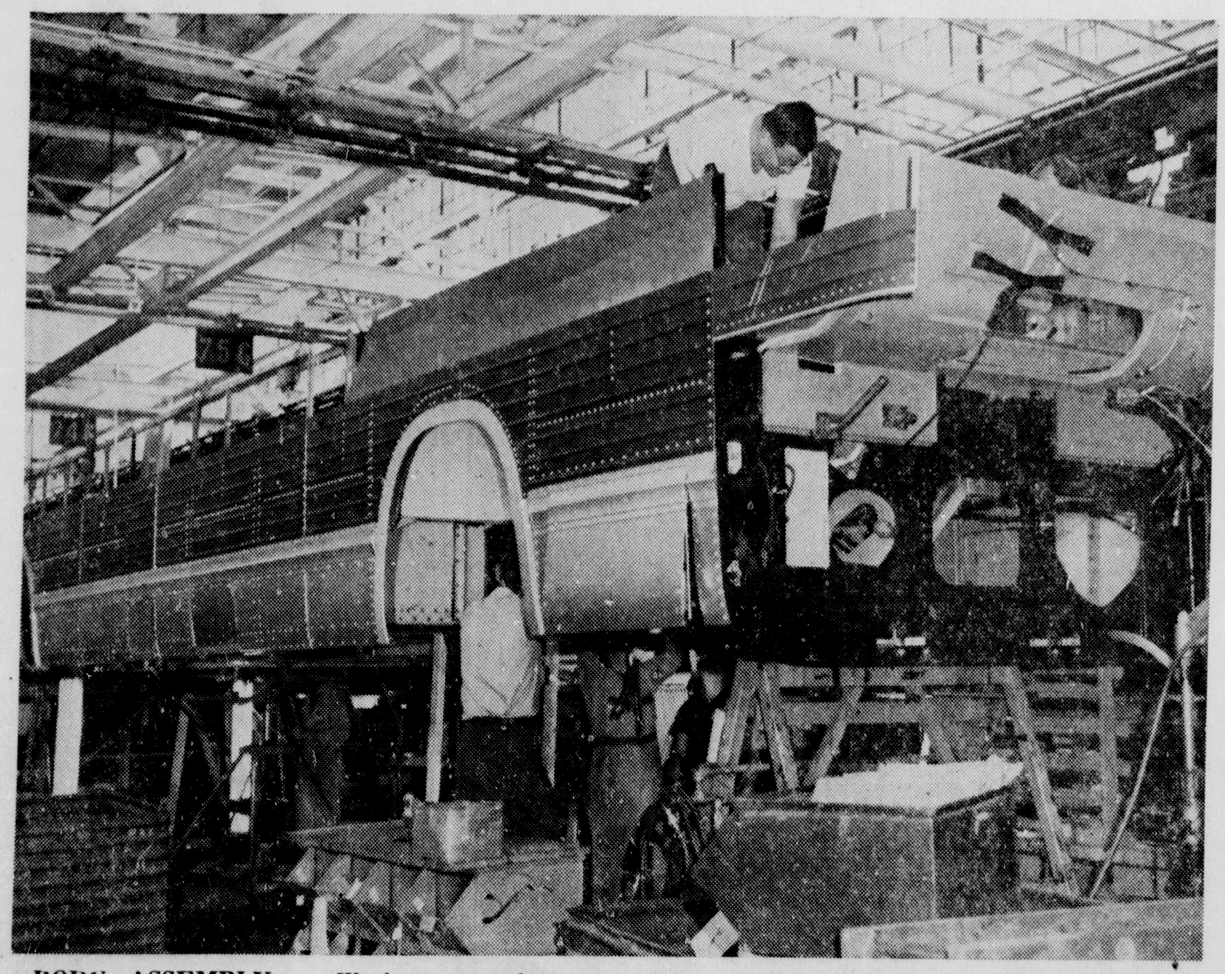
ENGINE TEST — Worker tunes eight-cylinder, 235-horsepower diesel that powers the buses. Each will be equipped with GM's "environmental improvement package." This includes special fuel injectors to cut down on emission of pollutants, elevated exhausts on each side of the rear window for better diffusion of emissions, and improved suppression of both exterior and interior noise.



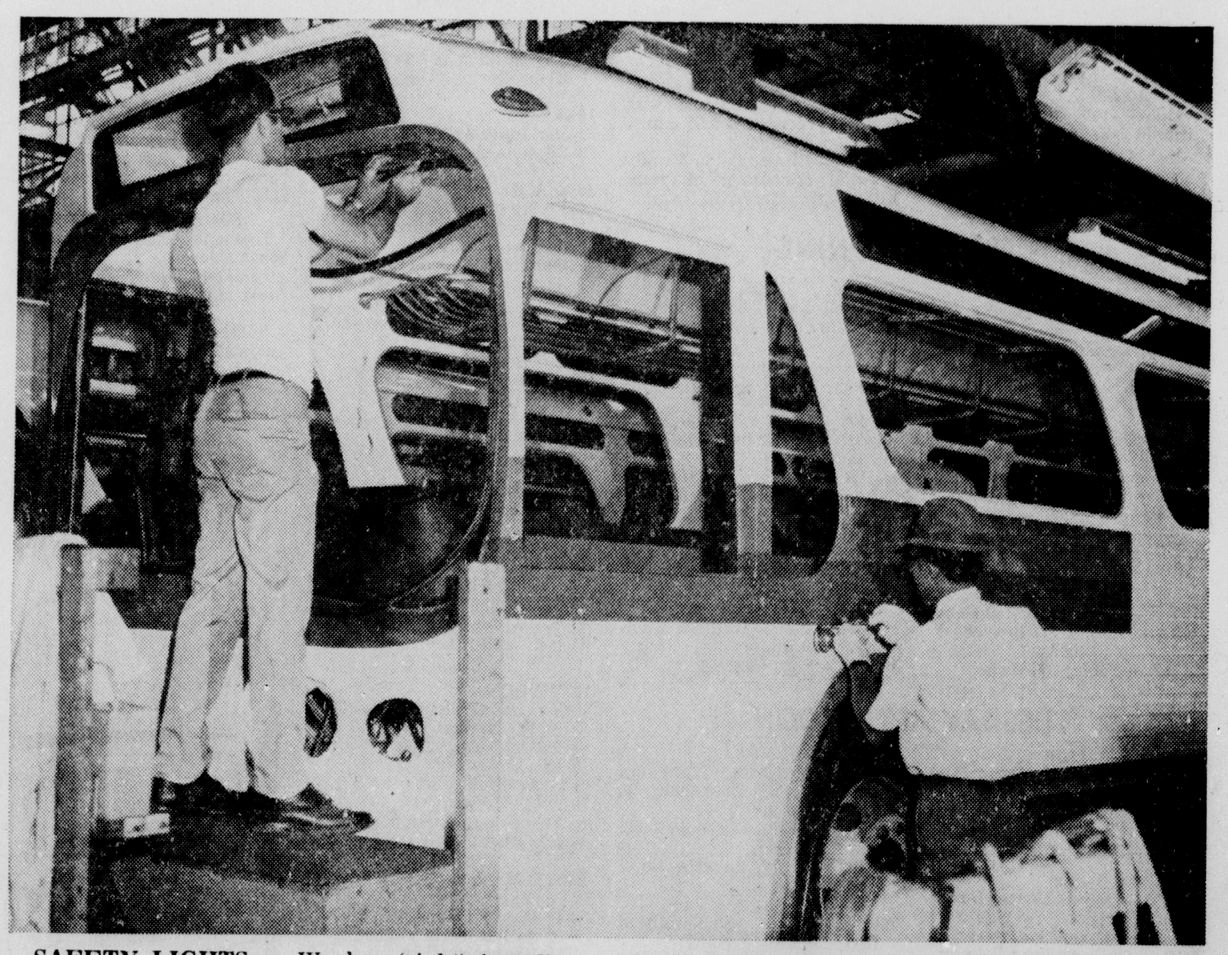
AIR RIDE — Complete rear axle assembly, equipped with an air suspension, is moved into position for assembly. General Motors originally predicted the buses would exceed by some 600 pounds the state's maximum loaded allowance of 20,500 pounds for rear axles. Later changes and new computations, however, put the maximum on the legal side of the scale — by 15 pounds.



WINDOW RIVETS — Side windows will be the push-out type, replacing the old-style emergency door. The buses will carry 45 seated passengers instead of their maximum capacity of 53. They will be 102 inches wide, compared to conventional 96-inch-wide buses, thus affording extra shoulder width in addition to extra leg room. Heavy bracket at left will support air conditioning.



BODY ASSEMBLY — Workers complete installation of floor in the lower body assembly line, and thread various control rods and lines through to the engine compartment on the right. Assembly at GM's truck and coach division began on Aug. 11, and will be completed later this month. Delivery of buses will begin in October, with training of drivers to fill the brief weeks before service begins in December.



SAFETY LIGHTS — Worker (right) installs side clearance light, part of the extensive lighting required under new federal safety regulations. Front roof ventilator is installed by other worker, left, as the freshly painted bus moves along the assembly line. Total cost of the bus system will be about $10 million, including maintenance and station facilities. The system will link downtown San Francisco to Santa Rosa via points throughout Marin's populated areas.

Giants, Dodgers In Showdown Series

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A very big series between the very hot Los Angeles Dodgers and the very inconsistent San Francisco Giants unfolds tonight at Candlestick Park.

The Giants maintained their shaky three-game lead over the Runnerup Dodgers in the National League West pennant chase by beating the Atlanta Braves 6-1 Sunday to snap a seven-game losing string.

Los Angeles, meanwhile, won its sixth in a row and 11 of the last 13 by turning back San Diego 6-3. That leaves San Francisco's magic clinching number at 14 with the Giants and Dodgers each having 16 games remaining.

As one Dodger wag, a bit tired of the numbers game, put it: "The Giants' magic number will still be 14 with four games left."

Manager Walt Alston of the Dodgers and Charlie Fox of the Giants will lead with their most effective starters in the last two head-to-head confrontations between these California teams this season.

In a duel of righthanders, Bill Singer (8-16) of the Dodgers goes against Juan Marichal (14-10) tonight. It will be lefty Al Downing (18-8) of Los Angeles versus righthander Gaylord Perry (14-11) Tuesday night.

"Every game is important when you get this close to the end," said Fox after Sunday's win in Atlanta.

"We weren't showing signs of pressing after losing seven straight. This club doesn't have that type of guys. But still, I guess it was best that we broke the streak before these two games with the Dodgers."

Someone asked Fox if the current Dodgers series might decide the division race.

"It's possible," said Fox. "But I can't see how any two games can decide the season when we'll still have 14 more games to go."

The Giants had lost the first two games of the weekend series in Atlanta but wasted little time taking command Sunday. Home runs by Tito Fuentes and Bobby Bonds highlighted a four-run outburst in the first inning and the Giants added two more in the ninth thanks to a couple of walks, two wild pitches and a double by Bonds.

Southpaw John Cumberland went the route for the Giants to improve his record to 9-4. Except for a home run by Marty Perez, he was never threatened. The Braves got only one other runner past first base.

Of the 16 games remaining, Los Angeles had nine at home and seven on the road. The Giants have seven at Candlestick against Los Angeles, Cincinnati (2) and San Diego (3) and nine on the road at Houston (3), Cincinnati (3) and San Diego (3).

Los Angeles and Atlanta have seven games left between them.

RAIN AGAIN WASHES OUT TENNIS ACTION

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) — Rain caused postponement for the third consecutive day today of the semi-final round in the U.S. open tennis championships.

The men's semi-finals, with third-seeded Arthur Ashe opposing upstart Czechoslovakia Jan Kodes and second-seeded Stan Smith opposing fourth-seeded dutchman Tom Okker, was rescheduled for Tuesday. Weather permitting, the men's final will be played Wednesday along with the woman's singles final between Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco.

When play does resume, it will be with the continuation of the women's doubles final.

REFRESHER — Mike Kapic, who was washing his car in front of his home yesterday, cooled off a Fairfax Festival Walking race competitor, by request, as temperatures soared near 100. San Rafael teacher Bill Ranney won the event.

49ER ROOKIES

Sweating Out Final Cuts

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—This is final-cut week for the San Francisco 49ers and very few 1971 draft choices will be around at the end.

Sweating out reduction of the team from 44 to 40 players are running back Joe Orduna, offensive lineman Ernie Janet, quarterback Joe Reed, all-purpose player Tony Harris, offensive lineman John Watson and punter Jim McCann.

Orduna hasn't seen much action in the exhibition season but he was impressive with 33 yards rushing in four tries against the Los Angeles Rams before suffering a slight leg injury. He has carried the ball only 11 times but showed he can play in the National Football League.

Janet came to camp with a pulled muscle and never has been able to go full blast. He might be put on injured waivers or even on injured reserves for one year.

Reed, an 11th round pick, has been a pleasant surprise at quarterback, especially in the Denver game. McCann may be activated from the taxi squad to handle punting chores if Steve Spurrier is unable to go against the Falcons in the 1971 season opener Sunday at Atlanta.

Harris, a 6-3, 190-pounder, can play running back, defensive back and wide receiver. He just may make the club because of his versatility. The former University of Toledo flash was San Francisco's fourth round choice.

Tim Anderson, the team's No. 1 pick from Ohio State, has gone to Toronto in the Canadian League. Wide receiver Sam Dickerson, a third-rounder, was cut and is now with Denver.

Coach Dick Nolan will decide by Tuesday how he will reduce his squad to 40 men. Meanwhile, a lot of nervous rookies will be working out at the 49er camp.

Blanda Still Has The Stuff

OAKLAND (UPI) —"Let George do it" is still a popular handle among te Oakland Raiders.

George Blanda, who turns 44 on Friday, was his usual frisky self Saturday night as he threw a 54-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff to break up a tight exhibition game and ease the way for Oakland's 24-3 win over Baltimore at Jacksonville, Fla.

The toss widened the Raiders' lead from 10-3 to 16-3 and insured Oakland with its fifth preseason win against one loss, the best exhibition record in the club's history. It also was the pre-season finale for both teams.

"We needed a bomb play," said Blanda who earlier had kicked a 31-yard field goal in the third period. "The situation was perfect for it. Freddie hadn't had anything all night.

"I faked a play action on first down and let go. I knew it was there."

It marked the first time in five meetings that Oakland was able to defeat Baltimore.

"Our defense was particularly good against the Colts," said head coach John Madden. The Raiders intercepted four passes and allowed the Colt quarterbacks to complete only 10 of 37 passes.

Lone Baltimore score was a 33-yard field goal by Super Bowl hero Jim O'Brien in the third period.

"In the first period we just wanted to be physical, just wanted to tee off, let our line get off and not use anything fancy," said Madden who begins preparing the Raiders this week for Sunday's 1971 opener at Foxboro, Mass., against Jim Plunkett and the New England Patriots.

Veteran Daryle Lamonica led the Raiders on an 80-yard, 15-play drive in the second period against the Colts. Pete Banaszak capped the march with a one-yard plunge into the end zone.

Then Ken Stabler, the third Oakland quarterback, flipped a five-yard TD pass to rookie Bob Moore of Stanford for the only score in the fourth quarter.

Only injury suffered by the Raiders was to rookie linebacker Greg Slough of USC. He damaged the same knee he hurt in his senior year at college.

CHAMPAGNE READY

A's Can Clinch Crown With Two Wins In K.C.

KANSAS CITY (UPI)—THE Oakland A's shoot for two goals tonight when they open their last road trip of the season against the Kansas City Royals.

Their first goal is to beat the Royals and thereby reward Jim Hunter with his first 20-game season. Their second is to move a little closer to clinching the American League West title.

The A's dropped a 10-inning, 7-5 decision to the Minnesota Twins at home Sunday but reduced the magic number to four when the Royals lost to Chicago. Thus, back-to-back victories here tonight and Tuesday night could start the champagne flowing — the first time for an A's team since Connie Mack owned the club and had it in Philadelphia way back in 1931.

"It sure would be nice to get this thing over with soon," said A's captain Sal Bando. I'm not talking for myself. I feel just fine but a few other guys are draggins."

Manager Dick Williams didn't seem too upset with Sunday's loss to the Twins even with Vida Blue missing for the third time for Victory No. 24. Blue went eight innings, gave up seven hits, five runs, struck out five and walked a season high six batters.

Blue said there is nothing wrong with his golden left arm but that the rest of his body is tired.

"I can pitch strong for five or six innings," he said. "But then it gets tough."

Williams said as soon as the A's clinch the division title he will ask his starting pitchers to work only five or six innings.

"That would be fine with me," said Blue.

A triple by Bert Campaneris and a sacrifice fly by Reggie Jackson staked Blue to a 1-0 lead in the first and he nursed it to the sixth when the Twins tied it and then went ahead, 2-1, in the seventh. It became 5-1 in the top of the eighth when George Mitterwald slammed a three-run homer after an error by Dick Green and a walk put two men on with two out.

The A's came back in the bottom of the inning when Jackson hit his 28th homer and pinchhitters Gene Tenace and Mike Regan added run-scoring singles to cut the deficit to a run at 5-4.

Jackson, back in the home run groove again, nailed his 29th in the ninth to tie it and get Blue off the hook, but in the 10th the Twins won it on a two-run single by Cesar Tovar off Jim Grant.

Charles Coody Shows He Can Win Under Pressure

AKRON, Ohio (UPI)—The albatross is gone from around Charlie Coody's neck.

The 34-year-old taciturn Texan from Abileen will never go down in sports history as a funny guy to listen to, like Lee Trevino, and he himself insists even today, "I'm not a superstar, I just do the best I6can."

But in the wake of his one stroke World Series of Golf victory here Sunday, nobody can ever say again that Charlie Coody isn't a deadgame guy on the golf course, that he's the type of a golfer who will fold when the pressure gets really hot.

Because the tall, dark haired former Air Force lieutenant looked disaster in the eye at least three times in the final round and came through with great shots in the clutch for a three over par 73 that produced a winning total of 141 for the two day, 36-hole tournament among the winners of the top golf championships of 1971.

Jack Nicklaus, four time winner of the Series, was second with a 71-142, Bruce Crampton of Australian was third with a 70-143 and Trevino, the U.S. and British Open champion, was last with a 74-146.

Here are the three crises of Charlie Coody on a cool, overcast day at the par 70, 7,180 yard Firestone Country Club course:

...He started the day three strokes ahead of Nicklaus, went four ahead with his only birdie of the day on the first hole then blew the whole wad with a double bogey seven on the second hole as Nicklaus fired an eagle three. Coody made a rambling tour of the rough on two fairways and a trap and wound up muffing a four foot putt.

("It was one of the worst holes I've ever played," he confessed later. "It wasn't that I hit bad shots, it was that I didn't think the hole through. For instance, it never occurred to me to play down the third fairway.")

...He got back into a two stroke lead as Nicklaus bogeyed the 11th hole but saw Big Jack cut it to a single stroke with a fantastic iron shot on the 15th that stopped 18 inches from the pin to set up a birdie.

"I told him 'nice shot,' but what Ireally wanted to do was hit him over the head" said Coody in a rare adventure into humor."

...He went into the final hole leading Nicklaus and the charging Crampton by just one stroke, and then seemed to set himself up for a bogey when he spanked his second shot into the crowd at the right of the green, about 15 feet off the putting surface.

But he came back with a deft chip shot that stopped three feet from the cup.

("That chip shot was the shot that won it for me.")

And then he walked up and took little time wrapping home the short putt for the $50,000 first prize.

People have been mentioning Coody and fold up in the same breath since the 1969 Masters when he went to the 15th tee in the last round with a one stroke lead and bogyed all of the last four holes. But he virtually wiped out that memory when he won this year's Masters for his first major championship which also earned him a berth in the World Series and his victory here has completed the wipe-out job.

Ranney Wins In A Walk

It was San Rafael High School day at the sixth annual Fairfax Festival Walking Race yesterday as Bill Ranney, a San Rafael high teacher, won for the third time.

His 54:38 clocking over the eight-mile course in sweltering 95 degree weather easily defeated San Rafael High School senior Steve Lund, 56:29.

Goetz Klopfer, another San Rafael H.S. instructor, claimed third at 59:31.

Defending champion Tom Dooley, another San Rafael High faculty member was sidelined by a foot injury, thus reducing the size of the field. In Dooley's absence, Ranney grabbed a short lead at the outset with Klopfer hot on his heels. However, Ranney kept the face pace as Klopfer began fading after three miles.

Meanwhile, Lund, walking his best race to date, was still within striking distance at the five-mile mark before he succumbed to the pressures of heat and pace.

When Lund fell back, Ranney walked home a winner, a full 1:51 ahead of the spread out field. Lithe Sheryl Robinson was 11th, the first female finisher at 69:56.

The top 15:
Bill Ranney, Athens Athletic Club, 54:38; Steve Lund, unattached, 56:29; Goetz Kopfer, Athens Athletic Club, 59:31; Roger Duran, San Jose Yearlings, 60:31; Jim Bentley, Stockton Race Walkers, 62:24; Manuel Adriano, West Valley Track Club, 62:45; Brad Bentley, Stockton Race Walkers, 62:53; Wayne Glusker, West Valley Track Club, 63:30; Jerry Lansing, Athens Athletic Club, 67:12; Dan Horan, Chico State College, 69:25; Sheryl Robinson, Stockton Race Walkers, 69:56; Bryan Snazelle, Stockton Race Walkers, 70:00; Jack Halligan, unattached, 72:00; Lyndon Blodgett, Stockton Race Walkers, 72:45; Phil Mooers, West Valley Track Club, 74:52.

Denmark's Niels Grauballe finished third in the three-nation field of 20 skippers battling on San Francisco Bay. Another Dane, 1970 champion Niels Johansen, claimed the sixth and final heat to take fifth overall, one slot behind Terry Anderlini of San Mateo.

Richard Griffith of Belvedere was ninth, two pegs ahead of Sausalito's Ted McKown. Wynn Oliver, a San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere member, was 13th. Three other S.F. Yacht Cub color bearers took honors, George Sayre, 15th, Art Rude, 18th, and Grant Settlemeier, 19th.

Revson Getting Close To Can-Am Race Title

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Peter Revson of New York is close to the 1971 Canadian-American Challenge Cup driving championship.

Revson moved closer to the title Sunday when he swept to victory in the 210-mile Donnybrooke Can-Am at Brainerd, Minn., averaging better than 119 miles per hour.

Revson earned $17,450 in prize money after piloting his Gulf-McLaren to a 47-second victory over teammate Dennis Hulme of New Zealand, who also drove a Gulf-McLaren. Gregg Young was third.

The victory gave Revson 20 more points in the 10-race competition and boosted his total to 107. Hulme is second with 70 with three races still remaining.

Al Unser sped by his brother, Bobby, on the 247th lap and went on to win the 250-mile Governor's Cup U.S. Auto Club late model stock car race at West Allis, Wis. Al Unser, in a 1971 Ford Torino, managed to win when Bobby decided to forego a pit stop.

San Marin '11' Loses Opener

By RON LENT

Though San Marin High School quarterback Hoza Wright had his troubles, he proved to be an offensive spark in an otherwise lackluster, 34-6 loss, compliments of Gunn High School of Palo Alto, Saturday at Novato High School's field.

Wright bolted 11 yards for the Mustangs' lone tally with 9:22 left in the one-sided contest. However, the visiting Titans proved too experienced and smooth for the young ponies in their opening game.

Subdued Mustang coach Bob Martin had little to say after the 48-minute mauling, but sideline observers and the visiting coaching staff were a bit more loquacious. "Their quarterback and fullback (Fred Doar) were strong," a pair of Titan tutors agreed while running for the team bus.

This opinion was also accepted by numerous arm chair experts; but their enthusiasm was tempered by the final score after seeing Gunn hit paydirt in each period behind the signal calling expertise exhibited by Bob Briggs.

The sharp passing, hard running field general showed triple threat talents, kicking four extra points enroute. Briggs fired four touchdowns, including two 54-yarders.

When Briggs was not wreaking havoc on the youthful San Marin secondary, he was sweeping end or giving off to halfbacks Dolf Placencia and Tom Oberhelman.

Wright also stood out, albeit to a lesser degree. Wright left his leaky pass protection pocket to run 71 yards, 14 more than teammate Fred Doar. The latter played with a lot of heart, in view of an injured knee.

Doar should be in better shape when the Mustangs host Encinal High of Alameda on the same field Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

One Play Costly To Marin

Today Marin Catholic High School football mentor Bruno Banducci was still talking about a broken play which spoiled his head coaching debut Saturday. Salesian High of Richmond won 14-12.

With less than two minutes remaining, the host Wildcats were clinging tenaciously to a seemingly solid 12-7 lead. "After missing two passes, Don Maestas threw a 68-yard bomb which our Russ Knudson intercepted, but when he was hit, the ball popped in the air and a Salesian end caught it. The guy went into the endzone all alone, because the ball never hit the ground," Banducci explained afterward.

"It would have been a nice little win," he continued, "and we stopped them pretty well considering they were so much bigger. We did a good job considering. We didn't tire. We made our yardage in the second half."

Ironically, the locals' two touchdowns came during the first 30 minutes, without benefit of sustained marches. The first was razzle-dazzle play with quarterback Steve Sherry pitching out to tailback Pat Parnow. The strong runner then returned the ball to the signal caller who ran it 59 yards for the first six pointer of the game.

The other Wildcat tally came on a Sherry to John Shallich pass. After catching the aerial, Shallich lateralled to slotback Tom Louderback. The latter bolted the remaining 46 yards for Marin's last offensive outburst of the day.

"We held them well in the second half, also, but they got that winning touchdown on a fluke of errors," he said. "Their first touchdown came after pass interference was called against us inside our 10-yard line." The ensuing score made it 12-7 at the intermission, setting the stage for the second half pyroantics.

5 Shutouts Open Pop Warner Play

Outstanding defensive play highlighted the 18th annual Marin County Pop Warner Football Conference Festival Saturday at College of Marin and yesterday at Marin Catholic High School.

There were five shutouts in the seven games: San Marin Mustangs 20, Novato Hornets 0; San Marin Colts 12, Novato Yellowjackets 0; San Rafael Rangers 12, Petaluma 0; Tamalpais Indians 14, Drake Pirates 0; Drake Buccaneers 14, Tamalpais Redskins 7; Redwood Giants 12, Terra Linda Trojans 8; Terra Linda Trobabes 18, Redwood Gremlins 0.

Pop Warner football is for boys aged 10 through 14 years.

Scoring touchdowns were: Mustangs — John Weston (2), Brett Schaake; Colts — Paul Pater (2 on passes from Marc Flint); Rangers — Tim Coleman, Jeff Mallett; Indians — Doug Smith (2); Buccaneers — Bill Cuneo (2); Redkins — Mike O-Neill (pass from Ken Knudsen); Trobabes — Cory Reade (2) and Wayne Bonfante.

Bunce Named Player Of Week

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Like his illustrious predecessor, quarterback Don Bunce of Stanford is beginning to reap some honors.

The 6-1, 196-pound successor to Jim Plunkett today was picked the first 1971 Pacific-8 Conference offensive player of the week. The former Woodside High School star was at the throttle most of the way as Stanford ran up 353 yards in a season-opening 19-0 win over Missouri.

Bunce engineered a pair of touchdown drives for the Indians in the second quarter and directed the squad to within range of two successful field goals. He hit on 12 of 26 passes for 149 yards, including a 26-yard scoring toss to sophomore flanker John Winesberry.

5 Marin Teams In Scrums

Five Marin County Athletic League football teams got in their first scrimmage licks against other schools Saturday under a broiling sun.

Coaches minimized scoreboard importance, preferring to discuss overall developments and team enthusiasm; San Rafael, Novato, Terra Linda, Drake and Redwood High Schools sqnt two hours each in scrums.

Terra Linda Trojan mentor Don Lucas was pleased with running back Mike Sabel's 65-yard off tackle touchdown scurry, despite the 28-9 count favoring host Pinole Valley.

Redwood also came out on the short end as Alameda handed the Giants a 30-6 slap. However, coach Phil Roark, while not overjoyed with the score, was happy with the development of sophomore halfback Bill Edralin, making his first varsity appearance. The young fullback drew accolades for solid running efforts on the Larkspur field.

Besides the score, Roark's only other regret was the loss of backup quarterback John Troppmann. He will probably miss the opener Saturday with visiting Sacred Heart of San Francisco.

The Novato Hornets outscored visiting Harry Ells of Oakland, four touchdowns to three as returning All League Quarterback Marty Moroski unlimbered his talented throwing arm.

While the Hornets, Giants and Trojans performed in game-like conditions, San Rafael High held a controlled scrum.

One area Drake won't have to apparently worry about is the defense. In a controlled scrimmage in Alameda, coach Bob Franchescini's charges proved "we could stop people" against Encinal High School. Offensively, the San Anselmo mentor said, "we need some work, but we are coming along pretty well."

John Miller Wins $20,000 First Prize

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI) — John Miller became the eighth first-time winner on the PGA tour this season when he scored a five-stroke triumph Sunday in the South Open Invitational Tournament.

The 24-year-old Californian fired a three-under-par 67 in his final round for a record-breaking total of 267, 13-under-par. He took home $20,000 as first prize.

"I'd planned to go fishing and decided at the last minute to cancel it," Miller said. "I'm glad I did. I'll be here every year."

Football

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Place kicker Tom Dempsey, whose 63-yard field goal set a national football league record, was placed on wavers but went unclaimed by the other 25 NFL teams, a New Orleans Saints spokesman said Sunday.

Dempsey was successful on only one of eight field goal attempts in five pre-season games this year.

The record 63-yard boot gave the Saints a 19-17 win over the Detroit Lions Nov. 8, 1970. Dempsey's feat was considered even more remarkable because he was born with only half a right foot, his kicking foot, and no right hand.

According to the spokesman, the Saints have until Thursday to activate Dempsey, place him on the taxi squad or release him completely.

Baseball

MONTREAL (UPI) — Gene Mauch, manager of the Montreal Expos, Sunday had his contract extended through the 1973 season.

Mauch, who had one year to run on his current contract, was given an extension of one-year by Expos' general manager Jim Fanning. Mauch, 45, has been the manager of the Expos since they entered the National League in 1969.

The Expos have finished last in the East Division in the previous two years but stand a good chance of escaping the cellar this year.

Tennis

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Arthur Ashe and Ken Rosewall of Australia will meet in a $1,000 exhibition tennis match at the Golden Gateway Club Sept. 25.

The event will benefit the Youth Tennis Foundation and also kick off the $50,000 Redwood Bank International Open championships at the Berkeley Tennis Club Sept. 25 through Oct. 3.

NFL Completes Exhibition Slate

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Pro football's pre-season schedule, a season unto itself, finally is over and all that remains before next weekend's opening games is the paring down of rosters.

The exhibition season came to a close Sunday as Detroit clobbered Philadelphia 49-10, Pittsburgh ripped the New York Giants 20-3, Houston downed New Orleans 24-17 and Chicago drubbed Denver 33-17. What faces the National Football League's 26 coaches today is the 4 p.m. EDT deadline for trimming rosters to 40 players.

And complicating the matter further is the fact that since this is the last cut of the exhibition season, waivers cannot be recalled. There'll be lots of juggling and manipulating to avoid losing some valuable property for the $100 waiver price.

Detroit, prepping for its big season opener against Minnesota, a game which could set the tone of the National Conference's tough Central Division race, ran roughshod over the hapless Eagles. Greg Landry, out the last two weeks with a twisted knee, returned to action Sunday night with a four touchdown performance, including three TD passes to tight end Charlie Sanders, to power the Lions to victory.

Landry hit Sanders with TD passes of 49, eight and four yards and also threw an 18-yard scoring pass to Ron Jessie. Mel Farr and Bill Triplett scored on short runs and reserve quarterback Bill Munson added a six-yard TD pass to Craig Cotton.

Pete Liske's four-yard pass to Gary Ballman in the second quarter provided the only Philadelphia TD.

John Fuqua rambled 52 yards with a short pass from Terry Bradshaw to break open a close defensive battle and lead the Steelers over the Giants.

Houston built up a 21-3 halftime lead and then held off New Orleans' second half rally to beat the Saints. Joe Dawkins' 35-yard run, a 61-yard punt return by Zeke Moore and Charlie Johnson's 35-yard pass to Jim Bierne accounted for three Oiler scores in the first half before Manning rallied the Saints for a pair of third quarter TDs.

Mac Percival kicked four field goals and Jack Concannon and Kent Nix threw a TD pass each as the Bears rallied from a 14-point first period deficit to defeat the Broncos. Denver took a 14-0 lead on a pair of TD passes by Don Horn of three yards to Jim Whalen and 64 to Dwight Harrison before Don Shy's six-yard run and Concannon's 17-yard pass to Bob Wallace tied the score.

Two field goals by Percival, a 55-yard TD pass from Nix to Dick Gordon and two more Percival field goals put the game out of reach.

In Saturday action, Cincinnati and Washington played to a 1717 tie, Dallas stopped Kansas City 24-17, Minnesota shut out Miami 24-0, Oakland crushed Baltimore 24-3 and San Diego whipped Atlanta 21-14.

Bill Kilmer, playing in place of the injured Sonny Jurgesen, threw a 42-yard TD pass to Jerry Smith in the fourth quarter to help the Redskins tie Cincinnati.

Dallas finished with the NFL's only unbeaten pre-season record —6-0 —when Craig Morton threw a 70-yard TD pass to Gloster Richardson with 4:03 remainung in the game to boost the Cowboys over Kansas City. Richardson, obtained from Kansas City in an off-season trade, pulled in the pass from Morton on the 23 and raced in untouched.

Len Dawson had TD passes for 48 yards to rookie Elmo Wright and 55 to Otis Taylor.

Clint Jones ran for two scores and Norm Snead threw a 45-yard TD pass to John Henderson as the Vikings humbled Miami.

Stanford Wins; Cal Is Drubbed

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Stanford and Washington took an early sniff of the roses over the weekend while the rest of the Pacific-8 Conference appeared to be suffering from sinus trouble.

All of the Pac-8 schools opened their 1971 gridiron seasons against intersectional foes but only the Indians of Stanford—the 1971 Rose Bowl winner—and the Huskies of Washington were victorius.

Behind a stalwart defense and the quarterbacking of Don Bunce, Stanford blanked Missouri 19-0 for the first shutout suffered by the Tigers in 38 games. Junior quarterback Sonny Sixkiller threw touchdown passes of 42 and 27 yards while seeing limited action in Washington's 65-7 blitz of UC Santa Barbara.

The two Pac-8 schools from Los Angeles—UCLA and USC—dropped their openers. Pittsburgh edged the Bruins 29-25 Saturday night after Alabama had disposed of USC 17-10 Friday night. The Trojans were ranked fourth and UCLA 14th in UPI's pre-season poll.

Top-ranked Nebraska piled up 426 yards and contained quarterback Dan Fouts and tailback Bobby Moore in whipping Oregon 34-7 at Lincoln, Neb. Oregon is expected to battle USC, Stanford and Washington for the Pac-8 title this season.

In other road games involving Pac-8 teams, Arkansas overwhelmed California 51-20, Georgia outgunned Oregon State 5625 and Kansas whitewashed Washington State 34-0.

In the Pacific Coast Athletic Association, defending champion Long Beach State traveled to Jackson, Miss., and dropped a 29-13 decision to the Mississippi Rebels while Miami of Ohio pinned a 17-10 loss on University of Pacific at Stockson.

Two upstarts from the Far Western Conference pulled surprises. Tiny Hayward State defeated Fresno State 18-14 and San Francisco State nipped Puget Sound 35-34.

"It was a typical opening game," said Stanford coach John Ralston. "We did some things right and some things wrong. We expected Missouri to open up more in the second half."

Bunce, who inherited the Indians starting quarterback role from Jim Plunkett, completed 12 of 26 passes for 149 yards. He also hit sophomore Flanker John Winesberry for a 26-yard scoring pass.

But Buncegave all the credit to the Stanford defense led by linebacker Jeff Siemon, guards Larry Butler and Pete Lazetich and new defensive back Dennis Bragonier, filling in for the injured Charlie McCloud.

"Offensively, we have to credit our defense more than anything else for turning the ball over to us so often," said Bunce.

Stanford accumulated 353 yards on offense compared to 147 for Mizzou. And in soccer style kicker Rod Garcia, the Indians found a successor to Steve Horowitz. Garcia booted field goals of 44 and 28 yards.

Steve Kemnitzer scored twice on two-yard smashes to give Cal a 13-7 lead over Arkansas but the Razorbacks bounced back behind quarterback Joe Ferguson to rout the Bears. Arkansas piled up 593 yards on offense.

"They just out-executed us," said Cal coach Ray Willsey. "Our defensive secondary didn't support against the run very well. We had a lot of breakdowns all over the field."

In addition to losing a game, the Bears also lost quarterback Reed Chastang with an injury to his right shoulder. He undergoes surgery Tuesday and will be lost to the Bears for at least six weeks. Jay Cruze will take over at quarterback.

Marin Tars In Double Scrimmage

Reserve quarterback Bob Daniele ran for two touchdowns and passed 68 yards to Mike Phillips for a third, Tom McGrath scored on a 70-yard pass from Kevin Peak and fullback Dean Deffenbaugh plunged two yards for another score Saturday to highlight College of Marin's offensive scrimmage against Diablo Valley College of Concord at Kentfield.

Daniele, former Terra Linda High School star, completed 14 of 30 passes for 204 yards and ran for 41 yards while Peak connected on 10 of 22 attempts for 135 yards. Marin's leading rusher was Leon Delisle with 46 yards.

In the defensive scrimmage Saturday evening at Concord, standouts for Marin were linebackers Chris Fenton, Rick Puccinelli, Dennis Miller and Rick Gifford, end Ken Blasingame and tackle Frank Pomilia. Pomilia recovered two fumbles while Art Monroe, McGrath and Dave Perron each intercepted a pass.

Warriors Sign Baptiste

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Golden State Warriors, who begin official National Basketball Association pre-season workouts this week, have signed 6-9 center Cyril Baptiste, a Creighton junior selected in a supplemental draft for collegiate hardship cases.

Terms of the agreement, which was announced Sunday, were not revealed, but a Warriors spokesman said Baptiste "can no longer be considered a financial hardship case."

Baptiste, the oldest of four children whose father was killed 18 years ago while enroute to the hospital for the birth of the youngest Baptiste boy, averaged 19.1 points per game in his two-year collegiate career along with 11.5 rebounds per game.

Warriors general manager Bob Ferrick said that by drafting Baptiste now the club loses its first round draft pick next spring.

"Had Baptiste been eligible last spring," Ferrick said, "we would have picked him No. 1."

Instead, the Warriors chose Darnell Hillman of San Jose State and the U.S. Army, but Hillman signed with the Indiana Pacers of the American Basketball Association.

Baptiste will arrive in San Francisco and join his new teammates in informal workouts. The Warriors, who will play all their home games this season in the Oakland Coliseum Arena, open official training sessions Thursday at San Jose City College.

The 15 men on the regular roster, including player-coach Al Attles, also numbers several rookies. Forward Odis Allison of Nevada-Las Vegas and guard Greg Gary of St. Bonaventure are among this year's draft crop as is guard Charlie Johnson of California, who has not signed but will probably join the camp.

Other newcomers include former Michigan forward Cazzie Russell, acquired in a trade with New York for Jerry Lucas, and guard-forward Jim Barnett, picked up from the Portland Trail blazers.

World's Record Ping Pong Game

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The score was 2,602 to 2,509 when Warren Murray and his wife wearily dropped their paddles Sunday after a 24-hour ping pong match.

Murray, 29, a television writer who is the son of comedian Jan Murray, and his wife, Hope, 28, claimed the world's record for the longest singles table tennis match and the highest singles score.

"We looked up in the Guinness Book of Records and noted there wasn't a record for the longest, highest scoring singles match played between two people," Murray said. "A record was set in 1970 for continuous singles play of 424 hours but that was with four alternating players."

Pollution's Pied Piper

It only takes one person or one group within a city or town to take the lead in a good pollution fight. Just one group or person that knows what it takes to beat the problem.

Like keeping in close touch with local budget and zoning matters; or establishing clean-up or beautification committees; or urging local support for sewage treatment plants; maybe driving for more trash receptacles and better "street furniture."

There's one more thing you can do to start your town's anti-pollution fight: Write for a free booklet, "71 Things You Can Do To Stop Pollution," Box 1771, Radio City Station, New York, New York.

People start pollution. People can stop it.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Finance Needs Limit Growth

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would like to know about the rights being offered by Pacific Tel. & Tel. Should I buy or sell the rights? Should I sell my stock and take a $2500 loss? It pays a good dividend but what are the chances of it going up? — S.Q.

A. Under terms of this rights offering, which expires Sept. 30, you will be entitled to purchase one common share at $16.375 for each eight shares you now hold. In your case you would be able to increase your holdings by 25 shares. Otherwise the rights should be sold through your broker. And, unless income is of paramount concern, I would advise taking the latter option.

Full acceptance of the Pacific rights offering will increase the common outstanding by 13 per cent, diluting common share earnings proportionately. Construction expenditures are anticipated at $1.7 billion for 1971 and 1972. By 1975 these costs are expected to reach $1 billion annually, financed in part by additional common share offerings.

Earnings progress will, in effect, be restricted in proportion to the mounting number of common shares outstanding. Rising interest and construction expenses will also be a factor in limiting Pacific's growth potential.

Q. How are over-the-counter purchases handled? — R. D.

A. OTC purchases are made just like any other, as far as you personally are concerned. They are, however, handled differently by your broker, who acquires stock by negotiation rather than by auction on the floor of an exchange, as is the case with listed stocks. If your investment house acts as a broker, it will buy shares for your account and bill you as agent, charging about the same commission as you would have to pay for a listed stock. If it acts as a dealer, it will bill you as principal at a net price which includes its normal markup.

Jittery Investors Send Stocks Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks were slightly lower in quiet trading through the second hour today.

Electronic and selected specialty issues came under the most pressure. Chemicals ranged to more than a point lower. Steels were steady to fractionally easier, while motors, oils, airlines and aircrafts moved over narrowly irregular paths.

Profit taking, spilling over from late last week, accounted for part of the setback. Another key reason, however, stemmed from investor uncertainty over what action President Nixon will take in phase two in his new program designed to spur economic recovery.

Standard & Poor's 500 stock index showed a loss of 0.23 at100.19, and declines topped advances by 200 issues.

Prices also retreated in routine trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Among the most heavily traded Amex issues were Equity Corp. down slightly on 22,000 shares, House of Fabrics, Inc. down fractionally on 21,000 shares, and Presley Development up more than a point on 13,000 shares.

On the Big Board, weakest spots included Bausch & Lomb down 4 3-8 and IBM 3 1-4. Among the issues down a point or so were Eastman Kodak, Missouri Pacific Railroad, Honeywell, Polaroid and Wrigley.

Fractionally lower were Bethlehem Steel, Atlantic Richfield, Southern Pacific, UAL Inc., General Dynamics, General Electric, Westinghouse, Zenith, Xerox, and American Telephone.

Table-Top Computer Device May Replace Vote Machines

An unemployed aerospace engineer, James Whitworth of Greenbrae, has developed a table-top computer device, which he says promises to obsolete every voting machine in the country.

Called the Ballotmaster, the machine electronically records and stores votes in a memory system at each precinct. When the polls close, memory banks are interrogated over telephone lines by a processor-storage unit at central election headquarters.

Whitworth, who hopes to find financing for his Ballotmaster before the 1972 elections, says its accuracy is assured electronically by eliminating the human error in the voting process and by the fact that the voter punches an IBM card when casting his vote. This can be checked later against the electronic vote. And it is said to work fast — recording total votes for entire counties within minutes after the polls close.

How much does it cost? Whitworth is shooting for a figure of $1,000 per precenct for one Ballotmaster and its memory unit.
